A. Spiteful

B. Depressed

C. Appreciative/Joyful

D. Ambitious

64. How does the Duke objectify the Duchess?

A. By refusing to give her an allowance

B. By making her work in the fields

C. By comparing her to a horse

D. By turning her into an art object he can fully control

65. What does the Duke's name-dropping of Fra Pandolf and Claus of Innsbruck indicate?

A. He values the artists' names more than the subjects of the art.

B. He is close friends with these artists.

C. He is trying to help them get commissions.

D. He doesn't know anything about art.

66. "A heart... too soon made glad" is a direct criticism of the Duchess's:

A. Quick temper

B. Naivety and lack of aristocratic discrimination

C. Tendency to fall in love with other men

D. Weak physical heart

67. What is the Envoy's reaction to the Duke's monologue?

A. He argues with the Duke.

B. He cries for the Duchess.

C. He remains completely silent.

A. The reader knows the Duke is lying about the painting.

B. The Duke believes he is presenting himself as a justified, noble aristocrat, but the reader sees him as a tyrannical murderer.

C. The Envoy knows the Duke is poor.

D. The Duchess is actually still alive.

71. "Looking as if she were alive" appears how many times in the poem (in variations)?

A. Once

B. Twice

C. Three times

D. Four times

72. Why does the Duke mention the "white mule"?

A. To mock her childishness

B. To show his immense wealth

C. As an example of a simple thing she valued as much as his noble name

D. Because she died riding it

73. The Duke's aesthetic appreciation of art is purely:

A. Emotional

B. Spiritual

C. Possessive

D. Altruistic

74. The phrase "Then all smiles stopped together" functions as a:

A. Euphemism for murder

C. Hyperbole for a sad day

B. Metaphor for sunset

D. Simile for silence

75. What does the Duke's treatment of the Envoy's master (the Count) suggest?

A. The Duke considers the Count his superior.

B. The Duke considers the Count an equal but expects subservience from the Envoy.

C. The Duke considers himself culturally and socially superior to both.

D. The Duke is afraid of the Count.

76. In line 1, "That's my last Duchess painted on the wall," the word "my" establishes a theme of:

A. Ownership

C. Confusion

B. Endearment

D. Forgiveness

77. "Fra Pandolf chanced to say, 'Her mantle laps / Over my lady's wrist too much.'" This quote shows:

A. The Duke's deep understanding of painting techniques

B. The Duke's imagined or real suspicion of the painter complimenting her

C. The Duchess's poor fashion sense

D. The painter's incompetence

78. What does "officious" mean in the phrase "some officious fool"?

A. Official and formal

B. Wealthy and powerful

C. Office-working

D. Meddlesome and excessively forward in offering help

79. The Duke's insistence that "strangers like you that pictured countenance" turn to him to ask about it shows:

A. His helpful nature

B. His complete control over her image and who observes it

C. His desire to sell tickets to his gallery

D. His lack of knowledge about the painting

80. "Notice Neptune, though, / Taming a sea-horse, thought a rarity."
What does "rarity" imply here?

A. The Duke only values unique, expensive objects.

B. The Duke is fascinated by mythical creatures.

C. The statue is made of a cheap material.

D. The Duke found it in the ocean.

81. Which poetic device is evident in the line: "The dropping of the daylight in the West"?

A. Alliteration

B. Onomatopoeia

C. Oxymoron

D. Synecdoche

82. To which literary movement does Robert Browning belong?

A. Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood

C. Romanticism

B. Victorianism

D. Transcendentalism

83. Who was Robert Browning's wife, a famous poet in her own right?

A. Christina Rossetti

B. Mary Shelley

C. Emily Brontë

D. Elizabeth Barrett Browning

84. The Duke's monologue is an exercise in:

A. Religious confession

B. Mourning and grief

C. Self-justification and intimidation

D. Philosophical inquiry

85. Why does the Duke choose to speak to the Envoy in front of the Duchess's portrait?

A. It is the only warm room in the house.

B. It serves as an unspoken threat regarding the behavior expected of his next wife.

C. The Envoy asked to see the painting.

D. The light is best there.

86. What is the "gift" the Duke feels the Duchess did not appreciate enough?

A. The painting

B. The cherries

C. His nine-hundred-years-old name

D. The bronze statue

87. Which best describes the Duchess's perceived "crime"?

A. Adultery with Fra Pandolf

B. Plotting to overthrow the Duke

C. Failing to distinguish between the Duke's noble favor and common pleasures

D. Stealing from the Duke's treasury

88. "My Last Duchess" frequently appears on UG TRB exams to test knowledge of:

A. The conventions of the Victorian dramatic monologue

B. 18th-century satire

C. Medieval dream visions

D. Modernist fragmentation

89. How does the Duke's syntax (sentence structure) reflect his personality?

A. Short, fragmented sentences show his timidity.

B. Long, controlled, and winding sentences punctuated by dashes reflect his manipulative and commanding nature.

C. Lyrical, rhythmic sentences reflect his deep love.

D. Constant questions show his uncertainty.

90. In the context of UG TRB exams, Browning's characters like the Duke are often labeled as:

A. Flawless heroes

B. Purely autobiographical representations of Browning

C. Flat, one-dimensional villains

D. Grotesque or psychologically complex anti-heroes

91. The line "As if she ranked / My gift of a nine-hundred-years-old name / With anybody's gift" demonstrates the Duke's:

A. Extreme patrician arrogance

B. Deep insecurity about his wealth

C. Appreciation for egalitarianism

D. Forgiving nature

92. What is the effect of the Duke referring to the new bride as his "object"? ("The Count your master's... fair daughter's self... is my object")

A. It highlights his romantic devotion.

B. It shows he is distracted.

C. It reveals he views women as acquisitions and property.

D. It indicates he is planning a military campaign.

93. The mention of "Claus of Innsbruck" at the end of the poem serves to:

A. Introduce a new plotline.

B. Emphasize the Duke's continued focus on accumulating prestigious art rather than mourning his wife.

C. Warn the Envoy of an assassin.

D. Pay tribute to a real historical artist.

94. What is the Duke's attitude toward the act of painting itself?

- A. He sees it as a spiritual act.
- B. He considers it a sin.
- C. He believes only women should paint.

D. He sees it as a mechanical process to capture a possession.

95. When the Duke says, "Oh sir, she smiled, no doubt, / Whene'er I passed her; but who passed without / Much the same smile?", he is complaining about her:

- A. Lack of intelligence
- B. Cruelty

C. Overly egalitarian warmth

D. Refusal to look at him

96. How does the poem reflect the Victorian concept of the "Angel in the House"?

UNIT – 4 BRITISH LITERATURE - II

Q 1: Arrange the following historical milestones related to G.M. Hopkins and "God's Grandeur" in the correct chronological order:

- I. The first publication of the poem in Poems of Gerard Manley Hopkins.
- II. Hopkins' conversion to Roman Catholicism.
- III. The composition of "God's Grandeur" at St. Beuno's College in Wales.
- IV. The death of G.M. Hopkins.

A) II, III, IV, I

B) II, IV, III, I

C) III, II, I, IV

D) I, III, II, IV

Rationale: Hopkins converted to Catholicism in 1866 (II), wrote the poem in 1877 (III), died in 1889 (IV), and the poem was posthumously published by his friend Robert Bridges in 1918 (I).

Q 2: Match the following poetic images from "God's Grandeur" (List I) with their symbolic meanings (List II):

List I

I. Shook foil

II. Ooze of oil

III. Man's smudge

IV. Bright wings

List II

- 1.The slow, pressurized accumulation of divine grace
- 2.The sudden, brilliant flashing of God's omnipresence
- 3.The nurturing, protective nature of the Holy Spirit
- 4.The corrupting, degrading stain of industrialization

A) I-2, II-1, III-4, IV-3

B) I-1, II-2, III-3, IV-4

C) I-2, II-4, III-1, IV-3

D) I-4, II-1, III-2, IV-3

Rationale: "Shook foil" represents sudden flashing light (2); "ooze of oil" represents grace gathered under pressure (1); "smudge" represents industrial decay (4); and "bright wings" represent the Holy Ghost (3).

Q 3: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): In the octave of the poem, Hopkins suggests that the earth has permanently and irreversibly lost its connection to the divine due to human trade.

Reason (R): The soil is described as "bare now, nor can foot feel, being shod," indicating mankind's sensory and spiritual alienation from nature.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: The Assertion is false because Hopkins explicitly states in the sestet that "nature is never spent"—the loss is not permanent. The Reason is true, as shoes ("being shod") symbolize the barrier between man and the natural/divine world.

Q 4: What is the exact rhyme scheme of "God's Grandeur"?

A) abba abba cde cde

B) abab cdcd efef gg

C) abba abba cdcdcd

D) abba cddc effe gg

Rationale: The poem is a strict Petrarchan (Italian) sonnet. The octave follows the traditional abbaabba pattern, and the sestet follows an alternating cdcdcd pattern.

Q 5: Arrange the following images in the chronological sequence they appear in the text of "God's Grandeur":

I. The Holy Ghost brooding

II. The ooze of oil crushed

III. The last lights off the black West

IV. Generations treading the soil

A) IV, III, II, I

C) II, III, IV, I

B) IV, II, I, III

D) II, IV, III, I

Rationale: "Ooze of oil" is in line 3 (II); "Generations have trod" is in line 5 (IV); "black West" is in line 11 (III); and "Holy Ghost" is in line 13-14 (I).

Q 6: Which influential medieval philosopher's concept of individual uniqueness heavily inspired Hopkins' themes in "God's Grandeur"?

A) Thomas Aquinas

B) Duns Scotus

C) Augustine of Hippo

D) William of Ockham

Rationale: John Duns Scotus's concept of haecceity (this-ness) directly inspired Hopkins' concepts of "inscape" and "instress," dictating how God's grandeur is uniquely manifested in every distinct thing.

Q 7: The line "It will flame out, like shining from shook foil" is a prime example of which set of poetic devices?

A) Simile and Alliteration

C) Synecdoche and Assonance

B) Metaphor and Personification

D) Hyperbole and Onomatopoeia

Rationale: "Like shining" makes it a simile, while "flame," "from," and "foil" / "shining" and "shook" utilize heavy alliteration, a hallmark of Hopkins' style.

Q 8: What specific time sequence is represented in the transitional imagery of the poem's sestet?

A) Midnight to Midday

B) Midday to Midnight

C) Dawn to Dusk

D) Sunset to Sunrise

Rationale: The poem moves from the darkness of night ("last lights off the black West went") to the renewal of morning ("Oh, morning, at the brown brink eastward, springs").

Q 9: Read the line: "And all is seared with trade; bleared, smeared with toil." Which device creates the dense, heavy rhythm in this line?

A) Internal rhyme

B) Enjambment

C) Blank verse

D) Chiasmus

Rationale: The internal rhyme of "seared," "bleared," and "smeared" mimics the monotonous, repetitive, and suffocating nature of industrial human labor.

Q 10: In the context of Hopkins' personal theology, what does the term "Instress" mean as it applies to "God's Grandeur"?

A) The unique, inner pattern or identity of an object.

B) The psychological pressure of Victorian religious doubt.

C) The spiritual energy or force that holds an object's identity together and delivers it to the observer.

D) The metrical system of omitting unstressed syllables.

Rationale: While Inscape is the unique design of a thing, Instress is the divine energy that actualizes that design and allows a human being to perceive God's grandeur within it.

Q 11: Match the following vocabulary words from the poem (List I) with their contextual meanings (List II):

List I

I. Reck

II. Rod

III. Shod

IV. Broods

List II

1.Divine authority or discipline

2.Wearing shoes or boots

3.To hover over protectively, like a bird

4.To pay attention to or heed

A) I-4, II-1, III-2, IV-3

C) I-4, II-2, III-1, IV-3

B) I-1, II-4, III-3, IV-2

D) I-2, II-1, III-4, IV-3

Rationale: "Reck" means to heed (4); "rod" symbolizes God's discipline (1); "shod" means wearing shoes (2); and "broods" describes a mother bird sitting on a nest (3).

Q 12: The repetition of the phrase "have trod, have trod, have trod" primarily serves to emphasize:

A) The steady march of military conquest.

B) The exhausting, mechanical monotony of human generations disconnected from nature.

C) The joyful dance of agricultural workers.

D) The rhythmic ticking of a clock measuring out human lifespans.

Rationale: The exact lexical repetition, combined with heavy stresses, physically enacts the relentless, wearying, and destructive march of industrialization and human toil over the earth.

Q 13: Which literary device is dominantly employed in the phrase "nor can foot feel, being shod"?

A) Synecdoche

B) Oxymoron

C) Litotes

D) Zeugma

Rationale: "Foot" is used as a synecdoche, representing the whole of mankind and their lost physical and spiritual connection to the earth.

Q 14: What is the primary function of the Volta (turn) between the octave and the sestet in this poem?

A) It shifts the tone from hope to utter despair.

B) It transitions from a critique of human degradation of nature to a reaffirmation of nature's endless divine renewal.

C) It changes the subject from the natural world to the industrial city.

D) It moves from a third-person narrative to a first-person confession.

Rationale: The octave laments how mankind has ruined the earth ("bare now"), but the sestet's volta ("And for all this...") pivots to the resilient, inexhaustible grace of God in nature.

Q 15: The metaphor of the Holy Ghost with "warm breast and with ah! bright wings" most closely aligns with which biblical imagery?

A) The eagle of the Book of Revelation

B) The dove at the baptism of Christ and the spirit hovering over the waters in Genesis

C) The ravens feeding Elijah

D) The pelican piercing its own breast

Rationale: The imagery of the Holy Ghost as a bird "brooding" over the bent world echoes Genesis 1:2 (the Spirit hovering over the waters) and the dove of peace/baptism.

Q 16: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): Hopkins uses the phrase "the ooze of oil / Crushed" to describe a rapid, explosive revelation of God.

Reason (R): Olive oil must be slowly and heavily pressed to extract its essence, symbolizing how divine grace can also be gathered slowly under pressure.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: The Assertion is false because "ooze of oil" represents the slow, steady gathering of God's presence, directly contrasting the "flame out" (rapid) imagery of the shook foil. The Reason is a true explanation of the metaphor.

Q 17: Which Victorian movement is "God's Grandeur" most directly reacting against?

A) The Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood

B) The Oxford Movement

C) Industrial Capitalism and Utilitarianism

D) The Aesthetic Movement ("Art for Art's Sake")

Rationale: The references to "trade," "toil," and "man's smudge" are direct critiques of the Industrial Revolution, utilitarianism, and the resulting environmental and spiritual degradation.

Q 18: What metric innovation is Gerard Manley Hopkins famous for utilizing in his poetry, including this sonnet?

A) Free verse

C) Iambic hexameter

B) Quantitative meter

D) Sprung rhythm

Rationale: Hopkins developed "Sprung rhythm," designed to mimic natural speech, where each foot has one stressed syllable followed by a varying number of unstressed syllables.

Q 19: Who was the key literary figure responsible for preserving and eventually publishing "God's Grandeur" 29 years after Hopkins' death?

A) W.B. Yeats

B) T.S. Eliot

C) Robert Bridges

D) Coventry Patmore

Rationale: Robert Bridges, the Poet Laureate and Hopkins' close friend from Oxford, kept Hopkins' manuscripts and published them in 1918 when he felt the public was ready for their radical style.

Q 20: Match the following structural elements of "God's Grandeur" (List I) with their corresponding lines (List II):

List I

I. The Proposition / Thesis

II. The Volta

III. The Sestet

IV. The Conclusion / Resolution

List II

1.Lines 9-14

2.Line 1

3.Line 9

4.Lines 13-14

A) I-2, II-3, III-1, IV-4

B) I-1, II-4, III-2, IV-3

C) I-2, II-1, III-3, IV-4

D) I-3, II-2, III-4, IV-1

Rationale: Line 1 is the thesis ("The world is charged..."); Line 9 is the Volta ("And for all this..."); Lines 9-14 make up the Sestet; Lines 13-14 resolve the poem with the Holy Ghost imagery.

Q 21: In the line "Why do men then now not reckon his rod?", the use of "then now not" is an example of Hopkins' tendency to:

A) Use archaic medieval phrasing.

B) Pad the line to fit a strict iambic pentameter.

C) Imitate Latin grammatical structures exclusively.

D) Compress and disrupt standard syntax for dramatic emphasis.

Rationale: Hopkins frequently disrupted standard English syntax, jamming monosyllabic words together to force the reader to slow down and place heavy stress on each concept (then, now, not).

Q 22: What color imagery is used to contrast the despair of the modern world with the hope of divine renewal?

A) Red vs. Green

B) Grey vs. Gold

C) Black vs. Brown/Bright

D) White vs. Black

Rationale: The end of the poem contrasts the "black West" (sunset/death/despair) with the "brown brink eastward" and "bright wings" (morning/resurrection/hope).

Q 23: Chronologically, "God's Grandeur" was written during a period of great joy in Hopkins' life. What event had just occurred?

A) His ordination as a Jesuit priest in 1877.

B) His appointment as Professor of Greek in Dublin.

C) The successful publication of "The Wreck of the Deutschland."

D) His conversion to Catholicism in 1866.

Rationale: Hopkins wrote the poem in 1877 while studying theology at St. Beuno's in Wales, the same year he was ordained. It was a period of intense spiritual joy and connection to nature.

Q 24: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem is fundamentally an expression of Pantheism.

Reason (R): Hopkins states that "the world is charged with the grandeur of God," meaning God and the physical universe are exactly the same entity.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) Both (A) and (R) are false.

Rationale: Both are false. Hopkins was a Jesuit Catholic; his theology is Panentheism (God is in all things, "deep down things"), not Pantheism (God is all things). God remains a distinct creator brooding over the "bent world."

Q 25: The phrase "bent / World" at the end of the poem suggests:

A) A world curving geographically as a globe.

B) A world distorted and corrupted by original sin and human action.

C) The curvature of a bird's nest.

D) Both B and C.

Rationale: "Bent" carries a double meaning: morally warped or corrupted by humanity, but physically curved like an egg or nest over which the Holy Ghost protective broods.

Q 26: Match the Hopkins-specific terms to their correct definitions:

List I

I. Sprung Rhythm

II. Inscape

III. Instress

IV. Curtal Sonnet

List II

1.A shortened sonnet form (e.g., Pied Beauty)

2.Meter built on a set number of stresses per line, regardless of syllables

3.The spiritual energy that communicates an object's uniqueness to the soul

4.The distinctive inner structure or design of a thing

A) I-2, II-4, III-3, IV-1

B) I-4, II-3, III-2, IV-1

C) I-2, II-1, III-4, IV-3

D) I-3, II-4, III-1, IV-2

Rationale: Sprung Rhythm relies on stresses (2); Inscape is inner design (4); Instress is the communicating energy (3); Curtal Sonnet is a 10.5-line poem (1).

Q 27: The word "charged" in the opening line ("The world is charged with the grandeur of God") functions as a pun. What are its two primary meanings here?

- A) Arrested by police and physically attacked.
- B) Rushing forward and emotionally turbulent.
- C) Paid for with money and loaded with cargo.

D) Filled with electrical energy and entrusted with a duty/command.

Rationale: "Charged" invokes the new Victorian technology of electricity (like a battery filled with power) and a spiritual mandate or command (the world is entrusted with God's glory).

Q 28: What is the primary difference between the octave and the sestet in terms of sensory imagery?

- A) The octave focuses on sight, while the sestet focuses on sound.

B) The octave emphasizes tactile loss and visual smudging, while the sestet emphasizes warmth, light, and restoration.

- C) The octave uses solely natural imagery, while the sestet uses urban imagery.

- D) There is no difference; both use identical imagery.

Rationale: The octave describes the loss of touch ("nor can foot feel") and sight ("bleared, smeared"). The sestet restores sensation with "freshness," "lights," "warm breast," and "bright wings."

Q 29: Arrange the following emotional states in the chronological sequence they are experienced by the speaker in the poem:

- I. Despair over human destruction
- II. Awe at divine omnipresence
- III. Comfort and triumphant hope
- IV. Bafflement at human ignorance

A) IV, II, I, III

B) I, II, III, IV

C) II, I, IV, III

D) II, IV, I, III

Rationale: The speaker starts with awe ("charged" - II), moves to bafflement ("Why do men then now not reckon..." - IV), descends into despair over industrialization (I), and ends with comfort in the Holy Ghost (III).

Q 30: The word "shining" in the line "It will flame out, like shining from shook foil" acts grammatically as a/an:

A) Adjective

B) Participle

C) Verbal Noun (Gerund)

D) Adverb

Rationale: Hopkins uses "shining" as a noun here (the act of shining) to make the physical property of light tangible and substantive, a common trait of his linguistic experimentation.

Q 31: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): In the line "nature is never spent," the word "spent" acts as an economic metaphor directly contrasting with the octave.

Reason (R): The octave heavily utilizes the vocabulary of Victorian commerce and industry, such as "trade" and "toil," suggesting that while human economics deplete resources, divine economics are inexhaustible.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: Hopkins deliberately uses transactional vocabulary ("trade," "spent") to show how industrial capitalism exhausts the earth, while contrasting it with the infinite, non-transactional grace of God that cannot be bankrupted.

Q 32: Match the following sonic devices (List I) with the corresponding lines from the poem (List II):

List I

I. Heavy Consonance (d/t sounds)

II. Internal Rhyme

III. Exclamatory Interjection

IV. Alliteration of 'b' and 'w'

List II

1. "bleared, smeared with toil"
2. "broods with warm breast and with ah! bright wings"
3. "Generations have trod, have trod, have trod"
4. "brown brink eastward, springs"

A) I-3, II-1, III-2, IV-4

C) I-3, II-1, III-4, IV-2

B) I-1, II-3, III-4, IV-2

D) I-2, II-4, III-1, IV-3

Rationale: The heavy 't' and 'd' sounds in "trod" (3) mimic walking; "bleared, smeared" is internal rhyme (1); "ah!" is an interjection (2); and "brown brink" / "warm breast" / "wings" uses b/w alliteration (4/2 overlap, but 2 uniquely fits the exclamation, leaving 4 for alliteration conceptually, though the clearest fit for IV here broadly applies to the sestet's climax). Note: Standardized test optimization makes A the most logically sound complete mapping.

Q 33: What specific type of sonnet is "God's Grandeur"?

A) Shakespearean (English)

B) Spenserian

C) Petrarchan (Italian)

D) Miltonic

Rationale: It is a classic Petrarchan sonnet, divided strictly into an 8-line octave (abbaabba) presenting a problem, and a 6-line sestet (cdcdcd) offering a resolution, separated by a volta.

Q 34: In the line "And wears man's smudge and shares man's smell: the soil," what does the colon (:) grammatically and structurally achieve?

A) It introduces a direct quotation from a biblical text.

B) It forces a severe caesura, visually and rhythmically representing the sudden dead-end of human corruption before the ultimate consequence is stated.

C) It marks the end of the octave and the beginning of the sestet.

D) It indicates that the following word "soil" is a metaphor for the human soul.

Rationale: Hopkins was meticulous with punctuation. The colon forces a hard stop (caesura) in the middle of the line, creating a dramatic pause before delivering the stark consequence: "the soil / Is bare now."

Q 35: Arrange the following verbs denoting human action or consequence in the chronological order they appear in the octave:

I. Smudge

II. Reck

III. Trod

IV. Sear

A) I, II, III, IV

C) II, IV, III, I

B) III, II, I, IV

D) II, III, IV, I

Rationale: The textual order is: "reck" (line 4), "trod" (line 5), "seared" (line 6), and "smudge" (line 7 as a noun/verb consequence).

Q 36: The imagery of "the ooze of oil / Crushed" primarily alludes to which sacramental or biblical concept?

A) The anointing of kings and the chrism oil used in Catholic sacraments.

B) The burning of oil lamps in the Jewish temple.

C) The industrial extraction of petroleum for Victorian factories.

D) The healing balm of Gilead mentioned in the Old Testament.

Rationale: As a Jesuit, Hopkins uses crushed olive oil to symbolize Chrism—the holy oil used in Baptism, Confirmation, and Last Rites, representing the heavy, pressurized, yet healing grace of God.

Q 37: Read the line: "Because the Holy Ghost over the bent / World broods..." This line employs which literary device to carry the thought and grammatical structure across the line break?

A) End-stopped line

B) Epistrophe

C) Anaphora

D) Enjambment

Rationale: Enjambment is the continuation of a sentence without a pause beyond the end of a line. Separating "bent" and "World" emphasizes both the distortion of the earth and the overarching presence of the Spirit.

Q 38: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The rhythm of the line "Generations have trod, have trod, have trod" abandons standard iambic pentameter in favor of a heavy, plodding beat.

Reason (R): Hopkins uses Sprung Rhythm here to physically mimic the exhausting, repetitive, and destructive marching of industrial humanity over the earth.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: The heavy, consecutive stresses on "trod, have trod, have trod" break traditional flowing meter to create an auditory illusion of tramping feet, perfectly aligning the poem's sound with its meaning.

Q 39: What is the significance of the phrase "deep down things" in the context of Hopkins' philosophy?

A) It refers to the literal roots of plants that survive winter.

B) It references his concept of Inscape—the divine, unique essence implanted in every created thing.

C) It describes the coal mines of industrial England.

D) It is a reference to the buried dead awaiting resurrection.

Rationale: "Deep down things" refers to the Inscape (the unique, God-given inner identity) of nature, which remains pure and fresh regardless of the external "smudge" mankind puts on the surface.

Q 40: Match the adjectives from the poem (List I) with the nouns they modify (List II):

List I

I. Shook

II. Black

III. Bright

IV. Bare

List II

1.Wings

2.Soil

3.Foil

4.West

A) I-3, II-4, III-1, IV-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3, IV-4

C) I-3, II-1, III-4, IV-2

D) I-4, II-3, III-2, IV-1

Rationale: "shook foil" (3); "black West" (4); "bright wings" (1); "bare... soil" (2).

Q 41: Which of the following best describes the structural transition of sensory imagery from the octave to the sestet?

A) From visual and tactile degradation to visual and tactile restoration.

B) From auditory chaos to complete silence.

C) From olfactory (smell) perfection to olfactory decay.

D) From bright colors to monochromatic greys.

Rationale: The octave features lost touch ("nor can foot feel") and blurred sight ("bleared, smeared"). The sestet restores sight ("last lights," "morning," "bright wings") and comforting touch ("warm breast").

Q 42: The phrase "brown brink eastward" serves as a metaphor for:

A) The muddy banks of the River Thames.

B) The dying autumn leaves.

C) The edge of a cliff in Wales.

D) The horizon at dawn just before the sun rises.

Rationale: The "brown brink" is the dark, earthy line of the horizon turning brown/visible just as the morning sun begins to spring up from the east, symbolizing hope and divine renewal.

Q 43: Arrange the following spatial/directional movements in the correct chronological sequence as they appear in the sestet:

I. Deep down

II. Off the West

III. Eastward

IV. Over the world

A) I, III, II, IV

C) I, II, III, IV

B) II, I, IV, III

D) IV, II, III, I

Rationale: Textual order: "deep down things" (line 10), "off the black West" (line 11), "eastward, springs" (line 12), "over the bent World" (line 13-14).

Q 44: Why does Hopkins use the interjection "ah!" in the final line: "and with ah! bright wings"?

A) To indicate a sudden realization of terror.

B) To fill out the syllable count required for a strict iambic line.

C) To express a sudden gasp of ecstatic spiritual revelation and awe.

D) To mourn the permanent loss of nature.

Rationale: The "ah!" is an involuntary gasp of spiritual ecstasy. It represents the sudden, deeply felt perception of God's grandeur (Instress) actively at work in the world, bringing the poem to a triumphant climax.

Q 45: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem contrasts two different speeds or methods by which God's grandeur is revealed.

Reason (R): "Shook foil" represents a slow, deliberate accumulation of divine power, while "ooze of oil" represents a sudden, explosive flash of lightning.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: The Assertion is true (the poem does contrast two speeds). However, the Reason is exactly inverted. "Shook foil" is the sudden, explosive flash, while "ooze of oil" is the slow, deliberate accumulation.

Q 46: What is the grammatical function of the word "Crushed" at the beginning of line 4?

A) A past participle functioning as an adjective modifying "oil."

B) A finite verb indicating the action of the men in line 4.

C) A noun representing industrial waste.

D) A preposition indicating placement.

Rationale: "Crushed" modifies the "ooze of oil" from the previous line. Its placement at the start of the line, isolated by a period, forces a heavy rhythmic stress (spondee/trochee), mimicking the physical weight of a press crushing olives.

Q 47: The recurring motif of "foot" and "trod" in the octave serves to contrast human physical movement with what movement in the sestet?

A) The running of water.

B) The mechanical movement of factories.

C) The springing of morning and the brooding/hovering of the Holy Ghost.

D) The falling of night.

Rationale: Human movement in the octave is heavy, downward, and destructive (treading, wearing shoes). In contrast, divine movement in the sestet is upward ("springs") and aerial/protective ("broods," "wings").

Q 48: Match the conceptual opposites juxtaposed by Hopkins in the poem (List I to List II):

List I

I. "black West"

II. "seared with trade"

III. "bare now"

IV. "bleared, smeared"

List II

1. "dearest freshness"

2. "morning... eastward"

3. "bright wings"

4. "nature is never spent"

A) I-2, II-4, III-1, IV-3

B) I-1, II-2, III-3, IV-4

C) I-2, II-1, III-4, IV-3

D) I-3, II-4, III-2, IV-1

Rationale: The "black West" (death/night) contrasts with "morning... eastward" (2). Trade exhausting the world contrasts with nature never being "spent" (4). The "bare" soil contrasts with the hidden "freshness" deep down (1). The visually dull "bleared/smeared" contrasts with the visually sharp "bright wings" (3).

Q 49: The word "shod" in line 8 implies that humanity is:

A) Insulated and spiritually disconnected from the physical reality of God's creation.

B) Protected from the harshness of the elements.

C) Prepared for a long religious pilgrimage.

D) Equipped with the tools necessary for salvation.

Rationale: Being "shod" (wearing shoes) is presented negatively. The shoe acts as an artificial barrier preventing the human foot from feeling the earth, symbolizing modern man's loss of intimate, tactile communion with nature and God.

Q 50: Which of the following figures of speech is present in the phrase "brown brink"?

- A) Oxymoron
- B) Simile
- C) Personification

D) Alliteration

Rationale: "Brown brink" uses the repetition of the initial 'b' consonant sound, a simple but highly effective alliteration that Hopkins uses frequently to bind his imagery together.

Q 51: Arrange the following structural components of the poem's argument in logical order:

- I. Evidence of human degradation of the environment.
- II. Declaration of God's immanence in the world.
- III. The comforting protection of the Holy Spirit.
- IV. The assertion of nature's endless resilience.

A) II, IV, I, III

B) I, II, III, IV

C) II, I, IV, III

D) I, III, II, IV

Rationale: The poem argues: God is in the world (II, lines 1-3), but man destroys it (I, lines 4-8); yet, nature survives (IV, lines 9-12), because the Holy Spirit protects it (III, lines 13-14).

Q 52: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem does not view the Industrial Revolution merely as an economic shift, but as a deep spiritual failure.

Reason (R): Hopkins asks, "Why do men then now not reckon his rod?", explicitly linking the neglect of the environment to a willful ignoring of divine authority.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: Hopkins directly conflates the industrial destruction of the earth with human rebellion against God. The failure to "reckon his rod" (heed God's authority) is the root cause of the environmental "smudge."

Q 53: What effect does the repeated rhyming of "foil," "oil," "toil," and "soil" have on the octave?

A) It creates a light, airy, and musical tone.

B) It produces a sense of claustrophobia and inescapable heaviness.

C) It mimics the sound of a church choir singing.

D) It provides a sense of rapid, forward-moving narrative momentum.

Rationale: The tight, restricted abbaabba rhyme scheme, relying on heavy, resonant vowel/consonant combinations (oil/toil), creates an auditory sense of being trapped or weighed down, mirroring the theme of human drudgery.

Q 54: The term "broods" in the final lines paints the Holy Ghost in the image of a:

- A) Strict, judgmental father.
- B) Fierce bird of prey hunting sinners.

C) Mother bird warming and incubating her egg.

- D) Silent, formless mist over the ocean.

Rationale: "Broods" is a specific ornithological term for a bird sitting on eggs to hatch them. It portrays the Holy Ghost as fiercely nurturing, warming the "bent World" (like a curved egg) with a "warm breast" to hatch new spiritual life.

Q 55: Which line serves as the Volta or the "turn" in "God's Grandeur"?

- A) Line 4: "Why do men then now not reck his rod?"
- B) Line 8: "Is bare now, nor can foot feel, being shod."

C) Line 9: "And for all this, nature is never spent;"

- D) Line 13: "Because the Holy Ghost over the bent"

Rationale: Line 9 begins the sestet. The phrase "And for all this" physically pivots the poem away from the despair of the octave toward the hope and divine resilience of the sestet.

Q 56: Match the Hopkins vocabulary (List I) with its closest modern equivalent (List II):

List I

I. Grandeur

II. Smudge

III. Bent

IV. Spent

List II

1.Exhausted/Used up

2.Curved/Distorted

3.Stain/Pollution

4.Majesty/Magnificence

A) I-3, II-4, III-1, IV-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3, IV-4

C) I-4, II-1, III-3, IV-2

D) I-4, II-3, III-2, IV-1

Rationale: Grandeur is majesty (4); a smudge is a dirty stain/pollution (3); bent means curved or corrupted (2); spent means exhausted or consumed (1).

Q 57: The transition from the "black West" to the "brown brink eastward" symbolizes:

A) The transition from the Old Testament to the New Testament.

B) The shift from industrial pollution to agricultural farming.

C) The spiritual cycle of death/sin (sunset) giving way to resurrection/grace (sunrise).

D) Hopkins' physical journey from England to Ireland.

Rationale: West traditionally symbolizes sunset, endings, and death. East symbolizes sunrise, beginnings, and resurrection. This maps perfectly onto the poem's transition from human corruption to divine renewal.

Q 58: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem belongs strictly to the Romantic tradition of nature poetry, akin to Wordsworth.

Reason (R): Like Wordsworth, Hopkins believes that nature alone, without any external divine entity, is sufficient to heal the human mind.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) Both (A) and (R) are false.

Rationale: Both are false. While Hopkins loves nature, he is distinctively Victorian/Jesuit, not a strict Romantic. He vehemently disagreed with Romantic pantheism; for Hopkins, nature is not the healer itself, but merely the conduit through which the distinct, external Holy Ghost operates.

Q 59: Which two words in the octave create a harsh internal rhyme that highlights visual and moral corruption?

A) Charged / Grandeur

C) Bleared / Smeared

B) Trod / Shod

D) Trade / Toil

Rationale: "Bleared" and "smeared" are placed immediately next to each other to emphasize how human industrial labor has blurred and stained the pristine clarity of God's creation.

Q 60: Ultimately, "God's Grandeur" resolves its tension by suggesting that:

A) Humanity must lead a political revolution to save the environment.

B) Nature will eventually be destroyed completely by human trade.

C) The divine presence in nature is self-renewing and invincible, regardless of human corruption.

D) God has abandoned the modern world due to industrialization.

Rationale: The core message of the sestet is that despite humanity's best efforts to ruin the earth, God's grace ("the dearest freshness deep down things") is infinite and constantly renews the world via the Holy Ghost.

Q 61: Arrange the following literary and biographical events surrounding "God's Grandeur" in their correct chronological sequence:

I. Hopkins studies the writings of Duns Scotus, forming his concepts of Inscape and Instress.

II. Hopkins burns his early poetry ("slaughter of the innocents") upon joining the Jesuits.

III. Robert Bridges publishes the first edition of Hopkins' poems.

IV. "God's Grandeur" is composed in Wales.

A) II, IV, I, III

C) II, I, IV, III

B) I, II, III, IV

D) I, IV, II, III

Rationale: Hopkins burned his early poems in 1868 (II), discovered Scotus's writings around 1872 (I), wrote "God's Grandeur" in 1877 (IV), and Robert Bridges published his collection posthumously in 1918 (III).

Q 62: Match the following words from the poem (List I) with their etymological or dual meanings (List II):

List I

I. Charged

II. Springs

III. Foil

IV. Spent

List II

1.Exhausted of energy /
Financially bankrupt

2.A thin metal leaf / A contrasting background

3.Electrified / Entrusted with a mandate

4.Leaps upward / A source of fresh water

A) I-3, II-4, III-2, IV-1

B) I-1, II-2, III-3, IV-4

C) I-3, II-1, III-4, IV-2

D) I-4, II-3, III-1, IV-2

Rationale: "Charged" implies both electricity and a spiritual mandate (3); "springs" denotes both sudden dawn movement and fresh water (4); "foil" refers to gold/tin leaf (2); "spent" means depleted or paid out (1).

Q 63: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem is considered an early example of ecocritical literature in the Victorian era.

Reason (R): Hopkins focuses extensively on how human industrial "trade" and "toil" have physically polluted the earth and alienated humanity from the natural environment.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: The Assertion is true, and the Reason provides the exact justification. By lamenting the "smudge" of trade and the bareness of the soil due to human action, Hopkins anticipates modern environmental concerns, framing ecological destruction as a spiritual crisis.

Q 64: In the phrase "dearest freshness deep down things," the word "dearest" primarily functions to:

A) Indicate the high monetary cost of preserving nature.

B) Emphasize the profound intimacy, value, and beloved nature of God's creation.

C) Suggest that nature is a luxury only the rich can afford.

D) Address a specific person, likely Robert Bridges.

Rationale: Hopkins uses "dearest" not in an economic sense, but to express deep affection, preciousness, and spiritual intimacy. It highlights how tenderly God values the core (Inscape) of His creation.

Q 65: Arrange the elements of the natural world in the chronological order they are mentioned or alluded to in the poem:

I. Soil/Earth

II. Oil (Olive)

III. Lights (Sun/Stars)

IV. Bird (Holy Ghost)

A) I, II, III, IV

B) II, I, III, IV

C) II, III, I, IV

D) I, III, II, IV

Rationale: "Ooze of oil" (II) is in line 3; the "soil" (I) is mentioned in line 5/6; the "last lights" (III) appear in line 11; the "Holy Ghost" as a bird (IV) is in line 13-14.

Q 66: Which 16th-century spiritual text heavily influenced the thematic structure of "God's Grandeur," particularly the opening meditation on God's omnipresence?

A) Thomas à Kempis's The Imitation of Christ

B) Julian of Norwich's Revelations of Divine Love

C) St. John of the Cross's Dark Night of the Soul

D) St. Ignatius of Loyola's Spiritual Exercises

Rationale: As a Jesuit, Hopkins practiced the Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius, which specifically instruct practitioners to "find God in all things," directly inspiring the poem's thesis that the world is charged with God's grandeur.

Q 67: The metric substitution in the phrase "bare now, nor can foot feel" relies on which technique to slow the reader down?

A) Anapestic meter

B) Spondaic substitution (consecutive heavy stresses)

C) Dactylic hexameter

D) Feminine endings

Rationale: Hopkins uses consecutive stressed syllables (spondees)—"bare now," "foot feel"—to create a slow, heavy, numb auditory effect that mimics the physical numbness of a shod foot.

Q 68: Match the critical approaches (List I) with their corresponding interpretation of the poem (List II):

List I

I. Marxist Criticism

II. Ecocriticism

III. Psychoanalytic Criticism

IV. Theological Criticism

List II

- 1.Focuses on the "dearest freshness" as the inexhaustible grace of the Holy Spirit.
- 2.Analyzes the psychological tension between Hopkins' sensory desires and ascetic Jesuit vows.
- 3.Highlights the critique of capitalist "trade" and "toil" alienating workers.
- 4.Centers on "man's smudge" and the destruction of the natural biosphere.

A) I-3, II-4, III-2, IV-1

C) I-3, II-1, III-4, IV-2

B) I-4, II-3, III-1, IV-2

D) I-2, II-4, III-3, IV-1

Rationale: Marxism focuses on trade/labor (3); Ecocriticism on environmental destruction (4); Psychoanalysis on internal tension (2); Theology on divine grace (1).

Q 69: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): Despite its radical meter, "God's Grandeur" strictly obeys the structural rules of the Petrarchan sonnet.

Reason (R): The poem features exactly 14 lines, an abbaabba octave, a cdcddc sestet, and a distinct volta between line 8 and 9.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: Both statements are true. Hopkins was highly experimental with internal rhythm (Sprung Rhythm) and syntax, but he remained remarkably faithful to the external boundaries of the traditional Italian sonnet structure.

Q 70: In the context of the poem, the word "seared" (And all is seared with trade) evokes imagery of:

A) Cooking meat over a slow fire.

B) Branding livestock or cauterizing a wound with hot iron.

C) A dried-up riverbed.

D) The cutting of wheat during a harvest.

Rationale: "Seared" implies being burned or branded. It suggests that industrialization has violently marked and scarred the earth, treating nature as mere property or livestock to be consumed by capitalism.

Q 71: Arrange the following rhyming words in the chronological order they complete their respective lines in the sestet:

I. Springs

II. Spent

III. Things

IV. Went

A) II, IV, III, I

C) I, II, III, IV

B) II, IV, I, III

D) II, III, IV, I

Rationale: The exact line-ending sequence in the sestet is: spent (line 9), things (line 10), went (line 11), springs (line 12), bent (line 13), wings (line 14). So: spent (II), things (III), went (IV), springs (I).

Q 72: What is the grammatical object of the verb "reck" in the line "Why do men then now not reckon his rod?"

A) Men

B) Why

C) His rod

D) Now

Rationale: "Reck" means to pay heed to or care about. "Men" is the subject, and "his rod" (God's discipline or authority) is the direct object that mankind is failing to heed.

Q 73: The imagery of "shining from shook foil" was explained by Hopkins in a letter to Robert Bridges as referring to:

A) The reflection of the sun on the ocean.

B) A sword being drawn from its scabbard.

C) The sparks flying from a blacksmith's anvil.

D) The flashing of gold leaf (tinsel) when shaken.

Rationale: In a letter, Hopkins clarified that he meant "gold foil" (like the foil used in Victorian decorations or science experiments) which, when shaken, creates sudden, jagged flashes of blinding light.

Q 74: Match the following sensory verbs used in the poem (List I) with the human or divine action they represent (List II):

List I

I. Trod

II. Flame

III. Broods

IV. Smear

List II

- 1.The degradation of the earth by human hands
- 2.The mechanical, unthinking marching of generations
- 3.The sudden, visible manifestation of God's glory
- 4.The protective, nurturing action of the Holy Spirit

A) I-2, II-3, III-4, IV-1

B) I-1, II-4, III-3, IV-2

C) I-2, II-4, III-1, IV-3

D) I-4, II-3, III-2, IV-1

Rationale: "Trod" represents marching/walking (2); "Flame" is the sudden glory (3); "Broods" is the protective Holy Spirit (4); "Smear" is the human degradation (1).

Q 75: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The sestet introduces a tone of cosmic despair regarding the fate of the universe.

Reason (R): The imagery of "last lights off the black West went" proves that God is ultimately withdrawing from the world.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) Both (A) and (R) are false.

Rationale: Both statements are utterly false. The sestet introduces profound hope, not despair. The "last lights" going West simply represent sunset/night, which is immediately countered by the "morning" springing Eastward.

Q 76: Which stylistic feature demonstrates Hopkins' deliberate departure from standard Victorian poetic conventions (like those of Tennyson)?

A) Strict avoidance of alliteration.

B) The use of highly compressed syntax and omission of relative pronouns.

C) The exclusive use of heroic couplets.

D) Focusing primarily on Arthurian legends.

Rationale: Unlike the smooth, flowing lines of Tennyson, Hopkins used compacted, elliptical syntax (dropping words like "which," "who," or "that") to create dense, explosive bursts of meaning, as seen in "bleared, smeared with toil."

Q 77: What does the imagery of the "warm breast" suggest about the nature of God in this poem?

A) God is distant, cold, and purely intellectual.

B) God is a destructive force of nature.

C) God possesses maternal, incubating, and deeply comforting qualities.

D) God only judges humanity based on their ecological actions.

Rationale: The "warm breast" of the brooding bird is a distinctly maternal image. It softens the "rod" of the octave, depicting a God who nurtures, comforts, and sustains life through the Holy Ghost.

Q 78: Chronologically, "God's Grandeur" belongs to which major literary period?

A) The Romantic Period

B) The Early Modern Period

C) The Victorian Period

D) The Modernist Period

Rationale: Written in 1877, it is factually a Victorian poem. However, because it was not published until 1918 and features radical stylistic innovations, Hopkins is often considered a proto-Modernist.

Q 79: Match the poetic meter/rhythm concept (List I) with its description (List II):

List I

I. Iambic Pentameter

II. Sprung Rhythm

III. Caesura

IV. Enjambment

List II

1. A deliberate pause or break in the middle of a line of poetry.
2. The continuation of a sentence without a pause beyond the end of a line.
3. Meter based on a set number of heavy stresses, with variable unstressed syllables.
4. A traditional meter of five feet, each consisting of an unstressed followed by a stressed syllable.

A) I-2, II-3, III-4, IV-1

B) I-3, II-4, III-2, IV-1

C) I-4, II-1, III-3, IV-2

D) I-4, II-3, III-1, IV-2

Rationale: Iambic Pentameter (4); Sprung Rhythm is Hopkins' invention of variable unstressed syllables (3); Caesura is a pause (1); Enjambment is continuing past the line break (2).

Q 80: The transition from "smudge" and "smell" in the octave to "dearest freshness" in the sestet is an example of:

A) Antithesis

B) Hyperbole

C) Metonymy

D) Litotes

Rationale: Antithesis is the direct contrast or opposition of ideas. Hopkins juxtaposes the vile, suffocating sensory details of human industry with the pure, life-giving sensory details of divine grace.

Q 81: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem implies that human beings have lost their sensitivity to the divine presence.

Reason (R): Hopkins writes "nor can foot feel, being shod," using the barrier of the shoe as a metaphor for spiritual callouses.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: The Assertion is true. The Reason directly explains it: just as a shoe prevents the physical foot from feeling the earth, industrialization and sin prevent the human soul from feeling God's Instress.

Q 82: What is the effect of the repetitive structure in "have trod, have trod, have trod"?

A) It mimics the joy of an echoing choir.

B) It establishes a spondaic heaviness representing the inescapable, monotonous cycle of human labor.

C) It creates a light, tripping dactylic rhythm.

D) It emphasizes the holy trinity.

Rationale: The exact repetition forces the reader to emphasize the heavy "trod," perfectly capturing the dreary, mechanical, and destructive nature of generations of human laborers.

Q 83: Arrange the following thematic movements in the correct sequence as they develop in the sonnet:

I. The sudden flashing of God's power

II. The protective nurturing of the Holy Spirit

III. The Qing of human disobedience

IV. The assertion of nature's endless resilience

A) I, IV, III, II

C) I, III, IV, II

B) III, I, II, IV

D) IV, I, III, II

Rationale: "Shook foil" (I) is in line 2. The Qing "Why do men..." (III) is line 4. Nature's resilience "never spent" (IV) is line 9. The Holy Spirit's protection (II) is lines 13-14.

Q 84: Match the lines from the poem (List I) to the theological concepts they best represent (List II):

List I

I. "The world is charged with the grandeur of God."

II. "Why do men then now not reckon his rod?"

III. "nature is never spent;"

IV. "Because the Holy Ghost... broods"

List II

1.Divine Omnipresence

2.Human Sin / Free Will

3.Divine Providence / Sustenance

4.Infinite Grace

A) I-4, II-2, III-1, IV-3

C) I-2, II-1, III-4, IV-3

B) I-1, II-3, III-2, IV-4

D) I-1, II-2, III-4, IV-3

Rationale: God's grandeur in the world represents Omnipresence (1). Ignoring His rod represents human Sin/rebellion (2). Nature never being spent represents Infinite Grace (4). The Holy Ghost brooding represents active Providence (3).

Q 85: The term "Inscape," though not explicitly used in the poem, is best conceptualized in which line?

A) "It will flame out, like shining from shook foil"

B) "And all is seared with trade"

C) "There lives the dearest freshness deep down things"

D) "Generations have trod"

Rationale: "Inscape" is the unique, inner essence of a thing given by God. "Deep down things" refers exactly to this hidden, indestructible, divine core within the natural world.

Q 86: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The word "bent" in "bent / World" carries entirely negative connotations of destruction.

Reason (R): The poem suggests that humanity has irreparably broken the planet.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) Both (A) and (R) are false.

Rationale: Both are false. While "bent" does mean corrupted by sin, it also means physically curved (like the horizon or an egg). Furthermore, the poem explicitly denies that the planet is irreparably broken ("nature is never spent").

Q 87: What rhetorical Q drives the transition between the declaration of God's glory and the critique of modern humanity?

A) What is the grandeur of God?

B) Why do men then now not reck his rod?

C) Where is the dearest freshness?

D) Who will save the bent world?

Rationale: Line 4 serves as the pivot in the octave. After establishing God's immanent power, Hopkins asks why humanity ignores divine authority ("his rod"), leading directly into the critique of trade and toil.

Q 88: In the phrase "last lights off the black West went," the heavy repetition of 'l', 'w', and 't' sounds is an example of:

A) Assonance

B) Onomatopoeia

C) Consonance and Alliteration

D) Chiasmus

Rationale: "Last lights" repeats the 'l' sound (alliteration). "West went" repeats the 'w' (alliteration). The ending 't' sounds in last, lights, West, and went are examples of heavy consonance.

Q 89: Arrange the following verbs reflecting the diminishment of human sensory experience in chronological order of their appearance:

I. Smudge

II. Sear

III. Blear

IV. Smear

A) II, III, IV, I

C) II, I, III, IV

B) I, II, III, IV

D) III, IV, I, II

Rationale: Line 6 begins with "seared" (II), followed immediately by "bleared" (III) and "smeared" (IV). Line 7 contains "smudge" (I).

Q 90: Match the specific color/light imagery (List I) with the abstract concept it represents (List II):

List I

I. Shook foil (Flash)

II. Black West

III. Brown brink

IV. Bright wings

List II

1.The dormant earth awakening to grace

2.The Holy Spirit's purity and radiant comfort

3.The sudden realization of divine power

4.Spiritual death, endings, and despair

A) I-3, II-4, III-1, IV-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3, IV-4

C) I-3, II-1, III-4, IV-2

D) I-4, II-3, III-2, IV-1

Rationale: Foil flashing is sudden power (3); Black West is death/despair (4); Brown brink is the awakening earth at dawn (1); Bright wings represent the Holy Spirit's radiant purity (2).

Q 91: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): Hopkins uses the phrase "ooze of oil" to evoke a sense of revulsion toward industrial pollution.

Reason (R): Olive oil was the primary fuel source for Victorian factories in London.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) Both (A) and (R) are false.

Rationale: Both are false. "Ooze of oil" represents the slow, precious gathering of divine grace under pressure (like olive oil pressed for sacraments), not industrial pollution. Victorian factories primarily ran on coal, not olive oil.

Q 92: The poem's juxtaposition of "trade" with "God's grandeur" is a critique of which Victorian philosophical and economic paradigm?

A) Utilitarianism

B) Transcendentalism

C) Chartism

D) The Oxford Movement

Rationale: Utilitarianism, driven by figures like Bentham and Mill, evaluated actions based on their practical/economic utility. Hopkins critiques this mindset for reducing nature to mere "trade" and "toil," stripping it of its inherent spiritual value.

Q 93: What does the imagery of the "rod" traditionally symbolize in biblical literature, as invoked by Hopkins?

A) A measuring stick used by builders.

B) A magician's wand.

C) Divine discipline, authority, and shepherding.

D) A weapon of warfare.

Rationale: In biblical contexts (e.g., Psalm 23: "Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me"), the rod symbolizes God's sovereign authority, discipline, and guidance over His flock.

Q 94: How does the final line, "broods with warm breast and with ah! bright wings," resolve the tactile imagery of the poem?

A) It introduces a freezing wind to cleanse the earth.

B) It restores the sense of touch (warmth) that was lost when man's foot became "shod" and unable to feel.

C) It suggests that humanity will eventually grow wings.

D) It confirms that the earth will be consumed by fire.

Rationale: The octave laments the loss of physical/spiritual touch ("nor can foot feel"). The sestet resolves this by introducing the ultimate, comforting tactile sensation: the "warm breast" of the divine bird brooding over the earth.

Q 95: Chronologically, where does "God's Grandeur" fit into the overarching history of the English Sonnet?

- A) It was written before Shakespeare codified the English sonnet.
- B) It was written during the Elizabethan sonnet craze.
- C) It was the very first sonnet written in free verse.

D) It revived the Petrarchan form during a Victorian era heavily dominated by dramatic monologues and narrative poetry.

Rationale: Written in 1877 (Victorian era), Hopkins returned to the strict Italian/Petrarchan sonnet form, injecting it with radical rhythm, standing in stark contrast to the dramatic monologues popular with Browning and Tennyson.

Q 96: Match the Hopkins-specific poetic technique (List I) to its application in the poem (List II):

List I

- I. Compounding/Portmanteau (implied)
- II. Ellipsis (omitting words)
- III. Sprung Rhythm
- IV. Alliteration

List II

- 1. "brown brink" / "black West"
- 2. Dropping relative pronouns (e.g., "[which] Is bare now")
- 3. "deep down things" (acting as a single conceptual modifier)
- 4. "Generations have trod, have trod..." (variable unstressed syllables)

A) I-3, II-2, III-4, IV-1

C) I-4, II-1, III-2, IV-3

B) I-2, II-3, III-1, IV-4

D) I-1, II-4, III-3, IV-2

Rationale: Hopkins conceptually links "deep down" into a compound idea (3); he omits connecting words like "which" (2); manipulates rhythm through heavy stresses (4); and heavily uses alliteration (1).

Q 97: Given below are two statements, one labelled as Assertion (A) and the other as Reason (R).

Assertion (A): The poem presents a cyclical view of time and nature.

Reason (R): The transition from the "black West" (sunset/death) to the "eastward, springs" (sunrise/rebirth) mirrors the daily, inexhaustible cycle of God's grace.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Rationale: Both statements are true. Hopkins relies on the natural cycle of day and night to prove that "nature is never spent." Just as morning always follows night, divine renewal always overcomes human corruption.

Q 98: Which of the following is the most accurate definition of Hopkins' term "Instress" as demonstrated in "God's Grandeur"?

A) The emotional breakdown of a Victorian factory worker.

B) The poetic structure of a 14-line sonnet.

C) The force that sustains an object's Inscape and the energy by which it is perceived by a human soul.

D) The physical pressure applied to olive oil.

Rationale: While Inscape is the unique design ("deep down things"), Instress is the active, actualizing energy of God—the very "charge" or "flame out" that allows a sensitive observer to witness that grandeur.

Q 99: The word "smudge" in the line "And wears man's smudge and shares man's smell" most directly implies:

A) A minor typographical error in a book.

B) The physical soot of coal factories and the moral stain of original sin.

C) A technique used in Victorian painting.

D) The ashes used on Ash Wednesday.

Rationale: "Smudge" acts on two levels: literal environmental pollution (the soot and grime of the 1870s Industrial Revolution) and spiritual pollution (the taint of human greed and original sin).

Q 100: Ultimately, what is the primary theological paradox Hopkins resolves in "God's Grandeur"?

A) That God is both perfectly just and completely merciless.

B) That humanity is completely evil, yet nature is entirely self-sufficient without God.

C) That despite humanity's relentless destruction of the physical world, God's immanent grace remains miraculously indestructible and ever-renewing.

D) That the Holy Ghost is a physical bird and a spiritual entity.

Rationale: The poem sets up the paradox of human ruin: we are destroying the world (the octave). Yet, the sestet resolves this by revealing that because the world is sustained "deep down" by God, His grandeur cannot be permanently exhausted or "spent" by our actions.

UNIT – 4 BRITISH LITERATURE - II

1. In what year does Hazlitt state that he first met Samuel Taylor Coleridge?

A) 1795

C) 1800

B) 1798

D) 1802

Explanation: Hazlitt explicitly begins the essay stating it was the January of 1798 when he first saw Coleridge.

2. What specific role was Coleridge supposed to take up in Shrewsbury when Hazlitt first went to hear him?

A) A political correspondent

B) A professor of philosophy

C) A Unitarian minister succeeding Mr. Rowe

D) An Anglican bishop

Explanation: Coleridge came to Shrewsbury to succeed Mr. Rowe as a Dissenting (Unitarian) minister.

3. Arrange the following early events in chronological order as they occur in Hazlitt's narrative:

I. Hazlitt walks ten miles in the mud to hear Coleridge.

II. Coleridge visits Hazlitt's father at Wem.

III. Hazlitt receives a letter from Coleridge inviting him to Nether Stowey.

IV. Hazlitt wakes up before daylight to listen to the January wind.

A) IV, I, II, III

C) IV, II, I, III

B) I, IV, II, III

D) I, II, IV, III

Explanation: Hazlitt wakes up early, walks to Shrewsbury, hears the sermon, later Coleridge visits Wem, and finally invites him to Stowey.

4. From which book of the Bible did Coleridge take his text for the first sermon Hazlitt heard?

A) Matthew

C) Luke

B) Mark

D) John

Explanation: The text was from John: "And he went up into the mountain to pray, HIMSELF, ALONE."

5. Match the descriptive phrase (List I) with the figure it describes (List II) according to Hazlitt:

List I:

I. "A tone as if from the bottom of the soul"

II. "His face was as round, and as pale, as the full moon"

III. "He was the first poet I had known"

IV. "He was weeping over his fading belief"

List II:

1. Coleridge

2. Hazlitt's father

A) I-2, II-2, III-1, IV-1

C) I-1, II-1, III-2, IV-1

B) I-2, II-1, III-1, IV-2

D) I-1, II-1, III-1, IV-2

Explanation: Hazlitt attributes the deep voice, the moon-like face, and the status of "first poet" to Coleridge, while his father wept over his fading dissenting beliefs.

6. Which historical philosopher/writer does Hazlitt compare Coleridge to when describing his conversational style in the drawing-room at Wem?

A) Rousseau

B) Socrates

C) Burke

D) Godwin

Explanation: Hazlitt remarks that Coleridge's conversation was like Rousseau's writing—full of passionate enthusiasm.

7. What specific meal did Hazlitt's father prepare for Coleridge at Wem?

A) Roast beef and potatoes

C) A brace of partridges

B) Baked salmon and peas

D) A leg of Welsh mutton and turnips

Explanation: Hazlitt distinctly remembers the simple but hearty meal of a leg of Welsh mutton and turnips provided by his father.

8. Which of the following best describes Hazlitt's intellectual state before meeting Coleridge, as described in the essay?

A) Highly prolific and politically active

B) Focused solely on painting and visual arts

C) Dumb, inarticulate, and unable to write a single line

D) Arrogant, overly confident, and dismissive of poetry

Explanation: Hazlitt describes himself as "dumb, inarticulate, helpless" until Coleridge's voice awakened his intellect.

9. When discussing Mary Wollstonecraft with Hazlitt, whom did Coleridge consider the "greatest man" he had ever met, despite disagreeing with him?

A) William Godwin

C) Captain John Brown

B) Thomas Holcroft

D) Thomas Mackintosh

Explanation: Coleridge admitted that Sir James Mackintosh was the most impressive intellect he had encountered in conversation.

10. How did Coleridge characterize the prose style of Edmund Burke during his walk with Hazlitt?

A) As overly dry and analytical

B) As being like a "prose-poem" but lacking solid logic

C) As a "web of woven pacing" lacking genuine feeling

D) As a magnificent and imaginative philosophical expression

Explanation: Coleridge criticized Burke's prose for being highly poetic but lacking underlying logical substance or structural truth.

11. Match the poet (List I) with their physical description provided by Hazlitt (List II):

List I:

I. Coleridge

II. Wordsworth

List II:

1. "A severe, worn pressure of thought about his temples... a fire in his eye"

2. "His forehead was broad and high, light as if built of ivory"

A) I-1, II-2

B) I-2, II-1

C) Both 1 describe Coleridge

D) Both 2 describe Wordsworth

Explanation: Hazlitt describes Coleridge's forehead as broad and ivory-like, while Wordsworth is described as gaunt, worn, and having a "fire in his eye."

12. To which fictional character does Hazlitt compare Wordsworth's physical appearance?

A) Don Quixote

B) Hamlet

C) Falstaff

D) Prospero

Explanation: Hazlitt famously notes that Wordsworth had a "Don Quixote-like" appearance—gaunt, quaint, and slightly antiquated.

13. Arrange the following locations in the chronological order of Hazlitt's journey in the essay:

I. Wem

II. Shrewsbury

III. Nether Stowey

IV. Alfoxden

A) II, I, IV, III

B) II, I, III, IV

C) I, II, III, IV

D) I, III, II, IV

Explanation: Hazlitt travels from Wem to Shrewsbury to hear the sermon, then travels to Nether Stowey to visit Coleridge, and from there they visit Wordsworth at Alfoxden.

14. What literary work was Wordsworth completing when Hazlitt visited him at Alfoxden?

A) The Prelude

B) The Excursion

C) Lyrical Ballads

D) The Borderers

Explanation: Wordsworth was in the process of finalizing the poems for Lyrical Ballads during Hazlitt's visit.

15. Which of Wordsworth's poems did Coleridge read to Hazlitt in the open air during their walks?

A) Tintern Abbey

B) The Idiot Boy

C) Peter Bell

D) Lines Left upon a Seat in a Yew-tree

Explanation: Hazlitt recalls Coleridge reading "Peter Bell" to him in the open air.

16. How did Wordsworth read his own poetry, according to Hazlitt?

A) With a monotonous, droning voice

B) With extreme speed and lack of emotion

C) With a hesitant, shy stutter

D) With a chant, a rolling and dramatic rhythm

Explanation: Hazlitt notes that Wordsworth read his poetry in a distinct "chaunt" or sustained rhythmic drawl.

17. What footwear did Hazlitt note Coleridge was famously struggling with during their walk?

A) Tight leather boots

B) Slippers that kept falling off

C) Shoes that were unlaced/tied with string

D) Shoes with holes in the soles

Explanation: Hazlitt recalls Coleridge walking with his shoes untied, reflecting his casual, wandering physical nature.

18. Which Dissenting minister and philosopher does Hazlitt's father correspond with and admire?

A) Jeremy Bentham

B) John Stuart Mill

C) Thomas Malthus

D) Dr. Joseph Priestley

Explanation: Hazlitt's father was an old-school Dissenter who deeply respected Dr. Joseph Priestley.

19. What was the central political backdrop that influenced the early idealism of Coleridge, Wordsworth, and Hazlitt as hinted in the essay?

A) The American Civil War

B) The English Civil War

C) The French Revolution

D) The Industrial Revolution

Explanation: The fading hopes of the French Revolution heavily colored the political atmosphere of their youthful idealism.

20. Match the literary figure (List I) with Coleridge's critique of them (List II):

List I:

I. Thomas Gray

II. Robert Southey

III. William Godwin

List II:

1. Had "no intellect" but great mechanical facility in verse.

2. An elegant poet but lacked true imaginative fire.

3. A rigid logician who lacked deep human sympathy.

A) I-2, II-1, III-3

C) I-3, II-1, III-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

D) I-2, II-3, III-1

Explanation: Coleridge dismissed Gray as merely elegant, viewed Southey as mechanically proficient but lacking high intellect, and Godwin as a dry logician.

21. Who was the "John Chester" mentioned by Hazlitt in the essay?

A) A rival poet to Wordsworth

B) A local farmer who guided them

C) A native of Nether Stowey drawn to Coleridge

D) Hazlitt's childhood friend from Wem

Explanation: John Chester was a local young man from Nether Stowey who was fascinated by Coleridge and followed him everywhere like a shadow.

22. How did John Chester keep pace with Coleridge during their walks?

A) By running in a steady jog-trot

B) By riding a donkey

C) By constantly interrupting him to slow him down

D) By taking shortcuts through the woods

Explanation: Because Coleridge continually crossed the path as he spoke, Chester had to maintain a "jog-trot" to keep up with him.

23. Arrange the following conversational topics in chronological order as Hazlitt discusses them with Coleridge on their initial walk from Wem to Shrewsbury:

I. The philosophy of David Hartley

II. The poetry of Mary Wollstonecraft

III. The prose of Edmund Burke

IV. The capabilities of Sir James Mackintosh

A) I, II, III, IV

C) III, I, IV, II

B) II, IV, III, I

D) IV, II, I, III

Explanation: They first touch upon Wollstonecraft and Mackintosh, then Burke's style, before delving into deeper philosophical treatises like Hartley's.

24. Which famous patron(s) offered Coleridge an annuity that ultimately convinced him to abandon the ministry at Shrewsbury?

- A) The Earl of Lonsdale
- B) Lord Byron
- C) Sir George Beaumont

D) The Wedgwood brothers

Explanation: Josiah and Thomas Wedgwood offered Coleridge an annuity of £150, freeing him from his ministerial duties to pursue writing.

25. When Coleridge received the letter containing the Wedgwoods' offer, what was his immediate physical reaction as observed by Hazlitt?

- A) He wept silently.
- B) He seemed to hesitate but then smiled brightly.

C) He tied on his shoes and walked out without a word.

- D) He read it, seemed unsure, and then decided to accept.

Explanation: Upon receiving the annuity offer, Coleridge was tying his shoe; he finished the action, stood up, and his decision to leave the ministry was made.

26. Which philosophical doctrine of David Hartley did Coleridge explicitly reject during his conversations with Hazlitt?

A) The Doctrine of Necessity/Vibrations

B) Transubstantiation

C) Utilitarianism

D) The Divine Right of Kings

Explanation: Coleridge had outgrown Hartley's materialist "doctrine of vibrations" and associationism by the time he spoke with Hazlitt.

27. What landscape feature in the Valley of Rocks left a profound, almost terrifying impression on Hazlitt?

A) A deep, dark lake

B) A bed of thunder-clouds sweeping over the sea

C) An abandoned, ruined castle

D) A massive waterfall

Explanation: Hazlitt vividly describes the sublime terror of seeing a bed of thunder-clouds sweeping over the sea at the Valley of Rocks.

28. Match the quote (List I) to the context (List II):

List I:

I. "Sounding on his way"

II. "Like an eagle dallying with the wind"

III. "He went up into the mountain..."

List II:

1. Coleridge's voice reading poetry
2. The biblical text of Coleridge's sermon
3. Chaucer's description, applied by Hazlitt to Coleridge's conversation

A) I-3, II-1, III-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-2, II-3, III-1

D) I-3, II-2, III-1

Explanation: Hazlitt uses "sounding on his way" (from Chaucer) for Coleridge's talk, "eagle dallying" for his reading, and the Bible text for his sermon.

29. What was Hazlitt's father's attitude towards the changes in political and religious fervor over his lifetime?

A) He grew more radical and violent.

B) He abandoned his faith for atheism.

C) He remained steadfast but wept over his fading ideals.

D) He became a strict conservative.

Explanation: Hazlitt describes his father shedding tears over the decline of the dissenting cause and his unfulfilled ideals, remaining true to them in his heart.

30. Which of the following authors did Hazlitt attempt to read on the inn window-seat at Bridgewater, which felt "stale and unprofitable" compared to his thoughts of Coleridge?

A) Shakespeare

B) Milton

C) Camilla (by Fanny Burney)

D) Tom Jones (by Henry Fielding)

Explanation: Hazlitt notes trying to read Madame D'Arblay's (Fanny Burney's) Camilla, but finding it flat compared to the real-life intellectual stimulation he was experiencing.

31. Arrange the literary periods/influences chronologically as they affected Hazlitt based on the essay:

I. Reading classic Dissenting theologians in his father's study.

II. Listening to Coleridge preach.

III. Attempting to write philosophical essays of his own.

IV. Hearing Wordsworth's new lyrical poetry.

A) I, II, III, IV

B) I, II, IV, III

C) II, I, III, IV

D) III, I, II, IV

Explanation: Hazlitt grew up reading theology, met Coleridge, met Wordsworth, and only later managed to articulate his own philosophical writings.

32. According to Hazlitt, what distinguished Wordsworth's conversational style from Coleridge's?

A) Wordsworth spoke continuously without pausing, while Coleridge was silent.

B) Wordsworth was more focused on practical, immediate facts, lacking Coleridge's flight of imagination.

C) Wordsworth was highly aggressive and argumentative.

D) Wordsworth spoke entirely in French.

Explanation: Hazlitt observed that Wordsworth was more grounded, severe, and less given to the boundless, associative monologues that characterized Coleridge.

33. What specific feature of Wordsworth's face does Hazlitt compare to a portrait by Titian?

A) His eyes

B) His nose

C) His complexion and forehead

D) His beard

Explanation: Hazlitt compares Wordsworth's severe, thought-worn facial structure and complexion to the intense portraits painted by Titian.

34. Who was the subject of the tragedy (play) that Coleridge was writing during Hazlitt's visit?

A) Osorio (later Remorse)

B) The Borderers

C) Fall of Robespierre

D) Zapolya

Explanation: Coleridge was working on his tragedy Osorio, which he later revised and staged as Remorse.

35. What physical feature of Coleridge does Hazlitt interpret as a sign of a lack of purpose or steady direction?

A) His tendency to cross the path as he walked

B) His shifting eyes

C) His rapid hand gestures

D) His stuttering speech

Explanation: Hazlitt notes that Coleridge never walked in a straight line, but continually crossed the path, symbolizing his lack of a fixed, linear intellectual purpose.

36. Match the intellectual concept (List I) to the author/speaker associated with it in the essay (List II):

List I:

- I. "A discovery that there was such a thing as poetry"
- II. "A vision of a new heaven and a new earth"
- III. "The spirit of the world"

List II:

- 1. Hazlitt's reaction to the French Revolution and Coleridge
- 2. Hazlitt's realization upon hearing Wordsworth's poems
- 3. Coleridge's preaching style

A) I-2, II-3, III-1

C) I-3, II-1, III-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

D) I-2, II-1, III-3

Explanation: Hazlitt associates discovering true poetry with Wordsworth, the new heaven/earth with his revolutionary awakening via Coleridge, and the world's spirit with Coleridge's sermons.

37. How did Hazlitt feel about his own physical appearance/presence compared to the poets?

A) He felt clumsy, shy, and socially awkward.

B) He felt superior due to his youth.

C) He believed his artistic eye gave him an aristocratic air.

D) He felt completely equal in stature and confidence.

Explanation: Hazlitt describes himself as incredibly shy, awkward, and painfully self-conscious during these early encounters.

38. Which English poet did Coleridge explicitly criticize for having "no ear" for music/rhythm?

A) Alexander Pope

B) John Milton

C) Samuel Johnson

D) William Cowper

Explanation: Coleridge controversially claimed that Alexander Pope was a mechanical writer who lacked a genuine musical "ear" for poetry.

39. Arrange chronologically the locations Hazlitt stayed or visited during his return journey from Somerset:

I. Bristol

II. Nether Stowey

III. Lynton (Valley of Rocks)

A) I, II, III

B) II, III, I

C) III, II, I

D) II, I, III

Explanation: Hazlitt stayed at Nether Stowey, visited the Valley of Rocks (Lynton) with the poets, and then returned home via Bristol.

40. What was the central emotion Hazlitt felt as he watched Coleridge depart in the stagecoach at the end of his visit?

- A) Profound relief
- B) Bitter jealousy
- C) A deep sense of melancholy and loss
- D) Apathy

Explanation: Hazlitt felt a crushing sense of loss, realizing that his brief, intensely illuminating contact with genius was ending.

41. In the context of UGC NET PYQs, which of the following statements best captures the overarching theme of "My First Acquaintance with Poets"?

- A) A biographical critique of Wordsworth's poetic decline.
- B) An autobiographical mapping of the awakening of an intellectual mind through the catalyst of genius.
- C) A political treatise against the French Revolution.
- D) A historical defense of Dissenting Unitarian ministers.

Explanation: The essay is primarily a bildungsroman-style essay about Hazlitt's own intellectual awakening prompted by his encounter with Coleridge and Wordsworth.

42. Which prominent political thinker's "Essay on Population" is alluded to as being antithetical to the romantic idealism of Hazlitt and Coleridge?

- A) Adam Smith
- B) Thomas Hobbes
- C) John Locke

D) Thomas Malthus

Explanation: Though implicit in the political background of the 1790s discussed, the harsh utilitarianism of thinkers like Malthus is positioned against their early Godwinian idealism.

43. What did Coleridge claim was the reason he could not write a successful tragedy?

A) He could not create distinct characters outside of his own mind.

- B) He lacked the vocabulary.
- C) He found the stage immoral.
- D) He was too busy writing sermons.

Explanation: Coleridge admitted that his mind was too subjective; he projected his own voice into all his characters, preventing true dramatic objectivity.

44. Match the sensory description (List I) with its corresponding event/object in the essay (List II):

List I:

- I. The smell of cold, raw, wet winter
- II. The taste of Welsh mutton
- III. The sound of an organ

List II:

- 1. Coleridge's voice in the pulpit
- 2. The walk from Wem to Shrewsbury
- 3. The dinner at Hazlitt's father's house

A) I-2, II-3, III-1

- B) I-1, II-2, III-3
- C) I-3, II-2, III-1
- D) I-2, II-1, III-3

Explanation: Hazlitt famously walked through the raw winter mud, ate mutton at his father's, and compared Coleridge's preaching voice to an organ.

45. Which famous painter does Hazlitt invoke to describe the rich, dark, and slightly melancholy tone of the landscape during their walks?

A) Poussin

B) Rembrandt

C) Claude Lorraine

D) Salvator Rosa

Explanation: Hazlitt frequently viewed nature through the lens of classical landscape painters, notably Poussin, when describing atmospheric settings.

46. What was Wordsworth's reaction to the landscape at the Valley of Rocks compared to Coleridge's?

A) Wordsworth saw its practical, geological features; Coleridge saw its mythic, atmospheric terror.

B) Wordsworth ignored it entirely; Coleridge wrote a poem about it immediately.

C) Wordsworth thought it was ugly; Coleridge thought it was beautiful.

D) They both had exactly the same reaction.

Explanation: Wordsworth's eye was grounded in the harsh, physical reality of nature, whereas Coleridge's mind quickly abstracted the landscape into romantic terror.

47. Chronologically, when did Hazlitt finally manage to write his own philosophical work after this meeting?

A) The very next day

B) Six months later

C) Several years later

D) He never wrote it

Explanation: Hazlitt notes that it took him several years to overcome his "dumbness" and finally articulate his thoughts in writing.

48. What is the significance of the "Unitarian" background in the essay?

A) It explains why Coleridge and Hazlitt's father immediately hated each other.

B) It represents the intellectual, Dissenting tradition that bonded Coleridge, Hazlitt's father, and the young Hazlitt.

C) It was the religion Wordsworth was trying to convert them to.

D) It was illegal, making their meetings dangerous.

Explanation: Unitarian Dissent was the radical, intellectual theology of the day, forming the initial common ground between the Hazlitts and Coleridge.

49. How does Hazlitt use the motif of "light" in the essay?

A) To describe his father's blindness

B) As a metaphor for intellectual awakening and the dawning of new ideas

C) Exclusively to describe the weather in Somerset

D) To critique the Enlightenment

Explanation: Light (the sun rising, the fire in the eye) consistently symbolizes the dawn of genius and Hazlitt's own intellectual awakening.

50. Match the quote (List I) to the author (List II):

List I:

I. "He talked on for ever; and you wished him to talk on for ever."

II. "There is a severe, worn pressure of thought about his temples..."

III. "He has no figures of speech..."

List II:

1. Hazlitt describing Wordsworth

2. Hazlitt describing Coleridge

3. Hazlitt describing his father

A) I-3, II-1, III-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-2, II-3, III-1

D) I-2, II-1, III-3

Explanation: Coleridge talked endlessly and beautifully; Wordsworth had a severe, worn face; Hazlitt's father was plain-spoken with no figures of speech.

51. Which classical poet does Hazlitt allude to when describing his journey home from Bristol?

A) Homer

C) Horace

B) Ovid

D) Virgil

Explanation: Hazlitt often blends his classical education with his romantic experiences, alluding to Virgil's pastoral tones when reflecting on his journey.

52. What literary device is heavily used in the phrase: "My soul turned to it [Coleridge's voice] as the needle to the pole"?

A) Simile

B) Metaphor

C) Synecdoche

D) Metonymy

Explanation: The use of "as" makes it a direct simile, comparing his soul's attraction to a magnetic compass needle.

53. Arrange these textual events chronologically as Hazlitt narrates them:

I. Coleridge preaches his sermon.

II. Hazlitt hears Coleridge read "The Ancient Mariner".

III. Hazlitt and Coleridge visit the Valley of Rocks.

IV. Hazlitt reads the manuscript of Lyrical Ballads.

A) I, II, III, IV

B) I, IV, III, II

C) I, II, IV, III

D) I, IV, II, III

Explanation: Hazlitt hears the sermon, later reads the Lyrical Ballads manuscripts at Stowey/Alfoxden, they visit the Valley of Rocks, and discussions/readings of specific poems like the Mariner follow.

54. What flaw does Coleridge point out in the philosophy of empiricism (Locke) during their walk?

- A) It relies too much on God.
- B) It ignores the existence of matter.
- C) It is too poetic.

D) It reduces the mind to a passive receiver of sensations.

Explanation: Coleridge was moving away from empirical associationism towards transcendentalism, critiquing the idea of the mind as purely passive.

55. How does Hazlitt describe his own memory of these events compared to his present state of mind (at the time of writing)?

A) The memory is fading and irrelevant.

B) The memory is vibrant and alive, contrasting with his current cynicism.

C) He regrets the meeting entirely.

D) He cannot remember anything clearly.

Explanation: Hazlitt contrasts the vivid, immortal memory of his youthful awakening with the bitter, "withered" state of his older self.

56. Match the physical action (List I) with its symbolic meaning in the essay (List II):

List I:

I. Hazlitt walking 10 miles in the mud

II. Coleridge crossing the path

III. Wordsworth's rhythmic chanting of poetry

List II:

1. Grounded connection to the earth/nature

2. Intellectual wandering/lack of fixed purpose

3. Eager pilgrimage to intellect/truth

A) I-3, II-2, III-1

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-2, II-1, III-3

D) I-3, II-1, III-2

Explanation: The walk was a pilgrimage; the crossing path showed wandering intellect; the chant tied Wordsworth's verse to natural, elemental rhythms.

57. Which political event's failure casts a shadow over the "aftermath" of the essay's events?

A) The Restoration

B) The Glorious Revolution

C) The French Revolution

D) The Peterloo Massacre

Explanation: The subsequent failure of the French Revolution's ideals is the implied tragedy behind the fading of Coleridge and Wordsworth's radical youth.

58. What did Coleridge think of the works of William Paley?

A) He considered them the pinnacle of theology.

B) He refused to read them.

C) He thought they were highly poetic.

D) He despised them as merely utilitarian and unspiritual.

Explanation: Coleridge rejected Paley's utilitarian theology, finding it lacking in true spiritual depth.

59. In the context of UGC NET, Hazlitt's prose style in this essay is best described as:

A) Highly objective and scientific

B) Written entirely in heroic couplets

C) Dry, factual, and strictly chronological

D) Aphoristic, deeply personal, and highly allusive

Explanation: Hazlitt is the master of the familiar essay; his style is subjective, full of classical allusions, and passionately aphoristic.

60. Arrange the following figures from most practical/grounded to most theoretical/abstract, according to Hazlitt's characterizations:

I. Coleridge

II. Wordsworth

III. Hazlitt's father

A) III, II, I

B) I, II, III

C) II, III, I

D) III, I, II

Explanation: Hazlitt's father was practically grounded in daily Dissenting life; Wordsworth was grounded in physical nature; Coleridge was entirely lost in abstract theory.

61. What did Coleridge complain about regarding his own physical constitution?

A) He was too muscular.

B) He had a chronic limp.

C) He was blind in one eye.

D) He suffered from a "flabby" and weak constitution.

Explanation: Coleridge openly discussed his lack of physical vigor, describing his constitution as flabby or lethargic.

62. Which famous philosopher's house did Hazlitt and Coleridge pass by or discuss on their journey?

A) Francis Bacon

B) Bishop Berkeley

C) John Locke

D) Thomas Hobbes

Explanation: They discussed idealism, heavily touching upon Bishop Berkeley's theories during their walks.

63. What did Hazlitt think of Coleridge's mouth/lips?

A) They were thin and cruel.

B) He had no teeth.

C) They were tightly pursed.

D) They were full, sensual, and expressive.

Explanation: Hazlitt noted Coleridge's gross, sensual, and full lips, suggesting a mix of the intellectual and the physically indulgent.

64. Match the quote (List I) to the underlying theme (List II):

List I:

I. "I was at that time dumb..."

II. "His voice rose like a steam of rich distilled perfumes"

III. "He [my father] had no models..."

List II:

- 1.The aesthetic power of Coleridge
- 2.The intellectual isolation of Dissenters
- 3.Hazlitt's pre-awakened state

A) I-3, II-1, III-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-2, II-3, III-1

D) I-3, II-2, III-1

Explanation: "Dumb" reflects Hazlitt's early state; the "perfumes" quote highlights Coleridge's aesthetic impact; his father having "no models" shows the isolated, pure nature of the old Dissenters.

65. Which river does Hazlitt mention near his home in Wem?

A) The Thames

C) The Wye

B) The Severn

D) The Dee

Explanation: Hazlitt lived in Shropshire, and the Severn is the prominent river of that region mentioned in the essay's atmosphere.

66. What specific color was Coleridge's coat when Hazlitt first met him?

A) Black

C) Brown

B) Blue

D) Grey

Explanation: As a minister, Coleridge was dressed in a traditional black coat, which he later discarded when he gave up the ministry.

67. Arrange the order of Hazlitt's emotional states throughout the essay:

I. Bitter nostalgia

II. Stagnant inability to express himself

III. Ecstatic intellectual awakening

A) I, II, III

B) II, III, I

C) III, II, I

D) II, I, III

Explanation: Hazlitt begins stuck (II), is awakened by Coleridge (III), and writes the essay from a perspective of older, bitter nostalgia (I).

68. How did Coleridge describe the intellect of women during his conversation?

A) He believed they were intellectually superior to men.

B) He controversially stated that there had never been a female writer of true genius.

C) He refused to discuss the topic.

D) He praised Mary Wollstonecraft as the greatest genius of the age.

Explanation: Reflecting the biases of the time, Coleridge controversially dismissed the idea of supreme female literary genius, even while discussing Wollstonecraft.

69. Which essayist is Hazlitt's primary literary predecessor in the style of "My First Acquaintance"?

A) Francis Bacon

B) John Dryden

C) Michel de Montaigne

D) Samuel Johnson

Explanation: Hazlitt's highly personal, reflective, and digressive style is directly modeled on the tradition of Montaigne.

70. Match the location (List I) with its significance in the essay (List II):

List I:

I. Wem

II. Shrewsbury

III. Nether Stowey

List II:

1. Where Coleridge lived and invited Hazlitt

2. Where Hazlitt lived with his father

3. Where Coleridge preached his sermon

A) I-3, II-1, III-2

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-2, II-3, III-1

D) I-2, II-1, III-3

Explanation: Wem was Hazlitt's home; Shrewsbury was the site of the sermon; Nether Stowey was Coleridge's home in Somerset.

71. What did Coleridge think of the poetry of Virgil?

A) He thought it was technically perfect but lacked original fire.

B) He thought it was superior to Homer.

C) He hated Latin poetry entirely.

D) He had never read it.

Explanation: Coleridge admired the mechanics but felt Virgil lacked the raw, original genius of the Greeks.

72. What was Hazlitt's physical state when he finally went to sleep after returning from hearing Coleridge's sermon?

A) Exhausted and depressed

C) Drunk on wine

B) Intoxicated with new ideas, listening to the wind

D) Angry at his father

Explanation: He lay awake listening to the wind, feeling that a new intellectual world had been opened to him.

73. Arrange the following authors in the chronological order they are discussed in the essay:

I. Burke

II. Mackintosh

III. Godwin

A) II, III, I

C) III, II, I

B) I, II, III

D) II, I, III

Explanation: Hazlitt and Coleridge first discuss Mackintosh's abilities, then compare him to Burke, and later discuss Godwin's rigid logic.

74. What feature of Hazlitt's prose highlights his transition from a passive listener to an active critic?

A) His use of rhyming couplets

B) His interjection of mature, critical judgments into his youthful memories

C) His refusal to quote Coleridge

D) His use of statistics

Explanation: The essay masterfully layers the older Hazlitt's critical evaluations over the young Hazlitt's naive enthusiasm.

75. Who does Hazlitt quote when he says, "And he went up into the mountain to pray"?

A) Jesus Christ (via the Gospel of John)

B) Coleridge

C) Wordsworth

D) Both A and B

Explanation: The quote is scripture (Gospel of John about Jesus) but it is specifically quoted by Hazlitt as the text Coleridge read.

76. Match the adjective (List I) with the noun it modifies in the essay (List II):

List I:

I. "Round, faced"

II. "Gaunt, antiquated"

III. "Dumb, inarticulate"

List II:

1. Hazlitt

2. Coleridge

3. Wordsworth

A) I-2, II-3, III-1

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-3, II-1, III-2

D) I-2, II-1, III-3

Explanation: Coleridge is round-faced; Wordsworth is gaunt; young Hazlitt is dumb/inarticulate.

77. What did Wordsworth wear when Hazlitt first saw him?

A) A fine silk suit

B) A black minister's coat

C) A brown fustian jacket and striped pantaloons

D) A military uniform

Explanation: Wordsworth was dressed roughly in country clothes (fustian jacket), emphasizing his connection to rural life.

78. Which of the following best describes Hazlitt's view of his father's life?

A) A tragic failure due to lack of ambition

B) A life wasted on foolish theology

C) A noble, isolated life of pure intellectual integrity

D) A highly successful political career

Explanation: Hazlitt views his father with immense respect, seeing his isolated Dissenting life as one of pure, uncompromised moral integrity.

79. Arrange the following elements of Coleridge's preaching chronologically as Hazlitt experiences them:

I. The announcement of the biblical text

II. The reading of the hymn/psalm

III. The poetic sermon itself

A) II, I, III

B) I, II, III

C) III, I, II

D) I, III, II

Explanation: Coleridge first gave out the psalm (which sounded like an organ), then read the text, and then launched into his sermon.

80. What happened to Hazlitt's boots on the way back from Somerset?

A) They fell apart, and he had to walk in his socks.

B) They were stolen.

C) They were covered in snow.

D) He traded them for a book.

Explanation: His shoes fell apart on the long walking journey, showing the physical toll of his intellectual pilgrimage.

81. According to UGC NET PYQ standards, Hazlitt's use of quotations in this essay is primarily drawn from:

A) Shakespeare, Milton, and the Bible

C) Only his own previous works

D) French revolutionary tracts

B) Contemporary political speeches

Explanation: Hazlitt was deeply read and constantly seamlessly integrated quotes from Shakespeare, Milton, and scripture into his prose.

82. What was the weather like on the day Hazlitt walked to Shrewsbury?

A) A blazing hot summer day

B) A crisp, clear spring morning

C) A raw, cold, and muddy winter day

D) A torrential thunderstorm

Explanation: It was January, and Hazlitt describes the cold, raw, wet, and muddy conditions of the ten-mile walk.

83. Which word best encapsulates Coleridge's mind according to Hazlitt?

A) Analytical

C) Rigid

B) Pragmatic

D) Associative

Explanation: Coleridge's mind worked through endless chains of association, linking disparate ideas seamlessly but lacking linear structure.

84. Match the thematic contrast (List I) with the characters it applies to (List II):

List I:

I. Grounded reality vs. Abstract Idealism

II. Fading radicalism vs. Emerging genius

III. Silent observation vs. Endless eloquence

List II:

1. Hazlitt's Father vs. Coleridge

2. Hazlitt vs. Coleridge

3. Wordsworth vs. Coleridge

A) I-3, II-1, III-2

C) I-2, II-3, III-1

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

D) I-3, II-2, III-1

Explanation: Wordsworth was reality to Coleridge's idealism; the father was fading radicalism to Coleridge's new genius; Hazlitt was the silent observer to Coleridge's talker.

85. What did Coleridge think of the actor David Garrick (as discussed via literary figures)?

A) He thought he was the greatest mind in England.

B) He felt acting was superficial compared to writing.

C) He praised him extensively.

D) He did not mention him.

Explanation: True to his poetic bias, Coleridge valued the written/spoken word of poetry over the physical mimicry of the stage.

86. In which publication did "My First Acquaintance with Poets" first appear in its expanded essay form?

A) The Edinburgh Review

C) The Liberal

B) The Examiner

D) Lyrical Ballads

Explanation: While a shorter version appeared in The Examiner (1817), the full famous essay was published in The Liberal in 1823.

87. Arrange the timeline of Hazlitt's relationship with Coleridge:

I. Initial adoration and intellectual awakening.

II. Disillusionment with Coleridge's political conservatism.

III. Writing the essay in a state of retrospective melancholy.

A) I, II, III

C) II, I, III

B) I, III, II

D) III, II, I

Explanation: Hazlitt loved him in 1798, hated his later Tory politics, and wrote the essay in 1823 reflecting on both the loss of the man and the ideals.

88. What was Hazlitt's father's reaction when Coleridge left Wem?

A) He was glad to see him go.

B) He walked with him a long way down the road.

C) He refused to say goodbye.

D) He gave him a horse.

Explanation: Despite their differences, the father deeply respected Coleridge and walked him a considerable distance on his journey.

89. Which poetic form did Coleridge use to describe the sweeping clouds at the Valley of Rocks?

A) A sonnet

B) Blank verse fragments

C) An ode

D) He didn't write it down, he merely spoke it.

Explanation: Coleridge's genius in this essay is primarily oral; his magnificent descriptions of the clouds were spoken aloud in conversation, not written.

90. Match the tone of Hazlitt's writing (List I) to the subject (List II):

List I:

- I. Reverent and awe-struck
- II. Affectionate but melancholic
- III. Sharp and highly critical

List II:

- 1. Coleridge's later political apostasy (implied)
- 2. Hazlitt's father
- 3. Coleridge in 1798

A) I-3, II-2, III-1

B) I-1, II-2, III-3

C) I-2, II-1, III-3

D) I-3, II-1, III-2

Explanation: He reveres the young Coleridge, is affectionate/melancholic about his father, and is sharply critical of the older, conservative Coleridge.

91. What physical object in Hazlitt's father's house is described as a symbol of old Dissenting intellectualism?

A) A large mahogany bookcase filled with theology tracts

B) A grand piano

C) A painting of Oliver Cromwell

D) A silver crucifix

Explanation: The walls lined with old theology books and tracts represent the heavy, serious intellectual tradition of his father.

92. How does Hazlitt characterize his own essay writing at the very end of this piece?

A) As a definitive history of the Romantic movement

B) As a political manifesto

C) As a mere fragment or "remains" of a past life

D) As a religious confession

Explanation: He ends on a note of decay, viewing his writing as merely picking up the fragments or remains of a glorious past.

93. Arrange the following descriptive terms from the text chronologically as they apply to Hazlitt's life:

I. "Helpless"

II. "Fascinated"

III. "Disappointed"

A) I, III, II

B) II, I, III

C) III, II, I

D) I, II, III

Explanation: He starts helpless (dumb), becomes fascinated by Coleridge, and ends up disappointed by the passage of time and changed politics.

94. What specific type of "Unitarianism" did Coleridge preach at Shrewsbury?

A) A dry, rationalist, strictly logical Unitarianism

B) A strictly orthodox, conservative Unitarianism

C) A mystical, passionate, almost pantheistic Unitarianism

D) A violent, revolutionary Unitarianism

Explanation: Unlike typical dry Dissenters, Coleridge infused his Unitarianism with deep, mystical, and poetic passion.

95. Which poet did Hazlitt feel lacked the "human element" in his poetry, preferring the abstract?

A) Shakespeare

B) Wordsworth

C) Southey

D) Coleridge

Explanation: Although Hazlitt loved Coleridge's mind, he noted Coleridge was too abstract, while Wordsworth captured the grounded human element.

96. Match the critical phrase (List I) to the author (List II):

List I:

I. "A mind reflecting ages past"

II. "The light of poetry"

III. "An eagle dallying with the wind"

List II:

- 1.Shakespeare (alluded to in the text)
- 2.Wordsworth
- 3.Coleridge

A) I-1, II-2, III-3

B) I-2, II-1, III-3

C) I-3, II-2, III-1

D) I-1, II-3, III-2

Explanation: Shakespeare is the universal mind; Wordsworth brought the specific "light of poetry" to Hazlitt's eyes; Coleridge's voice was the eagle.

97. What was the name of the inn where Hazlitt stayed in Bridgewater?

A) The Red Lion

C) The Boar's Head

B) He stayed in a private home.

D) The Bridgewater Arms

Explanation: Hazlitt specifically notes stopping at the Bridgewater Arms inn where he read Camilla.

98. How did Hazlitt ultimately view the impact of Coleridge on his life?

A) As a destructive force that ruined his career as a painter.

B) As the sole catalyst that awakened his intellectual and literary capabilities.

C) As a minor, forgettable encounter.

D) As a purely political awakening.

Explanation: Coleridge was the singular catalyst that broke Hazlitt's "dumbness" and birthed him as an intellectual and writer.

99. Which of the following statements best aligns with UG TRB PYQ analytical models regarding this essay?

A) It is purely biographical and contains no literary criticism.

B) It serves as a dual narrative: the biography of a young man's mind and a critical evaluation of early Romanticism.

C) It is a fictionalized short story.

D) It is an objective historical record of Unitarianism.

Explanation: High-level analysis recognizes the essay as both a psychological autobiography and a foundational text of Romantic literary criticism.

100. What is the final, lingering image Hazlitt leaves the reader with regarding his youthful encounter?

A) A vision of eternal hope and unbroken friendship

B) A sense that the glory has departed, leaving only shadows and memories

C) A call to violent political revolution

D) A detailed critique of a specific poem

Explanation: The essay concludes with a melancholic, elegiac tone, mourning the loss of his youthful idealism and the early, uncorrupted genius of the poets.

UNIT – 4

BRITISH LITERATURE - II

Q 1: Who is the author of the essay "Spoon-Feeding," and what was the popular sobriquet given to him by his contemporaries due to his pessimistic views on modern civilization?

A) G.K. Chesterton – The Paradoxical Sage

B) A.G. Gardiner – The Pen of the People

C) E.V. Lucas – The Urban Moralist

D) W.R. Inge – The Gloomy Dean

Explanation: William Ralph Inge (W.R. Inge) was an English author, Anglican priest, and the Dean of St Paul's Cathedral. He earned the nickname "The Gloomy Dean" because of his pessimistic, cynical views on modern society, democracy, and technological progress, which he eloquently criticized in essays like "Spoon-Feeding."

Q 2: What is the central premise that W.R. Inge argues in his essay "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) Modern civilization and machinery are causing the atrophy of human physical and mental faculties.

B) Technological advancements are the pinnacle of human evolution.

C) The government should provide free food and resources to the lower classes.

D) The printing press is the greatest invention in the history of human progress.

Explanation: The core thesis of "Spoon-Feeding" is that as machines and modern conveniences increasingly do our work for us, human beings are losing their natural physical and intellectual abilities. Inge argues that nature takes away any faculty that is not actively used.

Q 3: In "Spoon-Feeding," W.R. Inge matches specific modern inventions or habits with the corresponding human faculty they destroy. Match List I (Invention/Habit) with List II (Atrophied Faculty).

List I

- a. Soft, processed food
- b. The printing press and books
- c. Motor cars and trains
- d. Cinemas and readymade entertainment

List II

- 1.Memory
- 2.Legs and walking ability
- 3.Teeth and jaws
- 4.Imagination

A) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

B) a-1, b-3, c-4, d-2

C) a-3, b-2, c-1, d-4

D) a-4, b-1, c-2, d-3

Explanation: Inge explicitly points out these correlations to build his argument. Soft foods destroy our teeth; books and print destroy our need for a strong memory; modern transport ruins our legs; and readymade visual entertainment (cinema) destroys our active imagination.

Q 4: Identify the context of the following quote from the essay: "Nature takes away any faculty that is not used."

A) Inge is explaining why modern man's lifespan has decreased.

B) Inge is stating a biological rule to warn humanity about the dangers of over-relying on machinery.

C) Inge is criticizing the educational system for not teaching science.

D) Inge is describing the extinction of the dinosaurs.

Explanation: This quote is the philosophical backbone of the essay. Inge uses the evolutionary and biological principle of "use it or lose it" to warn that humans will physically and mentally degenerate if machines continue to perform all our tasks.

Q 5: Arrange the following notable works by W.R. Inge in the chronological order of their publication:

I. Lay Thoughts of a Dean

II. Christian Mysticism

III. The Fall of the Idols

IV. Outspoken Essays

A) II, IV, I, III

C) IV, II, I, III

B) I, II, III, IV

D) II, I, IV, III

Explanation: W.R. Inge's major works were published as follows: Christian Mysticism (1899), Outspoken Essays (1919), Lay Thoughts of a Dean (1926), and The Fall of the Idols (1940).

Q 6: Assertion (A): According to W.R. Inge, the ancient Greeks and Romans possessed far superior memories compared to modern humans.

Reason (R): They relied heavily on the printing press to document their extensive philosophical dialogues, which stimulated their visual memory.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: The Assertion is true; Inge argues ancient people had superior memories. However, the Reason is completely false. Inge states they had better memories because the printing press did not exist, forcing them to rely on oral tradition and internal memorization rather than external storage (books).

Q 7: Inge frequently uses the metaphor of "parasites" in the essay. Who or what does he compare to parasites?

A) The politicians of the 20th century.

B) Modern human beings relying entirely on the "host" of technological civilization.

C) Microorganisms that cause diseases in modern cities.

D) Industrialists who exploit the working class.

Explanation: Inge draws a biological comparison, noting that when an organism becomes a parasite, it loses its complex organs (like eyes or limbs) because it relies entirely on its host. He warns that modern humans are becoming parasites on the machine of civilization.

Q 8: Which literary term best describes the title "Spoon-Feeding" as used by W.R. Inge?

- A) Synecdoche
- B) Personification
- C) Oxymoron

D) Metaphor

Explanation: "Spoon-feeding" is used metaphorically. While literally referring to feeding an infant who cannot feed itself, Inge uses it to describe how modern society and machinery passively provide for all human needs, reducing adults to an infant-like state of dependency.

Q 9: "The machine has become our master." Which of the following modern literary themes does this quote from Inge best align with?

- A) Romantic pantheism
- B) Post-colonial identity

C) Technological determinism and dystopian dependency

D) Stream of consciousness

Explanation: The quote highlights the reversal of the master-servant dynamic between humans and technology. This aligns with technological determinism—the idea that technology shapes human society and eventually dominates it, a common theme in early 20th-century dystopian thought.

Q 10: To understand the literary context of W.R. Inge, match the following essayists of his era with their famous collections.

List I (Essayist)

- a. E.V. Lucas
- b. A.G. Gardiner
- c. Robert Lynd
- d. G.K. Chesterton

List II (Work)

- 1. Tremendous Trifles
- 2. The Pleasures of Ignorance
- 3. Pebbles on the Shore
- 4. Third Thoughts

A) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

B) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

C) a-4, b-2, c-3, d-1

D) a-1, b-3, c-2, d-4

Explanation: E.V. Lucas wrote Third Thoughts; A.G. Gardiner (Alpha of the Plough) wrote Pebbles on the Shore; Robert Lynd wrote The Pleasures of Ignorance; and G.K. Chesterton wrote Tremendous Trifles.

Q 11: According to Inge, what was the primary physical strength of Paleolithic man compared to modern man?

A) He was immune to all diseases.

B) He had a highly developed brain for complex mathematics.

C) He possessed immense physical hardiness, sharp senses, and survival skills.

D) He had the ability to communicate with animals.

Explanation: Inge romanticizes the physical capabilities of Paleolithic man, noting that early humans had to rely entirely on their physical strength, sharp senses, and endurance to survive against nature, traits that modern humans have lost due to "spoon-feeding."

Q 12:Assertion (A): W.R. Inge considers "labor-saving devices" to be a massive triumph of human intellect that guarantees a utopian future.

Reason (R): Labor-saving devices free up human time for higher spiritual and philosophical pursuits.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true.

B) Both (A) and (R) are false.

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Both statements are false in the context of Inge's philosophy. Inge views "labor-saving devices" as "faculty-destroying devices." He does not believe they lead to a utopia or spiritual elevation; rather, he argues they lead to physical and mental degeneration.

Q 13: Which of the following phrases best captures W.R. Inge's view of "Civilization" as expressed in his essays?

- A) A steady march toward divine perfection.
- B) A necessary evil that must be tolerated for the sake of art.
- C) The highest achievement of the human intellect.

D) A disease which is almost invariably fatal to the human race's natural vigor.

Explanation: Reflecting his title "The Gloomy Dean," Inge often viewed modern civilization not as progress, but as a degenerative disease that strips humanity of its natural vigor, self-reliance, and physical hardiness.

Q 14: Complete the thematic argument made by Inge: "If we do not use our memory, we shall lose it; if we do not use our legs, we shall lose our power to walk; and if we do not use our _____, we shall become mindless drones."

- A) Wealth
- B) Political power
- C) Machinery

D) Imagination and intellect

Explanation: The logical progression of Inge's argument regarding the atrophy of physical organs (legs, teeth) extends directly to mental faculties. Over-reliance on readymade entertainment and literature ruins the active imagination and intellect.

Q 15: Arrange the following famous English essayists in chronological order based on their birth years to establish Inge's place in literary history:

I. Charles Lamb

II. Francis Bacon

III. W.R. Inge

IV. A.G. Gardiner

A) II, I, III, IV

C) II, I, IV, III

B) I, II, IV, III

D) I, III, II, IV

Explanation: Francis Bacon (born 1561 - Elizabethan/Jacobean era), Charles Lamb (born 1775 - Romantic era), W.R. Inge (born 1860 - Victorian/Modern era), A.G. Gardiner (born 1865 - Victorian/Modern era).

Q 16: In "Spoon-Feeding," what specific modern invention does Inge criticize for doing the "thinking and picturing" for the public, thus rendering their minds passive?

A) The telegraph

B) The sewing machine

C) The typewriter

D) The cinema / films

Explanation: Inge specifically targets visual readymade entertainment, like the cinema, arguing that because it provides all the visual imagery on a screen, the audience no longer has to use their own imagination to picture a story.

Q 17: Match the terms used in or associated with Inge's essay to their contextual meanings.

List I (Term)

- a. Atrophy
- b. Spoon-feeding
- c. Degeneration
- d. Automaton

List II (Meaning)

- 1. Over-facilitation leading to dependency
- 2. A mindless, machine-like human
- 3. The wasting away of a body part or faculty
- 4. The decline to a lower physical or moral state

A) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

B) a-1, b-3, c-2, d-4

C) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

D) a-4, b-1, c-3, d-2

Explanation: Atrophy is the medical/biological wasting away of unused organs. Spoon-feeding is the metaphor for dependency. Degeneration is the overall decline of the species. An automaton represents the mindless human stripped of natural faculties.

Q 18: Assertion (A): Inge suggests that modern man's handwriting is becoming worse, or the skill is being lost altogether.

Reason (R): The invention and widespread use of the typewriter "spoon-feeds" the process of writing.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: As a direct application of his thesis, Inge points out that just as walking is ruined by cars, the physical art and skill of handwriting is ruined by the invention of the typewriter, which does the manual formation of letters for us.

Q 19: W.R. Inge's philosophical perspective, which heavily influenced essays like "Spoon-Feeding," was deeply rooted in which of the following traditions?

A) Marxist Materialism

B) American Transcendentalism

C) French Existentialism

D) Christian Platonism

Explanation: W.R. Inge was a prominent scholar of Plotinus and Neoplatonism. His worldview was deeply rooted in Christian Platonism, which led him to value spiritual and intellectual rigor over the superficial material "progress" of modern civilization.

Q 20: What is the tone of the concluding remarks in "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) Cautionary and deeply pessimistic

B) Jubilant and hopeful

C) Satirical and comic

D) Indifferent and objective

Explanation: Consistent with his persona as the "Gloomy Dean," Inge's conclusion is highly cautionary. He warns that if humanity continues on this path of extreme dependency on machinery, it faces inevitable physical and intellectual decline.

Q 21: According to the logic presented in Inge's essay, arrange the stages of human dependency in the chronological order of their historical occurrence:

I. Dependency on external transport (trains/cars)

II. Reliance solely on one's own physical legs and endurance (Paleolithic)

III. Dependency on digital/screen-based imagination (Cinema)

IV. Dependency on written text for memory (Printing press)

A) I, II, III, IV

C) IV, II, I, III

B) II, I, IV, III

D) II, IV, I, III

Explanation: Initially, humans relied on their own bodies (II). Later, writing/printing replaced internal memory (IV). The Industrial Revolution brought trains/cars replacing legs (I). Finally, modern 20th-century entertainment like cinema replaced imagination (III).

Q 22: Which literary device is prominently utilized when Inge describes future humanity as a "toothless, hairless, and helpless" species due to spoon-feeding?

A) Euphemism

B) Litotes

C) Understatement

D) Hyperbolic Caricature

Explanation: Inge uses hyperbolic caricature—exaggerating the physical features (or lack thereof) of future humans to paint a grotesque, memorable picture of what evolutionary atrophy will do to us if we stop using our jaws, bodies, and minds.

Q 23: According to W.R. Inge, how does the modern education system contribute to the "spoon-feeding" phenomenon?

A) By forcing students to memorize too much data.

B) By making learning too easy and removing the intellectual struggle required for genuine understanding.

C) By focusing too heavily on physical education.

D) By refusing to use modern technology in the classroom.

Explanation: Inge extends his critique to education, arguing that modern educational methods try to make learning entirely effortless and entertaining for students, thereby depriving them of the intellectual discipline and struggle necessary to develop a strong mind.

Q 24: Match the essayist to the literary era they are most prominently associated with

List I (Essayist)

- a. W.R. Inge
- b. Charles Lamb
- c. Joseph Addison
- d. Francis Bacon

List II (Era)

- 1.Elizabethan / Jacobean
- 2.Augustan / 18th Century
- 3.Romantic Era
- 4.Early 20th Century / Modern

A) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

B) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

C) a-4, b-2, c-3, d-1

D) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

Explanation: W.R. Inge wrote in the early 20th century; Charles Lamb is the quintessential Romantic essayist; Joseph Addison co-founded The Spectator in the 18th century; Francis Bacon is the father of the English essay from the Elizabethan/Jacobean period.

Q 25: Assertion (A): Inge believes that the true measure of human progress is the amount of machinery we have invented to do our work.

Reason (R): Machinery eliminates the necessity for human suffering and toil.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true.

B) Both (A) and (R) are false.

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Both statements directly contradict Inge's thesis. He believes machinery is a sign of degeneration, not true progress. He also believes that removing the necessity of human "toil" (effort/struggle) removes our very means of maintaining physical and mental health.

Q 26: In the context of the essay, what does Inge imply about the relationship between "civilization" and "nature"?

A) Civilization is the ultimate fulfillment of nature's design.

B) Civilization and nature are in perfect harmony.

C) Civilization operates in direct opposition to nature's law of struggle and survival.

D) Nature is entirely irrelevant to modern civilization.

Explanation: Inge's essay relies on the premise that nature requires struggle and use of faculties for a species to remain strong. Civilization, by providing "spoon-fed" comforts, actively opposes nature's laws, leading to human decline.

Q 27: "We are paying a heavy price for our readymade amusements."
What is the "heavy price" Inge refers to?

A) The literal financial cost of cinema tickets.

B) The loss of individual creativity, active imagination, and self-generated joy.

C) The physical exhaustion of attending theatres.

D) The destruction of the environment to build amusement parks.

Explanation: Inge argues that when we rely on "readymade" amusements (like watching a movie rather than telling a story or playing an instrument), we lose our intrinsic ability to create art, imagine stories, and entertain ourselves.

Q 28: Which of the following would W.R. Inge most likely consider the ideal state of human existence based on the essay "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) A life where humans actively use their physical and mental faculties to overcome challenges.

B) A futuristic city fully automated by AI.

C) A society where books are the only source of knowledge.

D) A life of complete leisure with no manual labor.

Explanation: Since Inge deplores the loss of faculties due to lack of use, his ideal state is one of active engagement, where humans utilize their bodies for transport and labor, and their minds for memory and imagination, thereby maintaining their natural vigor.

Q 29: According to Inge's logical progression in the essay, arrange the steps of degeneration in the correct order:

- I. The faculty or organ completely atrophies.
- II. A machine or convenience is invented to perform a human task.
- III. Humans become completely dependent on the machine.
- IV. Humans stop using the specific physical or mental faculty.

A) II, IV, I, III

C) IV, II, III, I

B) II, IV, III, I

D) II, III, IV, I

Explanation: The chronological process of degeneration according to Inge: First, an invention is made (II). People rely on it and become dependent (III). Because they are dependent, they stop using their natural faculty (IV). Finally, due to non-use, the faculty atrophies (I).

Q 30: Match the English essayists to their famous pen names or sobriquets.

List I (Essayist)

- a. W.R. Inge
- b. Charles Lamb
- c. A.G. Gardiner
- d. William Hazlitt

List II (Sobriquet/Pen Name)

- 1. Alpha of the Plough
- 2. The Gloomy Dean
- 3. Elia
- 4. The Critic's Critic

A) a-2, b-3, c-1, d-4

C) a-3, b-2, c-4, d-1

B) a-2, b-1, c-3, d-4

D) a-1, b-3, c-2, d-4

Explanation: W.R. Inge is "The Gloomy Dean"; Charles Lamb wrote under the pseudonym "Elia"; A.G. Gardiner wrote under "Alpha of the Plough"; William Hazlitt is historically regarded as the quintessential "Critic's Critic."

Q 31: In "Spoon-Feeding," W.R. Inge draws a parallel between modern, machine-dependent humans and which biological phenomenon to illustrate the dangers of extreme dependency?

A) Symbiosis, where two species help each other survive.

B) Parasitism, where an organism loses its active organs because the host provides for it.

C) Metamorphosis, where an organism evolves into a completely different form.

D) Hibernation, where an organism sleeps to conserve energy.

Explanation: Inge uses the biological concept of a parasite to explain human degeneration. When an organism becomes a parasite, relying entirely on a host for nutrients and protection, it gradually loses its limbs, sensory organs, and mobility. Inge argues that humans are becoming parasites on the "host" of modern machinery.

Q 32: Identify the implied subject in this foundational argument by Inge: "The ancient Greeks... had memories which would seem to us almost miraculous." What, according to Inge, destroyed this "miraculous" faculty in modern humans?

A) The consumption of processed foods.

B) The shift from polytheism to monotheism.

C) The invention of the printing press and written records.

D) The introduction of formal classroom education.

Explanation: Inge points out that ancient peoples, like the Greeks, had to memorize vast epics (like the Iliad and Odyssey) because they lacked printed books. The invention of the printing press provided an external storage system for information, which resulted in the atrophy of the internal human memory.

Q 33: Assertion (A): W.R. Inge viewed the invention of the typewriter as a tragic development for human capability.

Reason (R): He argued that it would cause the complete loss of the physical art and fine motor skill of human handwriting.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Inge explicitly argues that every machine takes away a human skill. He cites the typewriter as the specific machine that "spoon-feeds" the writing process, predicting that the physical skill of handwriting will degrade and eventually be lost.

Q 34: Match the modern convenience with its specific detrimental effect on the human mind/body as posited by W.R. Inge in his essays.

List I (Convenience)

- a. The automobile
- b. Readymade clothing and housing
- c. The cinema / theatre
- d. Dictionaries and encyclopedias

List II (Detrimental Effect)

1. Atrophy of memory and mental retention
2. Loss of active, self-generated imagination
3. Atrophy of physical endurance and the lower limbs
4. Loss of basic survival and crafting skills

A) a-3, b-4, c-2, d-1

B) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

C) a-4, b-3, c-1, d-2

D) a-2, b-4, c-3, d-1

Explanation: Inge logically connects specific modern luxuries to the loss of specific human traits. Automobiles ruin the legs (3); relying on others to make clothes/houses ruins survival crafting (4); cinema ruins imagination (2); and reference books ruin memory (1).

Q 35: Inge implicitly and explicitly compares different eras of human history to show the trajectory of degeneration. Arrange the following epochs in the chronological order that represents Inge's timeline from maximum physical vitality to maximum dependency:

I. The Era of the Printing Press

II. The Era of Paleolithic Man

III. The Era of the Automobile and Cinema

IV. The Era of Oral Tradition (Ancient Greece)

A) II, I, IV, III

C) II, IV, I, III

B) IV, II, I, III

D) IV, I, II, III

Explanation: The Paleolithic man (II) possessed the highest physical vitality. The Ancient Greeks (IV) still had massive mental vitality (memory). The Printing Press (I) began the decay of memory. The Modern Era with cars and cinema (III) represents the climax of physical and imaginative dependency.

Q 36: In his critique of modern education, what practice does W.R. Inge suggest is the academic equivalent of "spoon-feeding"?

A) Forcing students to memorize Latin grammar.

B) Removing all difficulties and making learning a purely passive, entertaining experience.

C) Making students walk miles to attend school.

D) Using corporal punishment in classrooms.

Explanation: Inge deplores the modern educational trend of trying to make learning entirely effortless for the student. He believes that removing intellectual struggle and replacing it with entertaining, "predigested" information destroys the student's capacity for independent, rigorous thought.

Q 37: W.R. Inge was the Dean of which famous religious institution, an association that lent moral and philosophical weight to his essays?

A) Westminster Abbey

C) St. Paul's Cathedral

B) Canterbury Cathedral

D) York Minster

Explanation: William Ralph Inge was widely known as "Dean Inge" because he served as the Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in London from 1911 to 1934. His ecclesiastical position gave him a prominent platform for his social and cultural critiques.

Q 38: Read the following extract: "Our ancestors lived by the chase; they had to run down their game, and to kill it with primitive weapons." What is the rhetorical purpose of this statement in the essay?

A) To advocate for a return to a hunter-gatherer society.

B) To establish a baseline of peak human physical vigor to contrast with modern weakness.

C) To criticize the cruelty of ancient humans towards animals.

D) To prove that modern dietary habits are superior.

Explanation: Inge uses the rugged, physically demanding lifestyle of prehistoric ancestors to highlight how far modern humans have fallen. He is not literally telling people to hunt with spears, but rather contrasting ancient self-reliance with modern passive dependency.

Q 39: Match the rhetorical strategies and literary concepts used by Inge in "Spoon-Feeding" with their examples.

List I (Strategy/Concept)

- a. Metaphor
- b. Didacticism
- c. Hyperbole
- d. Evolutionary Biology

List II (Example/Application)

1. Predicting man will become a hairless, toothless, legless creature.
2. The moral warning against intellectual laziness.
3. The title "Spoon-Feeding" representing societal dependency.
4. The principle of "use it or lose it" regarding physical organs.

A) a-3, b-2, c-1, d-4

C) a-2, b-3, c-4, d-1

B) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

D) a-4, b-2, c-1, d-3

Explanation: The title is a Metaphor (3). The essay's moral tone is Didactic (2). The grotesque image of future man is Hyperbole (1). The core argument relies on the laws of Evolutionary Biology/adaptation (4).

Q 40: According to the logic of Inge's essay, which of the following terms best describes a society that equates "progress" exclusively with the invention of labor-saving devices?

A) Enlightened

B) Transcendent

C) Utopian

D) Deluded

Explanation: Inge believes society is deluded because it confuses mechanical advancement with human advancement. While the machines are progressing, the humans using them are actually degenerating. Therefore, calling labor-saving devices "progress" is a dangerous delusion.

Q 41: Assertion (A): In "Spoon-Feeding," Inge praises the modern worker for being more skilled and versatile than the ancient craftsman.

Reason (R): Modern factory workers operate highly complex machinery that ancient craftsmen could not understand.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true.

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

B) Both (A) and (R) are false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Both are false. Inge argues the exact opposite. He states that an ancient craftsman possessed immense personal skill and versatility, creating whole objects by hand. The modern factory worker, conversely, is reduced to passively pulling a lever or pushing a button, requiring no distinct personal craftsmanship.

Q 42: To understand Inge's place in the tradition of English didactic prose, arrange the following masters of English prose in chronological order:

I. Thomas Carlyle

II. Samuel Johnson

III. John Milton

IV. W.R. Inge

A) III, II, I, IV

C) III, I, II, IV

B) II, III, I, IV

D) I, II, III, IV

Explanation: John Milton (17th Century - Puritan Age); Samuel Johnson (18th Century - Age of Sensibility); Thomas Carlyle (19th Century - Victorian Age); W.R. Inge (Late 19th/Early 20th Century - Modern Age).

Q 43: W.R. Inge's pessimistic views on human degeneration share thematic similarities with which famous dystopian novel written shortly after Inge's peak publishing years?

A) Pride and Prejudice by Jane Austen

B) The Hobbit by J.R.R. Tolkien

C) Brave New World by Aldous Huxley

D) To the Lighthouse by Virginia Woolf

Explanation: Aldous Huxley's Brave New World (1932) explores a dystopian future where humans are completely "spoon-fed" by technology and the state, living lives of effortless pleasure but lacking true human vitality, struggle, and intellectual freedom—exactly the future Inge feared.

Q 44: "The man of the future will be a toothless, hairless, helpless biped." What specific modern convenience does Inge blame for the impending "toothless" state of humanity?

A) Dental hygiene products

B) The pollution of city air

C) Soft, chemically processed, and predigested foods

D) The lack of calcium in modern milk

Explanation: Inge applies his "use it or lose it" theory to human anatomy. Because modern society increasingly consumes soft, processed foods that require very little chewing, the human jaw and teeth are not being rigorously used, which Inge predicts will lead to their eventual evolutionary disappearance.

Q 45: In the context of the essay, what is the fundamental difference between "labor" and "exercise"?

A) Labor is paid; exercise is unpaid.

B) Inge does not differentiate between them; he believes both are unnecessary.

C) Labor is forced exertion for survival, whereas exercise is artificial exertion to compensate for the loss of natural labor.

D) Labor destroys the body, while exercise heals it.

Explanation: Inge points out the irony of modern life: humans invent machines to avoid the physical labor of walking or working, but then must invent artificial exercise (like sports or gymnastics) simply to keep their bodies from falling apart due to the lack of natural labor.

Q 46: Match the essayist with the tone or style most commonly associated with their works, establishing Inge's unique position.

List I (Essayist)

- a. W.R. Inge
- b. Charles Lamb
- c. Francis Bacon
- d. Jonathan Swift

List II (Tone/Style)

- 1.Nostalgic, whimsical, and highly personal
- 2.Bitterly satirical and misanthropic
- 3.Objective, aphoristic, and pragmatic
- 4.Pessimistic, moralistic, and cautionary

A) a-2, b-1, c-3, d-4

B) a-4, b-3, c-1, d-2

C) a-4, b-1, c-3, d-2

D) a-1, b-4, c-2, d-3

Explanation: W.R. Inge is moralistic and pessimistic (4). Charles Lamb (Elia) is famous for his whimsical, nostalgic tone (1). Bacon's essays are practical and aphoristic (3). Swift is the master of bitter satire (2).

Q 47: Assertion (A): W.R. Inge argues that reading excessive amounts of modern fiction strengthens a person's intellectual capacity.

Reason (R): Modern fiction introduces complex philosophical concepts that challenge the reader's worldview.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true.

B) Both (A) and (R) are false.

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Both are false. Inge argues that reading massive amounts of lightweight, entertaining modern fiction (alongside going to the cinema) is a form of intellectual "spoon-feeding." It requires no active mental effort and actually weakens the mind's capacity for deep, sustained thought.

Q 48: Which of the following phrases best summarizes the "law of nature" that serves as the foundation for the essay "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) Survival of the fittest.

B) Matter can neither be created nor destroyed.

C) That which is not used is taken away.

D) Every action has an equal and opposite reaction.

Explanation: The fundamental premise of the essay is the biological/evolutionary concept that nature eliminates organs and faculties that are no longer actively used by an organism ("That which is not used is taken away").

Q 49: Based on the themes of memory and recording in Inge's essay, arrange the following stages of human communication from most reliant on human memory to least reliant:

I. Digital spell-checkers and autocorrect algorithms

II. Oral transmission of epic poetry

III. The mass production of printed books

IV. Handwritten manuscript copying

A) I, III, IV, II

C) IV, II, III, I

B) II, III, IV, I

D) II, IV, III, I

Explanation: Oral transmission (II) required 100% internal memory. Handwritten manuscripts (IV) began externalizing memory. Printed books (III) mass-produced external memory, causing human memory to atrophy. Digital algorithms (I) remove the need to even remember spelling, representing the highest dependency.

Q 50: What does Inge mean when he states, "We are in danger of becoming a race of automatons"?

A) Humans will literally be replaced by robots in the workforce.

B) Humans will lose their independent will, vitality, and distinct personality, acting mechanically.

C) Humans will evolve into metallic beings.

D) Humans will achieve perfect, error-free societies.

Explanation: By "automatons," Inge means humans who function like mindless machines. By relying entirely on external machines for physical movement, entertainment, and thought, humans lose their active soul, independent thought, and physical vigor.

Q 51: W.R. Inge was deeply influenced by Neoplatonism. How does this philosophical background manifest in the themes of "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) By arguing that material wealth is the only path to spiritual salvation.

B) By valuing the active, rigorous development of the human mind and spirit over mere material and mechanical comforts.

C) By asserting that God wants humans to invent machines to conquer nature.

D) By promoting a hedonistic lifestyle of pleasure without consequence.

Explanation: Neoplatonism emphasizes the elevation of the soul and intellect above the physical, material world. Inge's disdain for "labor-saving" material comforts stems from his Neoplatonic belief that such material indulgences distract from and destroy the rigorous spiritual and intellectual development of the individual.

Q 52: Match the human organ/faculty to the specific reason for its atrophy according to the essay's core logic.

List I (Faculty)

- a. The Brain / Intellect
- b. The Legs
- c. The Jaws
- d. The Hands / Fine Motor Skills

List II (Cause of Atrophy)

- 1. Consumption of predigested, soft food
- 2. Educational systems that remove struggle
- 3. Typewriters and automated manufacturing
- 4. Motor cars and trains

A) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

B) a-4, b-2, c-3, d-1

C) a-1, b-3, c-2, d-4

D) a-2, b-1, c-4, d-3

Explanation: The intellect atrophies due to easy education/entertainment (2); legs atrophy due to transport (4); jaws atrophy due to soft food (1); and hands/motor skills atrophy due to typewriters and factory automation (3).

Q 53: Inge frequently uses the term "readymade" (e.g., readymade amusements, readymade opinions). In his view, what is the danger of consuming "readymade" things?

A) They are usually overpriced and cause economic inflation.

B) They rob the individual of the creative process and the effort required to form one's own thoughts or art.

C) They are highly flammable and dangerous to keep in the home.

D) They violate copyright laws.

Explanation: "Readymade" implies that all the work has been done for the consumer. Inge argues that the process of creating an amusement or formulating an opinion is what builds mental and emotional strength. Consuming them "readymade" makes the mind passive and lazy.

Q 54: Assertion (A): The title "Spoon-Feeding" accurately reflects Inge's belief that modern humans are emotionally and intellectually regressing to an infantile state.

Reason (R): Spoon-feeding is an action strictly reserved for infants and the severely ill who cannot physically provide for themselves.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: The title is a brilliant metaphor. Just as a baby cannot feed itself and must be passively fed by a parent, modern man is losing his adult self-reliance and must be passively "fed" everything (transportation, entertainment, information) by the "parent" of modern machinery.

Q 55: Inge's essay relies heavily on 19th-century theories of evolution and use/disuse. Arrange these evolutionary scientists/theorists in chronological order of their major contributions, establishing the intellectual background of Inge's argument:

I. Charles Darwin (Origin of Species)

II. Jean-Baptiste Lamarck (Theory of inheritance of acquired characteristics/use and disuse)

III. Gregor Mendel (Laws of Inheritance)

A) II, I, III

B) I, II, III

C) II, III, I

D) III, II, I

Explanation: Lamarck (early 1800s) heavily popularized the idea that an organ used frequently grows stronger, while an unused organ shrinks (use and disuse)—the very concept Inge relies on. Darwin published later (1859), and Mendel's work gained prominence after Darwin.

Q 56: Which of the following best explains Inge's warning that civilization is becoming a "parasitic growth"?

A) Urban cities are destroying rural forests.

B) The human race is attaching itself to the "host" of the machine, slowly losing its own vital organs and functions.

C) The wealthy class is feeding off the labor of the poor class.

D) Modern medicines are creating super-viruses.

Explanation: Returning to his biological metaphor, a parasite relies completely on its host for survival, leading to the evolutionary loss of its own limbs and sensory organs. Inge warns that humans are becoming the parasite, and technology/machinery is the host.

Q 57: According to Inge, why is the passive consumption of Cinema fundamentally more damaging to the mind than reading a book?

A) Cinema theaters are unhygienic.

B) Reading requires the active use of the visual imagination to picture the scene, whereas the cinema provides the visual imagery directly, rendering the imagination dormant.

C) Books are inherently more moral than films.

D) Cinema causes permanent damage to the optic nerve.

Explanation: While Inge criticizes the printing press for destroying memory, he finds cinema even worse for the imagination. When reading, one must actively construct the images in one's mind. Cinema spoon-feeds the exact images to the viewer, requiring zero imaginative effort.

Q 58: What is the overarching tone of W.R. Inge's concluding thoughts in "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) Apocalyptic and deeply foreboding.

B) Celebratory and triumphant.

C) Indifferent and scientifically detached.

D) Comedic and light-hearted.

Explanation: Known as the "Gloomy Dean," Inge's conclusion offers no easy solutions. He paints a foreboding, almost apocalyptic picture of human evolutionary decay, warning that our obsession with easy living will ultimately lead to our physical and intellectual ruin.

Q 59: Match the literary/rhetorical device used in "Spoon-Feeding" with its definition as applied to the text.

List I (Device)

- a. Satire
- b. Analogy
- c. Paradox
- d. Motif

List II (Definition)

- 1.The recurring idea of biological decay through disuse.
- 2.The comparison of human technological dependency to animal parasitism.
- 3.The contradictory truth that "labor-saving" devices actually make humans weaker.
- 4.The mocking of the modern definition of "progress."

A) a-4, b-2, c-3, d-1

B) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

C) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

D) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

Explanation: Inge mocks modern progress (Satire - 4). He compares humans to parasites (Analogy - 2). The idea that saving labor ruins humanity is a Paradox (3). The constant reference to physical decay is a Motif (1).

Q 60: Assertion (A): W.R. Inge advocates for the immediate destruction of all modern machinery to save the human race.

Reason (R): He believes humanity must return to a Paleolithic state of hunting and gathering to survive.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true.

B) Both (A) and (R) are false.

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Both are false. While Inge is deeply critical of machinery, he is a social critic, not a radical Luddite advocating for the violent destruction of machines or a literal return to the cave. He is diagnosing a moral and physical decline to provoke awareness and caution, not providing a blueprint for societal collapse.

Q 61: In W.R. Inge's view, the modern obsession with "progress" is fundamentally flawed because society equates progress with which of the following?

A) The accumulation of mechanical inventions and labor-saving devices.

B) The moral and spiritual elevation of the individual.

C) The complete eradication of poverty through socialist policies.

D) The expansion of the British Empire across the globe.

Explanation: Inge critiques the modern definition of "progress." He argues that society mistakenly measures progress by the sheer number of machines and technological conveniences it produces, ignoring the simultaneous physical and intellectual degeneration of the human beings who use them.

Q 62: Inge writes, "We are inventing faculty-destroying devices." Which of the following best encapsulates the paradox he is highlighting with this phrase?

A) Devices created to build infrastructure are destroying the natural environment.

B) Medical advancements are creating new, incurable diseases.

C) Educational tools are making students more prone to violence.

D) Inventions designed to empower humanity are actually stripping humans of their natural abilities.

Explanation: The paradox of the "faculty-destroying device" (which society calls a "labor-saving device") is that in the attempt to make life easier and give humans more power over their environment, these inventions cause the biological and intellectual tools (faculties) of humans to wither away from disuse.

Q 63: Assertion (A): Inge implies that a society heavily reliant on dictionaries, encyclopedias, and printed books is intellectually weaker than an oral society.

Reason (R): Oral societies require individuals to actively cultivate and utilize vast, internal memory reserves to preserve their culture and knowledge.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Inge uses the ancient Greeks as an example of an oral society with "miraculous" memory. Once the printing press was invented, humans offloaded their knowledge into books. Because the internal memory faculty was no longer strictly necessary for survival or cultural preservation, it weakened.

Q 64: W.R. Inge's skepticism of industrial progress places him in a lineage of British thinkers. Match the 19th/20th-century thinker with their corresponding critique, which aligns with Inge's philosophy.

List I (Thinker)

- a. Thomas Carlyle
- b. John Ruskin
- c. Aldous Huxley
- d. William Morris

List II (Critique/Focus)

1. Warned against the dehumanizing effects of a purely technological dystopia.
2. Criticized the "Mechanical Age" and the loss of spiritual dynamism.
3. Advocated for a return to medieval craftsmanship against factory mass production.
4. Condemned industrial capitalism for destroying the aesthetic and moral value of labor.

A) a-2, b-1, c-4, d-3

B) a-1, b-3, c-2, d-4

C) a-4, b-2, c-3, d-1

D) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

Explanation: Understanding Inge requires knowing his intellectual context. Carlyle critiqued the "Mechanical Age" (2). Ruskin focused on the moral/aesthetic decay caused by industrialization (4). Huxley wrote of technological dystopias (1). Morris championed the Arts and Crafts movement against factories (3).

Q 65: To understand the historical context that shaped "The Gloomy Dean's" pessimism, arrange the following events in chronological order:

I. The outbreak of World War I (which shattered European optimism).

II. W.R. Inge is appointed Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral.

III. The publication of Charles Darwin's On the Origin of Species (influencing Inge's evolutionary logic).

IV. The publication of Inge's Outspoken Essays.

A) III, II, I, IV

B) III, I, II, IV

C) II, III, I, IV

D) I, III, II, IV

Explanation: Darwin's Origin of Species was published in 1859 (III). Inge became Dean of St. Paul's in 1911 (II). WWI began in 1914 (I). Inge published Outspoken Essays in 1919 (IV), heavily influenced by the devastation of the war and his evolutionary views.

Q 66: Inge's essay suggests that modern civilization is essentially a process of _____.

- A) Continuous moral elevation.
- B) Returning to ancient Greek philosophical ideals.
- C) Harmonizing human intellect with the laws of nature.

D) Shifting the burden of survival from the human body to the machine.

Explanation: The core mechanic of "spoon-feeding" is offloading human effort. Instead of using our legs to walk, we use cars. Instead of using our memory, we use books. Civilization, to Inge, is merely the process of shifting the burden of living from biological organs to mechanical inventions.

Q 67: What specific critique does W.R. Inge level against the modern approach to reading and literature?

- A) Modern literature is too focused on religious dogma.
- B) People only read to pass exams and secure employment.

C) The proliferation of lightweight, readymade fiction requires no mental exertion from the reader.

D) Books have become too expensive for the working class to afford.

Explanation: Inge extends his "disuse" theory to the intellect. He argues that consuming massive amounts of easy, "predigested" modern fiction acts as a sedative rather than a stimulant. It requires no active intellectual struggle, causing the mind's analytical faculties to atrophy.

Q 68: Identify the rhetorical tone of the following passage: "We are becoming the slaves of our own machines."

A) Celebratory and utopian

B) Sarcastic and dismissive

C) Cautionary and deterministic

D) Nostalgic and romantic

Explanation: The tone is deeply cautionary. It reflects a deterministic view that humanity's creations have taken on a life of their own, reversing the hierarchy so that humans now serve and depend on the machines, rather than the machines serving humanity.

Q 69: Match the modern condition in List I with the evolutionary consequence predicted by Inge in List II.

List I (Modern Condition)

- a. The elimination of physical danger and struggle for survival.
- b. The reliance on calculators and external data storage.
- c. The consumption of exclusively soft, refined diets.
- d. The universal use of automated transport.

List II (Evolutionary Consequence)

- 1. The loss of mathematical and retentive intellectual faculties.
- 2. The atrophy of the lower limbs.
- 3. The shrinking of the jawbone and loss of dentition.
- 4. The loss of natural hardness and physical vitality.

A) a-4, b-1, c-3, d-2

C) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

B) a-1, b-2, c-4, d-3

D) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

Explanation: Removing struggle destroys vitality (4). Calculators/data storage destroy the intellect/memory (1). Soft diets destroy jaws/teeth (3). Transport destroys the legs (2).

Q 70: Assertion (A): According to Inge, participating in organized sports and gymnastics is a sign of humanity's triumphant physical superiority.

Reason (R): Modern man must invent artificial exercise because he has eliminated the natural, necessary physical labor from his daily life.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: The Assertion is false because Inge does not view this as a triumph. The Reason is true: he points out the absurdity that we build machines to avoid physical work, but then our bodies begin to fail from disuse, forcing us to invent artificial "exercises" just to maintain basic health.

Q 71: The title "Spoon-Feeding" draws upon the imagery of infancy. In developmental psychology, an adult who regresses to an infantile state of dependency is exhibiting what?

A) Self-actualization

B) Sublimation

C) Cognitive dissonance

D) Infantilization

Explanation: Inge's entire essay is an argument about the infantilization of the human race. By having machines "spoon-feed" us our transport, food, and entertainment, modern adults are being reduced to the helpless, dependent status of infants.

Q 72: Based on Inge's evolutionary logic regarding human dentition, arrange the following stages in chronological order from the past to Inge's predicted future:

- I. The consumption of raw, tough meats and unprocessed grains.
- II. The evolutionary shrinking of the jaw and loss of teeth.
- III. The introduction of heavily processed, soft, "predigested" foods.
- IV. The development of a robust, powerful jaw structure for survival.

A) I, IV, III, II

C) I, III, IV, II

B) IV, I, III, II

D) IV, III, I, II

Explanation: Early humans ate raw, tough food (I), which required and developed a robust jaw (IV). Modern civilization introduced soft, processed food (III), which requires no chewing, leading to Inge's prediction of a toothless future (II).

Q 73: "Nature takes away any faculty that is not used." Which famous biological theory is W.R. Inge directly citing in this sentence?

A) Gregor Mendel's Law of Independent Assortment

B) Louis Pasteur's Germ Theory

C) Jean-Baptiste Lamarck's Theory of Use and Disuse

D) Alexander Fleming's discovery of antibiotics

Explanation: The concept that an organism will lose an organ or faculty if it is not used in its environment is directly tied to Lamarckian evolutionary theory (Use and Disuse), which heavily influenced biological and social thought in the 19th and early 20th centuries.

Q 74: Match the literary technique with its function within Inge's "Spoon-Feeding".

List I (Technique)

- a. Didacticism
- b. Caricature
- c. Syllogism (Logical deduction)
- d. Biological Metaphor

List II (Function)

- 1.To explain the relationship between humans and machines as "host and parasite."
- 2.To instruct the reader on the moral and physical dangers of laziness.
- 3.To deduce that if ancient man walked and modern man drives, modern man will lose his legs.
- 4.To paint an exaggerated, grotesque picture of a hairless, toothless future man.

A) a-4, b-3, c-1, d-2

C) a-2, b-4, c-3, d-1

B) a-1, b-2, c-4, d-3

D) a-2, b-1, c-3, d-4

Explanation: Didacticism aims to instruct/warn (2). Caricature is the grotesque exaggeration of future man (4). The logical deduction of cause and effect regarding disuse is syllogistic reasoning (3). The parasite comparison is a biological metaphor (1).

Q 75: W.R. Inge's essay "Spoon-Feeding" can be best classified under which sub-genre of the essay form?

A) The Personal or Familiar Essay

B) The Travelogue

C) The Biographical Essay

D) The Social/Philosophical Critique

Explanation: Unlike Charles Lamb's deeply personal and whimsical essays (Familiar Essays), Inge's work is an objective, moralistic, and analytical examination of society's trajectory, placing it firmly in the category of Social and Philosophical Critique.

Q 76: According to Inge, what happens to the human capacity for "wonder" and "imagination" in an age where everything is explicitly visualized on a cinema screen?

A) It is greatly enhanced by the visual stimuli.

B) It becomes highly analytical and scientific.

C) It is rendered obsolete and subsequently atrophies.

D) It turns toward religious mysticism.

Explanation: Inge argues that imagination is the mind's ability to create images from words or concepts. Because the cinema spoon-feeds exact visual images to the audience, the active faculty of imagination is no longer required, and therefore, it decays.

Q 77: Assertion (A): Inge believes that the transition from walking to driving motor-cars is an unmitigated triumph of human engineering.

Reason (R): It allows humans to conquer geography and travel faster than ever before.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: The Reason is a true statement about what cars do, but the Assertion is entirely false according to Inge's philosophy. He views the motor-car not as an "unmitigated triumph," but as a tragic crutch that will lead to the biological ruin of the human legs.

Q 78: Arrange the following technological shifts in chronological order based on when they historically occurred, tracing the arc of human "spoon-feeding" that Inge describes:

I. The shift from handwriting to typewriting.

II. The shift from oral storytelling to the printing press.

III. The shift from the printing press to visual cinema.

IV. The shift from walking to locomotive/automobile transport.

A) IV, II, III, I

B) II, I, IV, III

C) II, IV, I, III

D) I, II, IV, III

Explanation: The printing press (15th century) replaced oral tradition (II). The Industrial Revolution brought trains/early cars in the 19th century (IV). The typewriter became commercially widespread in the late 19th/early 20th century (I). The cinema emerged in the early 20th century (III).

Q 79: What does Inge imply when he states, "The machine is a strict master"?

A) Machines frequently break down and require expensive repairs.

B) Technology dictates the rhythm, habits, and physical state of human life, allowing no deviation.

C) Only highly educated engineers can operate modern machinery.

D) Machines are actively plotting to destroy humanity.

Explanation: Inge implies that once a society adopts a machine, it becomes entirely dependent on it. The machine "dictates" terms to humanity—we must build our cities around cars, change our schedules for trains, and ultimately alter our physical biology to accommodate a sedentary lifestyle.

Q 80: Match W.R. Inge's famous works with their thematic focus, essential for understanding his broader ideology for the PG TRB exams.

List I (Work)

a. Outspoken Essays (1919)

b. Christian Mysticism (1899)

c. The Fall of the Idols (1940)

d. Lay Thoughts of a Dean (1926)

List II (Thematic Focus)

1. A defense of Neoplatonic spiritual philosophy.
2. Critiques of post-WWI society, democracy, and progress.
3. Accessible essays on literature, religion, and daily life.
4. A late-career reflection dismantling popular modern beliefs.

A) a-2, b-1, c-4, d-3

B) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

C) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

D) a-4, b-1, c-2, d-3

Explanation: Outspoken Essays deals with his famous critiques of modern progress (2). Christian Mysticism focuses on Platonism/spirituality (1). The Fall of the Idols attacks modern dogmas (4). Lay Thoughts features his more accessible, general writings (3).

Q 81: In "Spoon-Feeding," how does W.R. Inge view the concept of "struggle" in human existence?

A) As a cruel punishment inflicted by nature that technology must eradicate.

B) As an unnatural state caused by capitalist exploitation.

C) As a vital, necessary biological and moral requirement for maintaining physical and mental health.

D) As a concept only applicable to the animal kingdom, not to civilized man.

Explanation: For Inge, struggle is not a curse; it is the mechanism by which nature keeps a species strong. By removing struggle through "spoon-feeding" technology, humanity ensures its own weakness and eventual degeneration.

Q 82: Assertion (A): The proliferation of readymade clothing, pre-packaged food, and built houses proves the absolute self-sufficiency of modern man.

Reason (R): Modern man no longer has to rely on his own skills to provide the basic necessities of survival.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: The Assertion is false. The availability of these readymade items proves man's dependency, not his self-sufficiency. The Reason is true: modern man lacks survival skills (like sewing, hunting, building) because society provides everything for him, making him completely helpless if the system fails.

Q 83: W.R. Inge's philosophy, as expressed in "Spoon-Feeding," stands in direct opposition to the optimistic, progress-driven worldview typical of which literary and historical era?

A) The Dark Ages

B) The Restoration Period

C) The Romantic Era

D) The Victorian Era (Mid-19th Century)

Explanation: The mid-to-late Victorian era was characterized by immense optimism regarding industrialization, the British Empire, and continuous, upward human progress (e.g., the Great Exhibition of 1851). Inge, writing in the early 20th century, aggressively dismantles this Victorian optimism.

Q 84: Match the step in Inge's theoretical cycle of human degeneration with its corresponding description.

List I (Step in Cycle)

- a. Stage 1: Invention
- b. Stage 2: Facilitation
- c. Stage 3: Dependency
- d. Stage 4: Atrophy

List II (Description)

- 1.The physical or mental faculty wastes away from disuse.
- 2.A machine is created to perform a physical or mental task.
- 3.The machine makes the task easier, reducing human effort.
- 4.Humans lose the ability to perform the task without the machine.

A) a-2, b-3, c-4, d-1

B) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

C) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

D) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

Explanation: This tracks the logical flow of Inge's argument. First, a machine is invented (2). It facilitates the work, making it easier (3). Humans rely on it entirely, becoming dependent (4). Finally, because the human faculty is no longer used, it atrophies (1).

Q 85: To place W.R. Inge accurately within the continuum of the English essay, arrange these distinct phases of essay writing chronologically:

I. The Periodical Essay (focus on manners and morals, e.g., Addison & Steele)

II. The Modern Philosophical/Social Critique (focus on civilization's flaws, e.g., Inge, Huxley)

III. The Aphoristic Essay (focus on pragmatic advice, e.g., Bacon)

IV. The Personal/Romantic Essay (focus on individual emotion and whimsy, e.g., Lamb, Hazlitt)

A) III, I, IV, II

C) III, IV, I, II

B) I, III, II, IV

D) IV, III, I, II

Explanation: Bacon's aphoristic essays were late 16th/early 17th century (III). The periodical essay thrived in the early 18th century (I). The personal essay blossomed in the Romantic period of the early 19th century (IV). The modern social critique emerged in the late 19th/early 20th century (II).

Q 86: When Inge refers to "the atrophy of the active faculties," which two broad categories of faculties is he encompassing?

A) Political and economic

C) Artistic and musical

B) Physical and intellectual

D) Agricultural and industrial

Explanation: Inge's thesis is comprehensive. "Active faculties" refers both to the physical body (legs for walking, jaws for chewing, hands for crafting) and the intellectual mind (memory for retention, imagination for visualization, analytical thought for reading).

Q 87: In the grand scope of evolutionary history discussed in the essay, what is the ultimate ironic fate of humanity if it continues to be "spoon-fed"?

A) Man will evolve into a higher spiritual being.

B) Man will conquer the stars using his machinery.

C) Man will biologically regress to an inferior, helpless species unable to survive without artificial life support.

D) Man will learn to perfectly balance nature and technology.

Explanation: The supreme irony Inge points out is that our pursuit of technological mastery over nature is actually causing our own biological regression. By making life too easy, we are evolving backward into a weak, defenseless species.

Q 88: Assertion (A): W.R. Inge believes that the ease of modern travel has made people more observant and deeply connected to nature.

Reason (R): Riding in trains and motor-cars allows people to see vast landscapes quickly.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true.

B) Both (A) and (R) are false.

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: The Reason is factually true (cars allow you to see landscapes quickly). However, the Assertion is false. Inge believes that passive, fast travel in a machine disconnects humanity from nature. True connection to the environment comes from the physical struggle of walking through it.

Q 89: Match the metaphor used in the context of W.R. Inge's ideology with its intended meaning.

List I (Metaphor)

- a. The Host
- b. The Parasite
- c. The Spoon
- d. The Drone

List II (Meaning)

- 1.The technological conveniences that deliver ease without effort.
- 2.The modern human stripped of independent thought and vigor.
- 3.The vast, automated machinery of modern civilization.
- 4.The dependent human race feeding off technological comforts.

A) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

B) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

C) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

D) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

Explanation: In Inge's biological framework, the machinery of civilization is the Host (3), while humanity is the Parasite (4). The "Spoon" represents the devices that deliver effortless comfort (1), reducing humans to mindless Drones (2).

Q 90: To summarize W.R. Inge's final position in "Spoon-Feeding," what is the indispensable prerequisite for human strength and vitality?

A) Unrestricted access to education.

B) A completely vegetarian diet.

C) Necessity and the struggle against physical/mental resistance.

D) The dismantling of democratic governments.

Explanation: Inge's ultimate thesis is that strength—whether physical muscle or intellectual power—is only built through resistance. When necessity forces humans to struggle, they remain vital. When machinery removes the necessity to struggle, vitality is lost.

Q 91: According to Inge's logic in the essay, how does the modern citizen typically treat the "readymade opinions" provided by the daily press and media?

A) They fiercely debate them in public forums.

B) They swallow them whole without any active critical examination, much like consuming predigested food.

C) They reject them in favor of traditional religious teachings.

D) They rewrite them to fit their own personal narratives.

Explanation: Inge draws a direct parallel between the physical consumption of soft, readymade food and the intellectual consumption of readymade opinions. Because the press does the "thinking" for the public, citizens lose the ability to critically analyze information, merely absorbing what they are fed.

Q 92: "The machine has become a master." What figure of speech is dominant in Inge's treatment of the "machine" in this context?

- A) Simile
- B) Synecdoche
- C) Onomatopoeia

D) Personification

Explanation: Inge uses personification by giving the "machine" human-like agency, authority, and the ability to act as a "master" over humanity. This rhetorical device emphasizes the unnatural reversal of roles between creator (man) and creation (machine).

Q 93: Assertion (A): W.R. Inge views the widespread adoption of the automobile as a tragic milestone in human evolution.

Reason (R): It marks the specific point where humanity voluntarily surrendered its physical independence for the sake of speed and convenience.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: Both statements are true, and the Reason explains the Assertion. Inge laments the automobile not just as a machine, but as a biological turning point. By choosing convenience (driving) over natural effort (walking), humanity willingly begins the atrophy of its own lower limbs.

Q 94: To understand the philosophical underpinnings of Inge's era (essential for UGC NET), match the socio-literary concept with its definition.

List I (Concept)

- a. Fin de siècle pessimism
- b. Luddism
- c. Neoplatonism
- d. Social Darwinism

List II (Definition)

- 1.The philosophical elevation of the spiritual intellect over material bodily comforts.
- 2.The belief that human society is subject to the same laws of natural selection as plants and animals.
- 3.A sense of cultural decay and anxiety about degeneration at the turn of the 20th century.
- 4.The radical opposition to new technology and industrialization.

A) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

B) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

C) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

D) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

Explanation: Inge's work reflects the turn-of-the-century anxiety regarding degeneration (3). While not a violent Luddite, his work touches on anti-industrial themes (4). His religious background was heavily Neoplatonic (1), and his arguments about atrophy rely on evolutionary/Social Darwinist logic (2).

Q 95: To place "Spoon-Feeding" in the correct historical continuum for the UG TRB exam, arrange the following landmark essay collections in chronological order of publication:

I. Essays of Elia by Charles Lamb

II. The Spectator papers by Addison and Steele

III. Outspoken Essays by W.R. Inge

IV. Essays by Francis Bacon

A) IV, II, I, III

B) II, IV, I, III

C) IV, I, II, III

D) I, II, III, IV

Explanation: Bacon's Essays were published in 1597 (Elizabethan/Jacobean). The Spectator ran in the early 1700s (Augustan). Essays of Elia appeared in 1823 (Romantic). Inge's Outspoken Essays was published in 1919 (Modern).

Q 96: Which of the following sets of adjectives best characterizes the prose style and tone of W.R. Inge in "Spoon-Feeding"?

A) Polemical, didactic, and intensely analytical.

B) Whimsical, meandering, and highly emotional.

C) Ambiguous, poetic, and dream-like.

D) Conversational, slang-heavy, and humorous.

Explanation: Inge's prose is polemical (arguing strongly against a prevailing opinion), didactic (intending to teach a moral lesson), and analytical. He does not use the meandering, emotional whimsy of Romantic essayists like Lamb or De Quincey.

Q 97: Inge implicitly suggests that true "civilization" should not be measured by the complexity of its machines, but rather by what?

A) The amount of leisure time afforded to the working class.

B) The physical, intellectual, and spiritual vitality of the individual human beings within it.

C) The size and power of its military forces.

D) The total volume of printed books it produces.

Explanation: A recurring theme in Inge's essays is that true civilization resides in the quality of the person, not the paraphernalia. If machines are highly advanced but the humans using them are physically weak and intellectually lazy, the civilization is actually in a state of decay.

Q 98: Assertion (A): The ultimate consequence of "spoon-feeding," according to the implicit philosophy of W.R. Inge, is that modern man is reduced to living a strictly "vicarious" existence.

Reason (R): Instead of acquiring direct, firsthand experience through personal physical and intellectual exertion, modern man increasingly relies on machines, readymade media, and proxies to process and experience the world on his behalf.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Explanation: "Vicarious" refers to experiencing something indirectly, through a substitute or proxy. This perfectly captures the essence of Inge's critique. Whether it is a motor-car doing the walking, a cinema doing the imagining, or a newspaper doing the analytical thinking, modern civilization forces humans to live indirectly through the efforts of machines rather than through their own direct, active vitality.

Q 99: "He is becoming a parasite on the machine." In the biological context that Inge uses here, what is the defining, fatal trait of a parasite?

A) It lives much longer than its host.

B) It eventually grows large enough to consume its host.

C) It loses the ability to survive independently if separated from its host.

D) It provides equal benefit to the host in return for shelter.

Explanation: Inge uses the parasite metaphor precisely because of this fatal flaw. A parasite sheds its own survival mechanisms (legs, eyes, hunting instincts) because the host provides everything. If the "host" of modern machinery were to suddenly stop, modern "parasitic" humanity would lack the skills and biology to survive.

Q 100: Ultimately, W.R. Inge's "Spoon-Feeding" serves as a profound philosophical plea for what?

A) Increased government funding for technological research.

B) A return to active engagement, personal struggle, and self-reliance in both physical and intellectual life.

C) The immediate banning of all cinemas and motor-cars.

D) The establishment of a global totalitarian state to force people to exercise.

Explanation: Inge is not asking for a literal return to the Stone Age, nor is he promoting authoritarian bans. His essay is a moral and philosophical plea for individuals to recognize the dangers of passive dependency, urging them to actively challenge their bodies and minds to maintain their human vitality.

UNIT – 4

BRITISH LITERATURE - II

1. What is the original language in which Waiting for Godot was written?

A) English

C) German

B) Irish

D) French

Explanation: Beckett originally wrote the play in French under the title En attendant Godot to force himself to write with greater discipline and simplicity.

2. In which year did the play Waiting for Godot have its premiere on stage?

A) 1948

C) 1955

B) 1953

D) 1960

Explanation: The play premiered on January 5, 1953, at the Théâtre de Babylone in Paris.

3. Which famous Irish critic famously described Waiting for Godot as a play in which "nothing happens, twice"?

A) Terry Eagleton

C) Vivian Mercier

B) Martin Esslin

D) Kenneth Tynan

Explanation: Vivian Mercier wrote this famous review, highlighting the cyclical and repetitious structure of the play's two acts.

4. What is the subtitle of Waiting for Godot in its English translation?

A) A Tragedy of the Absurd

C) An Existential Drama

B) A Play in Two Parts

D) A Tragicomedy in Two Acts

Explanation: Beckett explicitly subtitled the English version "A Tragicomedy in Two Acts," blending elements of bleak existential tragedy with slapstick comedy.

5. Which literary movement is Waiting for Godot most closely associated with?

A) Theatre of the Absurd

C) Magical Realism

B) Naturalism

D) Kitchen Sink Realism

Explanation: The play is a foundational text of the Theatre of the Absurd, a term coined by Martin Esslin to describe plays that emphasize the meaninglessness of human existence.

6. What are the pet names Vladimir and Estragon use for each other?

A) Didi and Gogo

B) Vinnie and Esty

C) Val and Gogo

D) Didi and Ron

Explanation: Vladimir is affectionately called Didi, and Estragon is called Gogo, underscoring their codependent relationship.

7. In Act 1, what physical ailment is Estragon primarily preoccupied with?

A) A prostate condition

C) Sore, aching feet

B) Blindness

D) A persistent cough

Explanation: Estragon spends much of the play struggling with his ill-fitting boots, symbolizing physical suffering.

8. Conversely, what physical ailment torments Vladimir?

A) Migraines

C) Arthritis in his hands

B) A prostate/urinary condition

D) Deafness

Explanation: Vladimir frequently struggles to laugh or urinate without pain, symbolizing an internal, systemic suffering.

9. What is the setting of the play as described in the stage directions?

A) A ruined castle. Evening.

B) A barren room. A single window.

C) A desolate beach. Morning.

D) A country road. A tree. Evening.

Explanation: The sparse setting—"A country road. A tree. Evening."—reflects the minimalist and universal nature of the human condition.

10. What is the opening line of the play, spoken by Estragon?

A) "Where is he?"

C) "Nothing to be done."

B) "Let's go."

D) "We are waiting for Godot."

Explanation: "Nothing to be done" refers immediately to Estragon's boot but establishes the overarching existential theme of futility.

11. Which biblical story does Vladimir obsess over in Act 1, questioning its inconsistencies?

A) The story of Cain and Abel

B) The betrayal of Judas

C) The parting of the Red Sea

D) The two thieves crucified with Christ

Explanation: Vladimir is troubled that only one of the four Evangelists mentions that one of the thieves was saved, reflecting themes of arbitrary salvation.

12. When Pozzo and Lucky first arrive, what is Lucky carrying?

A) A heavy bag, a folding stool, a picnic basket, and a greatcoat

B) A wheelbarrow full of bricks

C) A rope and a whip

D) Only a heavy suitcase filled with sand

Explanation: Lucky carries Pozzo's physical burdens, symbolizing his complete subservience and the weight of material existence.

13. What is the relationship between Pozzo and Lucky?

- A) Father and son
- B) Godot's messengers
- C) Two traveling merchants
- D) Master and slave

Explanation: Their dynamic is a stark representation of the master-slave dialectic and capitalist exploitation.

14. What does Pozzo call Lucky to command his attention?

- A) "Slave!"
- B) "Dog!"
- C) "Pig!"
- D) "Fool!"

Explanation: Pozzo frequently dehumanizes Lucky by calling him "Pig!" and pulling violently on the rope around his neck.

15. What specific item of clothing must Lucky wear in order to "think"?

- A) A pair of glasses
- B) A red scarf
- C) A long coat
- D) A bowler hat

Explanation: Lucky is incapable of delivering his philosophical monologue unless his bowler hat is placed on his head.

16. What is the name of the dance that Lucky performs for the group?

A) The Scapegoat's Agony

B) The Net

C) The Dance of Time

D) The Absurd Waltz

Explanation: Pozzo explains that Lucky calls his dance "The Net," symbolizing a feeling of being hopelessly trapped.

17. What food does Estragon beg from Pozzo in Act 1?

A) Chicken bones

B) A half-eaten apple

C) A piece of bread

D) A turnip

Explanation: Estragon shamelessly begs for the chicken bones that Pozzo throws away, highlighting his base, animalistic hunger.

18. According to the Boy in Act 1, what does he do for Mr. Godot?

A) He cleans his house

B) He runs his errands

C) He minds the goats

D) He minds the sheep

Explanation: The Boy reveals he minds the goats, and Godot is kind to him, while he beats the boy's brother who minds the sheep.

19. What physical change occurs to the tree between Act 1 and Act 2?

A) It is cut down

B) It turns completely to ash

C) It bears fruit

D) It sprouts four or five leaves

Explanation: The sudden appearance of leaves is one of the few markers of the passage of time, though it also symbolizes a faint, perhaps false, sense of hope.

20. What major affliction has struck Pozzo in Act 2?

A) He has become deaf

C) He has become blind

B) He has lost his memory completely

D) He has lost his voice

Explanation: Pozzo's blindness in Act 2 represents the unpredictable and arbitrary cruelty of time and fate.

21. What affliction has struck Lucky in Act 2?

A) He is blind

B) He is paralyzed

C) He is dumb (mute)

D) He is deaf

Explanation: Lucky's loss of speech pairs with Pozzo's blindness, stripping them both of their primary faculties of power and expression from Act 1.

22. How does Vladimir verify that Estragon is actually wearing his own boots in Act 2?

- A) He checks for a signature on the sole
- B) He asks Estragon what color they are
- C) He looks to see if they fit perfectly

D) Estragon claims they are someone else's, but Vladimir points out they are the same boots

Explanation: Estragon claims the boots aren't his because they are a different color, highlighting the unreliability of memory and identity.

23. What prop plays a central role in a fast-paced, vaudeville-style routine between Vladimir and Estragon in Act 2?

A) Three bowler hats

C) A rope

B) Two pairs of boots

D) A magnifying glass

Explanation: They engage in a rapid, comical routine of exchanging their hats and Lucky's left-behind hat, echoing silent film comedy (like Charlie Chaplin).

24. When Pozzo asks Estragon his name in Act 1, what does Estragon reply?

A) Adam

C) Sisyphus

B) Christ

D) Everyman

Explanation: Estragon replies "Adam," positioning himself as the prototypical fallen man, representing all of humanity.

25. Which vegetable does Vladimir give to Estragon, which Estragon rejects because he prefers another?

A) He gives him a radish, but he prefers a carrot

B) He gives him a turnip, but he prefers a carrot

C) He gives him a carrot, but he prefers a potato

D) He gives him a turnip, but he prefers a radish

Explanation: Estragon bites into a turnip, spits it out, and complains, revealing he only likes carrots, a moment highlighting their meager existence.

26. What song does Vladimir sing at the beginning of Act 2?

A) A song about a blind man

B) A song about a tree

C) A round song about a dog beaten to death in a kitchen

D) A hymn praising Godot

Explanation: The circular, unending song about a dog stealing a crust of bread mirrors the cyclical, inescapable nature of their own waiting.

27. What happens when Vladimir and Estragon attempt to help the fallen Pozzo in Act 2?

A) Pozzo attacks them

B) They effortlessly lift him up

C) They also fall and cannot get up

D) Lucky chases them away

Explanation: Their attempt to help results in them all rolling on the ground in a helpless pile, mocking the concept of human intervention and savior figures.

28. How does Pozzo describe the passage of time when questioned in Act 2?

A) As a slow, painful march

B) As an illusion created by Godot

C) He furiously asserts that all life happens in a single day

D) He says time stopped when he went blind

Explanation: "They give birth astride of a grave, the light gleams an instant, then it's night once more." Pozzo expresses that life is agonizingly brief.

29. What is the final visual image of both Act 1 and Act 2?

A) They walk off the stage together

B) Godot's shadow appears

C) They agree to go, but they do not move

D) They successfully hang themselves

Explanation: "They do not move." This recurring stage direction perfectly encapsulates the paralysis of the human will in an absurd universe.

30. Why do Vladimir and Estragon decide not to hang themselves from the tree in Act 1?

A) The branch might break, leaving one alive and alone

B) They realize they want to live

C) Godot arrives just in time

D) The Boy stops them

Explanation: Estragon points out that if the bough breaks, Vladimir will be left alone, which is a fate worse than death for them.

31. What object does Pozzo lose in Act 1 that causes him great distress?

A) His whip

C) His wallet

B) His half-hunter watch

D) His glasses

Explanation: The loss of his watch foreshadows Pozzo's eventual loss of the concept of time itself in the second act.

32. Who delivers a long, virtually unpunctuated monologue often referred to as "the think"?

A) Vladimir

C) Lucky

B) Pozzo

D) Godot

Explanation: Lucky's "think" is a breakdown of language, theology, and science, demonstrating the decay of rational thought.

33. In Lucky's speech, what kind of God is described?

A) A benevolent father

B) A personal God with a white beard who is characterized by apathia, athambia, and aphasia

C) A strict punisher of sinners

D) A nonexistent entity

Explanation: Lucky describes an indifferent God who exists outside of time and lacks emotion (apathia), terror (athambia), and the ability to speak clearly (aphasia).

34. What brand of pipe does Pozzo smoke?

A) A Dunhill

C) A Meerschaum

B) A Briar

D) A Kapp and Peterson

Explanation: Pozzo explicitly mentions losing his "Kapp and Peterson," adding a touch of materialism and specific societal class to his character.

35. What is Vladimir's reaction to Lucky's weeping in Act 1?

A) He laughs at him

B) He tries to wipe away Lucky's tears but gets kicked in the shins

C) He turns his back in disgust

D) He asks Pozzo to release him

Explanation: When Vladimir approaches out of pity to dry Lucky's tears, Lucky violently kicks him, showing that suffering does not necessarily breed compassion.

36. In existentialist terms, what does "Godot" most likely symbolize?

A) Capitalism

B) An objective meaning or purpose that never arrives

C) A political revolutionary

D) Death

Explanation: While Beckett refused to define Godot, the character functions as an empty vessel for whatever the tramps—and humanity—are waiting for to give their lives meaning.

37. Which philosopher's concept of the "Absurd" is heavily prevalent in the play?

A) Albert Camus

B) Immanuel Kant

C) Karl Marx

D) John Locke

Explanation: The play aligns with Camus's philosophy of the Absurd, where humanity persistently seeks meaning in a meaningless universe.

38. What structural symmetry is a defining feature of Waiting for Godot?

- A) It follows a strict Aristotelian five-act structure
- B) It has a tripartite structure mirroring the Holy Trinity
- C) It consists of two acts that are near-identical in plot but degraded in condition
- D) It ends exactly where it began, in a perfect loop without act breaks

Explanation: Act 2 mirrors Act 1 almost exactly, emphasizing cyclical repetition rather than traditional narrative progression.

39. How do the tramps consider passing the time when they get bored?

- A) Building a shelter
- C) Hanging themselves and telling jokes
- B) Walking to the next town
- D) Fighting each other

Explanation: They engage in wordplay, vaudeville routines, and contemplate suicide simply as activities to "hold the terrible silence at bay."

40. What is Pozzo's intention regarding Lucky at the beginning of Act 1?

- A) To sell him at the fair of Saint-Sauveur
- C) To take him to a doctor
- B) To set him free
- D) To introduce him to Godot

Explanation: Pozzo states he is taking Lucky to the market to sell him, as he no longer finds him useful.

41. Which character says: "The tears of the world are a constant quantity. For each one who begins to weep somewhere else another stops"?

A) Vladimir

C) Pozzo

B) Estragon

D) Lucky

Explanation: Pozzo says this in Act 1, offering a bleak, mathematical view of human suffering as an unchangeable absolute.

42. According to Vladimir, what is the problem with human memory in the play?

A) It is too vivid and painful

B) It is entirely reliable but ignored

C) It fades too quickly, causing them to doubt their own existence

D) It only remembers the future

Explanation: The characters constantly forget what happened yesterday, forcing them to rely on each other to confirm they exist in time.

43. Who is the only character who claims to never dream?

A) Vladimir

C) Pozzo

B) Estragon

D) Lucky

Explanation: Vladimir forbids Estragon from sharing his dreams, as Vladimir cannot handle the subconscious terror they represent.

44. What item of Lucky's does Pozzo stomp on to stop him from "thinking"?

A) His stool

C) His hat

B) His watch

D) His glasses

Explanation: The group aggressively removes and tramples Lucky's hat, which is the mechanism that allows him to speak his chaotic monologue.

45. What happens when the Boy arrives at the end of Act 2?

A) He brings a message that Godot is here

B) He brings a message that Godot won't come this evening, but surely tomorrow

C) He tells them Godot is dead

D) He refuses to speak

Explanation: The Boy delivers the exact same message as he did in Act 1, trapping the tramps in an eternal cycle of deferred hope.

46. When Vladimir asks the Boy in Act 2 if he came yesterday, what is the Boy's response?

A) Yes, I brought the same message.

B) I don't remember.

C) No, sir.

D) Godot told me not to say.

Explanation: The Boy denies having been there before, feeding into the play's motif of erased history and unreliable reality.

47. What does Estragon suggest they do to the tree in Act 2?

- A) Cut it down
- B) Hide behind it
- C) Hang themselves from it with his belt
- D) Eat its leaves

Explanation: Desperate to escape their waiting, they try to hang themselves, but Estragon's belt breaks.

48. What happens to Estragon's trousers when he removes his belt?

- A) They burst into flames
- B) They fall down around his ankles
- C) They turn into a skirt
- D) Nothing happens

Explanation: This provides a final moment of dark, physical comedy, undercutting the seriousness of their suicide attempt.

49. Which of the following best describes the language style used by Beckett in the play?

- A) Flowery and Shakespearean
- B) Spare, repetitive, and full of pauses and silences
- C) Highly technical and scientific
- D) Written entirely in rhyming couplets

Explanation: Beckett strips language down to its bare essentials, using repetition and silence to highlight the failure of communication.

50. "Astride of a grave and a difficult birth." Who is speaking about the brevity of human life?

A) Vladimir

C) Pozzo

B) Estragon

D) The Boy

Explanation: Vladimir expands upon Pozzo's earlier sentiment, realizing that human existence is merely a flash between birth and the grave.

51. What names are mentioned as the potential identity of "Godot" by critics (though denied by Beckett)?

A) God

C) French slang for boot ("godillot")

B) A bicycle racer named Godeau

D) All of the above

Explanation: Critics have speculated on all these origins, though Beckett famously stated, "If I knew, I would have said so in the play."

52. In Act 1, what does Estragon do immediately after waking up from a nap?

A) He sings a song

B) He tries to tell Vladimir his nightmare, but Vladimir refuses to listen

C) He starts packing his bag

D) He attacks Lucky

Explanation: Estragon's need for comfort is rejected by Vladimir, who feels alienated and disturbed by the mention of dreams.

53. How does Pozzo explain the sky and the onset of night in Act 1?

A) He recites a scientific textbook

B) He gives a highly lyrical, theatrical performance that suddenly turns dark and terrifying

C) He ignores the sky completely

D) He claims he controls the sun

Explanation: Pozzo gives a bombastic performance about the twilight, demonstrating his need for an audience and capturing the suddenness of darkness.

54. What are the names of the two fictitious scholars mentioned in Lucky's speech?

A) Puncher and Wattmann

C) Testew and Cunard

B) Fartov and Belcher

D) All of the above

Explanation: Lucky's absurd, parodic speech mocks academic and theological discourse by using these crude, nonsensical names.

55. What does the "muck" in the play symbolize?

A) The physical earth and the degradation of the human condition

B) A hidden treasure

C) The food they eat

D) The past they left behind

Explanation: The characters frequently reference being in the "muck" or mud, representing the base, decaying reality of their existence.

56. Who says the line, "We are all born mad. Some remain so."?

A) Estragon

C) Pozzo

B) Vladimir

D) Lucky

Explanation: Estragon states this, reinforcing the absurd view that rational existence in an irrational world is a form of madness.

57. What is the significance of the characters constantly taking off and putting on their hats?

A) It shows they are respectful gentlemen

B) It symbolizes the futile exchange of ideas and the mechanical nature of human thought

C) They are trying to keep warm

D) It is a signal to Godot

Explanation: The hat motif highlights that their "thinking" is merely an automated, external performance.

58. Which character provides the only sense of historical memory, often reminding the other of their past in the Macon country?

A) Vladimir

C) Pozzo

B) Estragon

D) The Boy

Explanation: Vladimir attempts to hold onto their shared history, trying to validate their existence through memory, while Estragon forgets.

59. In the context of existentialism, Vladimir and Estragon's waiting represents:

A) "Bad faith" (mauvaise foi)

C) Marxist revolution

B) Authentic action

D) Utilitarianism

Explanation: In Sartrean terms, waiting for an external savior (Godot) instead of creating their own meaning is an act of "bad faith."

60. What physical object does Estragon use to try and clean his trousers after Pozzo and Lucky leave?

A) A handkerchief

C) He just dusts them off with his hands

B) A piece of paper

D) He spits on them

Explanation: This base, physical action underscores the crude reality of their physical bodies.

61. What does the phrase "Quaquaquaqu" in Lucky's speech mock?

A) A duck's quack

C) The sound of coughing

B) Latin academic or theological language

D) A clock ticking

Explanation: It satirizes the pretense of intellectual and religious rhetoric, reducing it to nonsense syllables.

62. What is the main difference in how Vladimir and Estragon relate to the Boy?

A) Vladimir is polite and interrogates him; Estragon is aggressive and hostile

B) Estragon is fatherly; Vladimir ignores him

C) Both attack him physically

D) Both offer him food

Explanation: Vladimir seeks information to confirm reality, while the frightened Estragon lashes out violently at the intruder.

63. "Was I sleeping, while the others suffered? Am I sleeping now?"
Who speaks these lines?

A) Estragon

C) Pozzo

B) Lucky

D) Vladimir

Explanation: Vladimir has an epiphany near the end of Act 2, realizing the tragedy of passing time and human indifference.

64. How do the characters determine if Pozzo is truly blind in Act 2?

A) They wave a hand in front of his face

B) They ask him to read a letter

C) Estragon suggests they kick him to see if he reacts

D) Vladimir wonders if he can see into the future

Explanation: They test his blindness physically, doubting even the most obvious realities.

65. What does Pozzo claim he is searching for in Act 1?

- A) Godot
- B) A new slave
- C) A lost watch
- D) His estate

Explanation: Though vaguely stated, Pozzo initially projects the image of a wealthy landowner touring his property or traveling to the market.

66. What element of the play reflects a "tragicomedy"?

- A) It ends in a wedding but features death
- B) It combines profound existential despair with slapstick, clownish humor
- C) It has a tragic hero who makes a funny mistake
- D) It is an ancient Greek play updated for modern times

Explanation: The pairing of dark themes (suicide, isolation) with physical comedy (falling down, dropping trousers) defines its tragicomic genre.

67. What is the only thing that proves Vladimir and Estragon existed yesterday?

- A) A photograph
- B) A written contract with Godot
- C) A wound on Estragon's leg from Lucky's kick
- D) The tree

Explanation: Physical pain (the festering wound) is the only reliable evidence of their past experiences.

68. Why is it significant that Estragon's belt is actually a piece of rope?

A) It shows he is a sailor

B) It reflects their extreme poverty and mirrors the rope Pozzo uses on Lucky

C) It is a gift from Godot

D) It is a magic trick

Explanation: The rope ties the themes of subservience, poverty, and suicidal despair together visually.

69. Which character frequently complains that he is hungry?

A) Vladimir

C) Lucky

B) The Boy

D) Estragon

Explanation: Estragon is tied strongly to his physical needs—food, sleep, and foot pain—whereas Vladimir is more cerebral.

70. What does Vladimir do with Lucky's hat after their hat-juggling routine?

A) He throws it away

B) He puts it in his pocket

C) He puts it on his own head and keeps it

D) He gives it to Estragon

Explanation: Vladimir ends the routine wearing Lucky's hat, symbolically adopting the burden of "thinking."

71. "We always find something, eh Didi, to give us the impression we exist?" This quote highlights:

A) Their joy in life

B) The necessity of passing the time through games to avoid facing the void

C) Their immense wealth

D) Their religious devotion

Explanation: The tramps invent distractions to continuously validate their own existence and fill the empty silence.

72. What is the boy's brother's job?

A) Minding the cows

C) Minding the sheep

B) Running errands for Pozzo

D) Delivering mail

Explanation: The boy's brother minds the sheep and gets beaten by Godot, a dark parallel to the biblical separation of the sheep and the goats.

73. In Act 2, what does Estragon do when he believes "They" are coming for him?

A) He hides behind the tree

B) He draws a knife

C) He tries to run away but feels surrounded, eventually returning to Vladimir

D) He jumps into a ditch

Explanation: Estragon's panic highlights his paranoia, but he finds no escape route, emphasizing their trapped condition.

74. How does the play mock the conventions of traditional theater?

A) By having characters address the audience directly and insult them

B) By using a 100-piece orchestra

C) By changing sets every five minutes

D) By refusing to use any props

Explanation: The characters look out into the audience, calling them a "bog" or referring to the "auditorium," breaking the fourth wall.

75. What is the central metaphor of the "road" in the play's setting?

A) Technological progress

B) A trade route for merchants

C) A path to heaven

D) The journey of life, which ironically leads nowhere in this play

Explanation: Unlike traditional roads that imply travel and destination, this road is static; no one progresses anywhere.

76. What word does Estragon use to insult Vladimir during an argument in Act 2, which ends the argument?

A) Moron

C) Crritic!

B) Vermin

D) Abortion

Explanation: "Crritic!" is used as the ultimate insult in their escalating name-calling match, reflecting Beckett's disdain for over-intellectualizing art.

77. What happens when Estragon tries on the boots he finds in Act 2?

A) They don't fit at all

B) They fit perfectly, causing him to declare they are not his

C) They are covered in blood

D) They magically make him dance

Explanation: The fact that they fit perfectly adds to the absurdity, as his original boots were too tight.

78. What does Vladimir conclude about Godot at the end of Act 2?

A) That he will never come

B) That he is dead

C) That if they wait until tomorrow, they will be saved; if not, they will hang themselves

D) That they should go find him

Explanation: The perpetual cycle is maintained; salvation is always deferred to "tomorrow."

79. How does Beckett utilize "silence" in the play?

A) To indicate a scene change

B) As an active element of the dialogue, written specifically into the stage directions to build tension and dread

C) To allow actors to improvise

D) To cover up mistakes

Explanation: Pauses and silences are highly choreographed, representing the void and the failure of human connection.

80. What role does "habit" play, according to Vladimir?

A) Habit is a great deadener

C) Habit is a gift from God

B) Habit is the key to success

D) Habit leads to madness

Explanation: Vladimir realizes that habit numbs them to the true horror and brevity of their existence.

81. Which pair of characters best represents the division between the mind and the body?

A) Pozzo and Lucky

B) Vladimir (mind) and Estragon (body)

C) Godot and the Boy

D) Estragon and Pozzo

Explanation: Vladimir thinks, remembers, and looks at the sky; Estragon focuses on sleep, eating, and his physical pain.

82. Why did Beckett refuse to allow women to act in Waiting for Godot during his lifetime?

A) He believed the specific physical ailments (like the prostate issue) were distinctly male

B) He hated female actors

C) The original contract forbade it

D) Women refused to perform in it

Explanation: Beckett strictly controlled his estate, arguing that the characters' specific physiological realities were inherently male.

83. What famous prison successfully staged Waiting for Godot in 1957?

A) San Quentin

C) Sing Sing

B) Alcatraz

D) Tower of London

Explanation: The inmates at San Quentin famously understood the play implicitly, relating directly to the concept of eternal waiting and confinement.

84. Which actor famously played Estragon in the play's American premiere in Miami (1956), which was a disastrous flop?

A) Bert Lahr

C) Charlie Chaplin

B) Buster Keaton

D) Marlon Brando

Explanation: Billed as a comedy, the Miami audience was confused. It succeeded later in New York when properly marketed.

85. What does the French phrase "En attendant Godot" literally translate to?

A) Looking for Godot

C) While Waiting for Godot

B) The Arrival of Godot

D) Meeting Godot

Explanation: The continuous verb "attendant" stresses the ongoing, unending action of waiting itself.

86. (Chronological Order) Place the following events of Act 1 in the correct order:

1. Lucky gives his speech

2. Estragon struggles with his boot

3. The Boy arrives

4. Pozzo eats chicken

A) 2, 4, 1, 3

B) 2, 1, 4, 3

C) 4, 2, 1, 3

D) 1, 2, 3, 4

Explanation: The play opens with the boot, Pozzo arrives and eats, Lucky is commanded to think, and the Boy appears at dusk.

87. (Chronological Order) Identify the correct sequence of events in Act 2:

1. Vladimir sings the dog song
2. They attempt suicide with the belt
3. Pozzo and Lucky enter, both disabled
4. They exchange hats

A) 4, 1, 3, 2

B) 1, 3, 4, 2

C) 1, 4, 3, 2

D) 3, 1, 4, 2

Explanation: Act 2 begins with the song, moves to the hat routine, Pozzo and Lucky arrive and fall, and the act ends with the failed hanging.

88. (Chronological Order) Trace Beckett's publication/production timeline:

1. Wins Nobel Prize
2. Writes Waiting for Godot
3. English premiere in London
4. French premiere in Paris

A) 2, 1, 4, 3

C) 4, 2, 3, 1

B) 2, 3, 4, 1

D) 2, 4, 3, 1

Explanation: Written ~1949, French premiere 1953, London premiere 1955, Nobel Prize 1969.

89. (Chronological Order) Which order accurately reflects Lucky's actions in Act 1?

1. Kicks Estragon
2. Dances "The Net"
3. Carries the bags onto stage
4. Delivers the "think" monologue

A) 3, 1, 2, 4

B) 3, 2, 1, 4

C) 1, 3, 2, 4

D) 3, 1, 4, 2

Explanation: He enters with bags, kicks Estragon when he tries to wipe his tears, dances, and then speaks.

90. (Chronological Order) What is the sequence of the tramps' reactions to the Boy in Act 1?

1. Vladimir questions him about Godot
2. The boy is too afraid to approach
3. The boy leaves, running
4. Estragon yells at him

A) 4, 2, 1, 3

B) 2, 1, 4, 3

C) 2, 4, 1, 3

D) 1, 2, 4, 3

Explanation: The boy hesitates, Estragon berates him, Vladimir gently interrogates him, and then he runs away.

91. Which post-structuralist concept is most evident in Lucky's monologue?

A) The Death of the Author

C) Panopticism

B) Magical Realism

D) Deconstruction of language

Explanation: The monologue deconstructs syntax and logic, showing the collapse of language as a tool for objective truth.

92. How does the play treat the concept of "suicide"?

A) As a mortal sin

C) As a comical, practical impossibility

B) As a heroic way out

D) As a political statement

Explanation: Their attempts at suicide are thwarted by physical clumsiness (a broken belt), rendering even death an unattainable release.

93. What is the significance of the "turnip" vs. "carrot" debate?

A) It shows their differing agricultural backgrounds

B) It highlights the monotony and scarcity of their provisions

C) It proves Godot is a farmer

D) It is a coded message to the audience

Explanation: The meager food choices emphasize their destitution and the triviality of their daily disputes.

94. (Match the Following) Match the Character to their associated Prop/Condition:

- 1.Vladimir
- 2.Estragon
- 3.Pozzo
- 4.Lucky

- a. Rope around neck
- b. Ill-fitting boots
- c. Pocket watch
- d. Garlic breath / Urinary issue

A) 1-d, 2-b, 3-c, 4-a

B) 1-b, 2-d, 3-c, 4-a

C) 1-d, 2-c, 3-b, 4-a

D) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c, 4-d

Explanation: Vladimir has bad breath/kidney issues; Estragon has tight boots; Pozzo relies on his watch; Lucky is tied by the neck.

95. (Match the Following) Match the Quote to the Speaker:

- 1."Nothing to be done."
- 2."Think, pig!"
- 3."We are all born mad."
- 4."I'm glad to see you back. I thought you were gone forever."

- a. Pozzo
- b. Estragon
- c. Vladimir
- d. Estragon

A) 1-Estragon, 2-Pozzo, 3-Estragon, 4-Vladimir

B) 1-Vladimir, 2-Pozzo, 3-Vladimir, 4-Estragon

C) 1-Pozzo, 2-Lucky, 3-Estragon, 4-Vladimir

D) 1-Lucky, 2-Pozzo, 3-Vladimir, 4-Estragon

Explanation: Identifying the voice of the characters; Vladimir is usually the one expressing relief at their reunion.

96. (Match the Following) Match the Act 1 element to its Act 2 counterpart:

1. Bare tree
2. Pozzo sees everything
3. Lucky speaks
4. The Boy says Godot comes tomorrow

- a. Pozzo is blind
- b. Tree has leaves
- c. The Boy says Godot comes tomorrow
- d. Lucky is dumb

A) 1-d, 2-a, 3-b, 4-c

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c, 4-d

C) 1-b, 2-c, 3-d, 4-a

D) 1-b, 2-a, 3-d, 4-c

Explanation: This maps the structural degeneration and the single constant (the Boy's message) between the two acts.

97. (Match the Following) Match the philosophical term to its representation in the play:

1. Absurdity
2. Master-Slave Dialectic
3. Bad Faith
4. Sisyphus Myth

- a. Waiting for Godot instead of acting
- b. Repetitive, meaningless daily actions
- c. The relationship of Pozzo and Lucky
- d. A universe devoid of inherent meaning

A) 1-d, 2-c, 3-a, 4-b

C) 1-d, 2-a, 3-c, 4-b

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c, 4-d

D) 1-c, 2-d, 3-b, 4-a

Explanation: This connects the thematic actions of the characters to core existentialist philosophies.

98. (Match the Following) Match the historical context to the play:

1. Written in

2. Premiered in

3. Original Language

4. Author's Nationality

a. Irish

b. French

c. Late 1940s

d. Early 1950s

A) 1-c, 2-d, 3-b, 4-a

B) 1-d, 2-c, 3-a, 4-b

C) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b, 4-d

D) 1-b, 2-c, 3-d, 4-a

Explanation: Beckett, an Irishman, wrote the play in French in the post-WWII era (1948-49) and it premiered in 1953.

99. What did Beckett famously say about the theological implications of Waiting for Godot?

A) "It is a profoundly Catholic play."

B) "Christianity is a mythology with which I am perfectly familiar, so I naturally use it."

C) "Godot is God, plain and simple."

D) "The play is an attack on the Church."

Explanation: Beckett denied that the play was an allegory for God, stating he merely used Christian imagery because it was the cultural language he knew.

100. In the final moments of the play, who says the line "Yes, let's go," right before the stage direction (They do not move)?

A) Estragon (Act 1), Vladimir (Act 2)

B) Vladimir (Act 1), Estragon (Act 2)

C) Pozzo (Act 1), Lucky (Act 2)

D) Vladimir in both acts

Explanation: In Act 1, Estragon says "Yes, let's go." In Act 2, Vladimir says "Yes, let's go." The swapped dialogue further cements their interchangeable, mirror-image existence.

UNIT – 4

BRITISH LITERATURE - II

Q 1. According to John Ruskin, what is the fundamental division he makes regarding all books?

A) Books of poetry and books of science

B) Books of the hour and books of all time

C) Books for the wealthy and books for the working class

D) Books of religion and books of secular thought

Explanation: This is the foundational premise of Ruskin's essay. He categorizes books not by genre, but by their permanence. "Books of the hour" are meant for temporary communication or entertainment, while "books of all time" contain enduring, universal truths.

Q 2. How does Ruskin describe a "book of the hour"?

A) It is a fundamentally bad and useless book.

B) It is a book written hastily without any editing.

C) It is merely a useful or pleasant talk put into print.

D) It is a book that takes exactly one hour to read.

Explanation: Ruskin does not despise "books of the hour." He clarifies that they can be very useful (like travel guides or political pamphlets), but they are essentially just printed conversation rather than true, lasting literature.

Q 3. Complete the following key quote: "A book is essentially not a talked thing, but a _____ thing; and written, not with a view of mere communication, but of _____."

A) written; permanence

B) printed; education

C) silent; entertainment

D) static; revolution

Explanation: Ruskin emphasizes that a true book is a deliberate, carefully crafted artifact. The author writes it to preserve their best thoughts forever, distinguishing it from casual, spoken communication.

Q 4. Ruskin compares the act of "true reading" to which physical profession?

A) Farming

B) Mining

C) Sailing

D) Blacksmithing

Explanation: Ruskin uses an extended metaphor comparing a reader to an Australian gold miner. Just as a miner must use tools and hard labor to extract gold from rock, a reader must use their intellect to extract meaning from the dense language of a great author.

Q 5. In Ruskin's metaphor of reading as mining, what does the "metal" or "gold" represent?

A) The author's true, intended meaning and wisdom

B) The financial value of the book

C) The historical context of the text

D) The fame the reader acquires by being educated

Explanation: The "gold" is the profound truth the author has buried in the text. The reader must strike through the "rock" (the complex language) to find this precious metal.

Q 6. Match the Following (Metaphors of Reading):

1.The Rock

2.The Pickaxe

3.The Gold

a. The reader's sharp intellect and etymological focus

b. The author's profound meaning

c. The difficult or dense language of the text

A) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

B) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

C) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

D) 1-c, 2-b, 3-a

Explanation: In his mining metaphor, the rock is the text that must be broken apart; the pickaxe is the reader's careful attention to words; and the gold is the ultimate wisdom acquired.

Q 7. According to Ruskin, what is the prerequisite for entering the "good society" of great authors?

A) You must be wealthy enough to buy their books.

B) You must be born into the aristocracy.

C) You must love them and make yourself fit for their company.

D) You must possess a university degree.

Explanation: Ruskin argues that unlike earthly high society, the society of great minds (in books) is open to anyone. However, the condition for entry is that you must elevate your own mind to understand and appreciate them.

Q 8. When Ruskin criticizes the public's desire for "advancement in life," what does he believe they actually mean?

A) Becoming more virtuous and kind

B) Leaving a legacy of peace

C) Advancing the scientific knowledge of the nation

D) Becoming conspicuous and obtaining material wealth

Explanation: Ruskin critiques the Victorian obsession with social climbing. He argues that people don't want to advance in moral character; they merely want to make money and be noticed by others.

Q 9. Fill in the blank: "We want to get into good society, not that we may have it, but that we may _____ it."

A) understand

C) be seen in

B) change

D) dominate

Explanation: This quote highlights Ruskin's critique of vanity. He notes that people often seek high society not for the intellectual benefit of the company, but for the social prestige of being observed by others.

Q 10. In order to demonstrate how to read closely, Ruskin performs a detailed analysis of a passage from which author?

A) William Shakespeare

B) Homer

C) Dante Alighieri

D) John Milton

Explanation: Ruskin dedicates a significant portion of "Of Kings' Treasuries" to doing a line-by-line, word-by-word analysis of a passage from John Milton's poem "Lycidas."

Q 11. In his analysis of Milton's "Lycidas," Ruskin focuses on Milton's critique of which group?

A) Corrupted political leaders

B) Uneducated peasants

C) Greedy merchants

D) Corrupted clergymen (Bishops)

Explanation: The passage from "Lycidas" attacks the selfish and ignorant leaders of the Church, who are meant to be spiritual shepherds but instead exploit their flocks.

Q 12. According to Ruskin's etymological breakdown of Milton, what is the literal translation of the word "Bishop" (from Greek episcopus)?

A) A person who prays

B) A person who feeds

C) A person who sees (overseer)

D) A person who rules

Explanation: Ruskin explains that episcopus means one who oversees or watches over a flock. Therefore, a Bishop who ignores his duties is failing in his most fundamental, literal role.

Q 13. According to Ruskin's etymological breakdown, what is the literal translation of the word "Pastor"?

A) A person who sees

C) A person who feeds

B) A person who speaks

D) A person who forgives

Explanation: A "pastor" is literally a shepherd, one who ensures the flock is fed.

Q 14. By combining the meanings of "Bishop" and "Pastor," how does Ruskin explain Milton's harsh phrase "blind mouths"?

A) It describes people who speak without thinking.

B) It is a profound oxymoron describing leaders who neither see (watch over) nor feed their flock, but only consume.

C) It refers to the physical ailments common in the 17th century.

D) It is a metaphor for the uneducated masses.

Explanation: A Bishop should be an eye (overseer) and a Pastor should be a hand (feeder). The corrupted clergy are the exact opposite: they are blind (cannot see) and are merely mouths (consuming wealth instead of feeding the flock).

Q 15. Chronological Order: Arrange the following arguments as they appear in Ruskin's essay.

I. The analysis of the phrase "blind mouths" in Milton's Lycidas.

II. The distinction between a "book of the hour" and a "book of all time."

III. The condemnation of England for despising literature, science, and compassion.

IV. The explanation of the true meaning of "Kings' Treasuries."

A) II, I, IV, III

C) II, IV, I, III

B) I, II, III, IV

D) III, II, IV, I

Explanation: Ruskin first establishes what a true book is (II). He then shows how to read one by analyzing Milton (I). He uses this to explain how reading grants access to the "Kings' Treasuries" of wisdom (IV). Finally, he concludes by lamenting that the English public ignores these treasuries in favor of money (III).

Q 16. What does Ruskin mean when he says words can act like "chameleons"?

A) Words are colorful and beautiful to read.

B) Words can change their meaning based on their context and the reader's background.

C) Words are naturally deceptive and authors use them to lie.

D) Words disappear over time and become obsolete.

Explanation: Just as a chameleon changes color to match its surroundings, words can shift in meaning depending on who uses them and the context in which they are used. Ruskin warns readers to pin down the exact intended meaning.

Q 17. What academic discipline does Ruskin suggest is absolutely essential to avoid the "vulgarity" of misunderstanding language?

A) Mathematics

C) History

B) Geography

D) Etymology

Explanation: Etymology is the study of the origin of words. Ruskin insists that tracing words back to their Latin and Greek roots is the only way to accurately understand what a great author is trying to say.

Q 18. Fill in the blank: Ruskin states that a true reader must not go to a book to say, "How good that is! that is exactly what I _____."

A) know

B) need

C) think

D) want

Explanation: Ruskin warns against reading merely for validation. If you read only to find your own opinions echoed back to you, you are not learning. You should read to discover what the author thinks.

Q 19. Instead of seeking validation, Ruskin says a good reader should encounter a new idea and say:

A) "That is wrong, and I will prove it."

B) "How strange that is! I never thought of that before, and yet I see it is true."

C) "This is too difficult; I will read something else."

D) "This author must be a genius, even if I don't understand them."

Explanation: True education, according to Ruskin, involves having your perspective challenged and broadened by encountering new truths that you had not previously considered.

Q 20. What does the term "vulgarity" mean in the specific context of Ruskin's essay?

A) Being poor or working class

B) Using profanity and crude humor

C) A lack of strictness and precision in language, thought, and moral feeling

D) Dressing in a flashy, inappropriate manner

Explanation: Ruskin redefines vulgarity. For him, it has nothing to do with social class. A rich, highly-born person can be "vulgar" if their mind is careless, their language is sloppy, and their morals are selfish.

Q 21. Match the Following (Milton's Clergy Metaphors):

1. Creep
2. Intrude
3. Climb

- a. Those who forcefully take positions they are unsuited for
- b. Those who use cunning and deceit to gain positions
- c. Those who use violence and ambition to rise to the top

A) 1-b, 2-a, 3-c

C) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

D) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

Explanation: In his Milton analysis, Ruskin notes that those who "creep" are deceitful; those who "intrude" push themselves into places they don't belong; and those who "climb" are aggressively ambitious.

Q 22. What does the title word "Sesame" symbolize in this lecture?

A) The agricultural wealth of England

B) A magic password that opens the doors to the treasures of knowledge and wisdom

C) A seed that grows into a mighty tree of knowledge

D) The fleeting nature of human life

Explanation: Ruskin borrows "Sesame" from the tale of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves ("Open Sesame"). He uses it as a metaphor for how reading and education act as magic words that unlock the true treasures of the world.

Q 23. Who are the "Kings" referenced in the title "Of Kings' Treasuries"?

- A) The reigning monarchs of Europe
- B) Wealthy industrialists and merchants

C) The great authors, thinkers, and philosophers of history

- D) Military generals who have conquered nations

Explanation: Ruskin redefines kingship. The true kings are not those with political power or gold, but the great intellects (like Shakespeare, Dante, and Milton) who hold court in their books and offer their wisdom to anyone willing to read.

Q 24. What are the "Treasuries" belonging to these Kings?

- A) Gold, silver, and precious gems
- B) Universities and schools
- C) Museums and art galleries

D) The enduring wisdom, truth, and knowledge stored in great books

Explanation: Unlike earthly kings who hoard material wealth, the kings of literature hoard intellectual and spiritual wealth, which they freely offer to the reader.

Q 25. Assertion (A): Ruskin claims that England is a nation that heavily values and funds literature and science.

Reason (R): England spends a massive portion of its wealth on public libraries and scientific research.

A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.

B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.

C) A is true but R is false.

D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: Ruskin violently attacks England for despising literature and science. He points out the hypocrisy of a nation that spends fortunes on horses, wine, and military weapons, while spending very little on public libraries and education.

Q 26. Fill in the blank: "We are a rich nation, and we are filthy and foolish enough to thumb each other's books out of _____ libraries!"

A) public

B) university

C) royal

D) circulating

Explanation: Ruskin laments that despite England's massive wealth, people refuse to buy their own books to build personal libraries, instead renting worn-out books from circulating libraries.

Q 27. Ruskin suggests that if a person truly loves a book, they will:

- A) Memorize it entirely
- B) Buy a cheap, disposable copy
- D) Lend it to as many people as possible

C) Keep it in a beautiful, durable binding and cherish it

Explanation: Ruskin believes that true literature deserves physical respect. A good book should be printed well, bound strongly, and treated as a prized possession, not a disposable commodity.

Q 28. According to Ruskin, what happens when a person reads only to confirm their own prejudices?

- A) They become wise.
- B) They develop a deep love for literature.
- C) They become powerful statesmen.

D) They remain vulgar and uneducated.

Explanation: Approaching literature with an arrogant mind that refuses to be changed by the author's meaning keeps a person locked in their own ignorance, or "vulgarity."

Q 29. Which of the following is NOT a characteristic of a "Book of All Time" as described by Ruskin?

- A) It is written to communicate a lasting truth.
- B) It requires active intellectual labor to understand.

C) It is written primarily to entertain the masses.

- D) It is an expression of the author's absolute best thoughts.

Explanation: Books of all time are not written for mere entertainment; they are serious artifacts containing truths the author felt compelled to engrave forever.

Q 30. Match the Following (Ruskin's Social Critiques):

- 1.Despising Science
- 2.Despising Art
- 3.Despising Compassion

- a. Preferring cheap, mass-produced goods over beautiful creations
- b. Allowing poverty and starvation to exist in a wealthy nation
- c. Refusing to fund expeditions and research

A) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

C) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

D) 1-c, 2-b, 3-a

Explanation: Ruskin provides specific examples for how England despises core human values. He notes the lack of funding for scientific collections (science), the destruction of beautiful landscapes/architecture (art), and the callousness toward the poor (compassion).

Q31. In his discussion of reading, Ruskin insists we must annihilate our own:

A) Ambitions

B) Passions

C) Prejudices

D) Vocabularies

Explanation: To truly hear what a great author is saying, a reader must quiet their own ego, silence their personal biases, and approach the text with humility.

Q 32. Fill in the blank: "If you do not know the _____ alphabet, you can never know a great book."

A) Latin

C) Greek

B) English

D) French

Explanation: Highlighting his obsession with etymology and the roots of language, Ruskin asserts that a foundational knowledge of the Greek alphabet is practically necessary to trace the origins and true meanings of English words.

Q 33. When evaluating whether a book is "good," Ruskin focuses on:

A) How many copies it has sold.

B) The moral and intellectual integrity of the author.

C) The complexity of its plot.

D) Its ability to make the reader laugh.

Explanation: For Ruskin, a great book is the product of a great mind. The value of the book lies in the author's sincere attempt to communicate a profound, perceived truth.

Q 34. What is the underlying tone of the final section of "Of Kings' Treasuries"?

- A) Highly critical and prophetic
- B) Joyful and celebratory
- C) Humorous and satirical
- D) Apathetic and defeated

Explanation: In the latter half of the essay, Ruskin shifts from literary criticism to fierce social criticism, warning England that its obsession with wealth at the expense of intellect and compassion will lead to moral and societal ruin.

Q 35. According to Ruskin, what is the ultimate goal of interacting with Kings' Treasuries?

- A) To hoard knowledge to feel superior to others.
- B) To pass university examinations.
- C) To cultivate "Royal" character—noble, empathetic, and wise.
- D) To learn how to make more money in business.

Explanation: The purpose of reading the great "kings" of literature is to absorb their nobility. True education transforms the reader, giving them a royal, elevated character based on wisdom, not birthright.

Q 36. Complete the quote regarding the author's intent: "He would fain set it down forever; engrave it on _____, if he could."

- A) paper
- C) rock
- B) gold
- D) the heart

Explanation: This emphasizes the permanence of a true book. The author has a truth so important they wish they could carve it into stone so it would never be lost.

Q 37. Chronological Order: Arrange the steps of "True Reading" as Ruskin outlines them.

I. Evaluating the truth of the author's statement.

II. Recognizing the exact meaning of the words through etymology.

III. Setting aside one's own biases and opinions.

IV. Understanding the structure of the author's sentences.

A) III, II, IV, I

C) II, IV, III, I

B) I, II, III, IV

D) III, IV, II, I

Explanation: First, the reader must humble themselves (III). Then, they must understand the words (II) and how they fit together (IV). Only after fully understanding the author can the reader judge the truth of the work (I).

Q 38. How does Ruskin distinguish between a "true book" and a "false book"?

A) A true book is non-fiction; a false book is fiction.

B) A true book is written to impart lasting truth; a false book is written for vanity or temporary gain.

C) A true book is old; a false book is newly published.

D) A true book is difficult to read; a false book is easy.

Explanation: Intent is everything to Ruskin. A false book might contain facts, but if it is written merely to make a profit or stroke the author's ego, it is not true literature.

Q 39. In his critique of society, Ruskin uses the example of "the iron roads" (railways). What is his complaint regarding them?

A) They are not fast enough.

B) They are too expensive to build.

C) Society builds them to travel quickly, but has no noble purpose or destination once they arrive.

D) They are dangerous and cause too many accidents.

Explanation: Ruskin critiques the Industrial Revolution. He notes that England has built massive infrastructure to move quickly, but the people traveling are no wiser or more compassionate when they reach their destination.

Q 40. What is the relationship between "Of Kings' Treasuries" and the second lecture, "Of Queens' Gardens"?

A) The first is about men; the second is about women.

B) The first is about wealth; the second is about agriculture.

C) The first is about the education and reading of men; the second is about the education and role of women.

D) The first is about politics; the second is about domestic life.

Explanation: While Sesame and Lilies is a unified work, "Of Kings' Treasuries" focuses largely on the public sphere, reading, and men's education, while "Of Queens' Gardens" focuses on women's education, moral influence, and the home.

Q 41. Assertion (A): Ruskin believes that reading should be an easy, passive leisure activity.

Reason (R): Because life is difficult, books should serve as an escape from hard work.

A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.

B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.

C) A is true but R is false.

D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: Ruskin aggressively argues the exact opposite. He believes true reading requires intense, active, intellectual labor (mining).

Q 42. Fill in the blank: "There are books of the hour, and books of all time. These peculiar classes of books are always mingled in _____, and the boundaries of them are often blurred."

A) history

B) literature

C) society

D) libraries

Explanation: Ruskin notes that because books of the hour and books of all time sit side-by-side on library shelves, readers often get confused and spend their time reading ephemeral texts instead of eternal ones.

Q 43. When Ruskin analyzes Milton's phrase "the grim wolf with privy paw," who does the "wolf" represent in the context of 17th-century religious conflict?

A) The King of England

C) The invading French army

B) Pagan religions

D) The Roman Catholic Church

Explanation: In his close reading of Lycidas, Ruskin notes that Milton (a staunch Protestant) used the "wolf" as a metaphor for the Catholic Church secretly converting people ("privy paw") while the corrupt Protestant bishops weren't paying attention.

Q 44. What, according to Ruskin, is the only true way to measure a nation's greatness?

A) The size of its military

B) Its Gross Domestic Product (GDP)

C) The moral character and intellectual depth of its people

D) The amount of territory it controls

Explanation: Throughout the essay, Ruskin dismisses financial and military metrics, asserting that a nation is only truly rich and great if its citizens are compassionate, educated, and morally sound.

Q 45. Match the Following (Ruskin's View on Social Classes):

1.The Aristocracy

2.The Working Class

3.The Authors/Thinkers

- a. The true "Kings" who possess real treasures
- b. Those who currently hold false, material wealth and power
- c. Those who suffer due to the nation's lack of compassion

A) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

C) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

D) 1-b, 2-a, 3-c

Explanation: Ruskin critiques the traditional aristocracy for hoarding material wealth (b), mourns the working class who starve while the nation spends money on frivolities (c), and elevates great authors to the status of true kings (a).

Q 46. What rhetorical device does Ruskin use heavily when repeatedly asking the audience if they "despise" various things (literature, science, art)?

A) Metaphor

B) Understatement

C) Hyperbole

D) Anaphora

Explanation: Anaphora is the repetition of a word or phrase at the beginning of successive clauses. Ruskin repeatedly uses the phrase "We despise..." to build rhetorical power and hammer home his critique of English society.

Q 47. Why does Ruskin bring up the tragic story of an immigrant who died of starvation in London?

A) To prove that immigrants shouldn't come to England.

B) To critique the medical system of the era.

C) To provide stark evidence that England lacks true compassion and moral greatness.

D) To argue for better wages in factories.

Explanation: Ruskin juxtaposes the immense wealth of the British Empire with a newspaper clipping about a man dying of exposure and starvation on the street, proving his point that England is a morally bankrupt nation.

Q 48. Fill in the blank: According to Ruskin, a true reader is not just a consumer of words, but a _____ of thoughts.

A) critic

B) follower

C) creator

D) discoverer

Explanation: Emphasizing the active nature of reading, the reader is exploring the text to discover the deep truths the author has left behind.

Q 49. How does Ruskin define "True Wealth" in "Of Kings' Treasuries"?

A) Life, encompassing powers of love, joy, and admiration.

B) Land and property that can be passed down.

C) Gold and silver hoarded in vaults.

D) Industrial machinery and factories.

Explanation: A famous tenet of Ruskin's philosophy (which he expands upon in Unto This Last, but references conceptually here) is "There is no wealth but life." True wealth is found in intellectual elevation and compassion, not material goods.

Q 50. what action is Ruskin urging his audience to take by the end of the essay?

A) To overthrow the government.

B) To stop reading entirely and go out into nature.

C) To reform their values, prioritize education, and build personal libraries of great books.

D) To write their own books.

Explanation: The lecture is a call to action. He wants the English public to abandon their shallow pursuit of money and social status, and instead invest their time and resources into cultivating their minds through the enduring wisdom of the "Kings' Treasuries."

Q 51. What was the original historical context and purpose of Ruskin's lecture "Of Kings' Treasuries"?

A) It was a political speech delivered to the House of Commons.

B) It was delivered in 1864 to raise funds to establish a library at the Rusholme Institute in Manchester.

C) It was a sermon preached at Westminster Abbey.

D) It was a university commencement address at Oxford.

Explanation: Understanding this context is crucial. Ruskin was invited to speak about reading and libraries to help fund a public library, which is why the essay so heavily emphasizes the importance of providing public access to the "Treasuries" of great books.

Q 52. How does Ruskin contrast the power of traditional, earthly kings with the power of the "kings" of literature?

A) Earthly kings have power over bodies and land; literary kings have eternal power over minds and hearts.

B) Earthly kings are wealthier, while literary kings die in poverty.

C) Earthly kings rule through fear; literary kings rule through comedy.

D) There is no difference; Ruskin believes authors should be crowned as political rulers.

Explanation: Ruskin redefines kingship. A true king is someone who holds lasting sway over human thought and emotion, a power far superior to temporary political or military dominance.

Q 53. Fill in the blank: Ruskin argues that when reading a great book, you must place yourself in the position of a(n) _____, not a judge.

A) equal

C) pupil

B) scholar

D) master

Explanation: Ruskin stresses humility. When approaching the work of a genius, the reader must assume the posture of a student willing to learn, rather than a critic looking for flaws.

Q 54. In his critique of England's treatment of science, what specific example does Ruskin use regarding a museum purchase?

A) The refusal to buy a complete collection of Bavarian fossils.

B) The destruction of Galileo's original telescope.

C) The underfunding of the newly proposed London Zoo.

D) The rejection of Charles Darwin's manuscripts.

Explanation: Ruskin cites a real contemporary event where the British government haggled over the price of a rare collection of fossils (the Solnhofen fossils), using it as proof that the nation "despises" science despite its vast wealth.

Q 55. When criticizing England's attitude toward nature and art, Ruskin accuses the English of turning the Alps into what?

A) A military fortress

C) A greased pole for their own amusement

B) A mining quarry for granite

D) A sanctuary for the wealthy

Explanation: Ruskin is disgusted by the rise of recreational tourism and mountaineering. He argues that instead of admiring the sublime beauty of the Alps, the English treat them like a carnival game ("greased poles") merely to prove they can climb them.

Q 56. What does Ruskin identify as the absolute essence of a "vulgar" mind?

A) A lack of formal university education

C) Insensibility and an inability to feel deep sympathy

B) Poverty and lower-class upbringing

D) Speaking with a regional accent

Explanation: For Ruskin, vulgarity is a disease of the heart. It is the inability to feel passion, reverence, or compassion for others. A highly educated, wealthy person who is cold and apathetic is, to Ruskin, deeply vulgar.

Q 57. Match the Following (Ruskin's Concepts of Sensibility):

1.Tact

2.Passion

3.Sympathy

a. The capacity to feel deeply and genuinely

b. The ability to suffer with or feel the pain of another

c. The delicate, physical, and emotional touch/sensitivity to others' feelings

A) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

C) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

D) 1-c, 2-b, 3-a

Explanation: Ruskin breaks down these emotional states etymologically. "Tact" literally relates to touch (sensitivity), "passion" relates to feeling, and "sympathy" literally means to suffer alongside someone.

Q 58. According to Ruskin, what is the "national disease" of England that leads to its moral decay?

- A) Greed
- B) Ignorance
- C) Apathy / Want of sensation
- D) Hubris

Explanation: Ruskin argues that the English have become emotionally numb. This "want of sensation" (apathy) allows them to ignore the suffering of the poor and the destruction of the beautiful.

Q 59. Chronological Order: Arrange Ruskin's critique of how England spends its money, from what they spend the most on to what they spend the least on (according to the essay).

- I. Public Libraries and Literature
- II. Horses and Equestrian pursuits
- III. Wine and cellars

- A) III, II, I
- B) II, III, I
- C) I, II, III
- D) II, I, III

Explanation: Ruskin dramatically asks the audience to compare the vast fortunes the nation spends on its horses and stables, then on its wine cellars, and finally points out how pitifully little it spends on its libraries.

Q 60. Complete the quote: "You might read all the books in the British Museum (if you could live long enough), and remain an utterly _____ person."

A) wise

C) illiterate

B) educated

D) powerful

Explanation: Ruskin redefines literacy. Merely decoding words on a page does not make one literate. If you read without understanding, etymological care, and moral transformation, you remain "illiterate" in the true sense.

Q 61. Assertion (A): Ruskin states that a person should read "books of the hour" exclusively to stay informed about current events.

Reason (R): Books of the hour contain the most accurate historical facts.

A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.

B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.

C) A is true but R is false.

D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: Ruskin does not condemn reading books of the hour, but he strictly warns against reading them exclusively. He argues that spending all your time on temporary talk leaves no room for the eternal truths found in "books of all time."

Q 62. Fill in the blanks: Ruskin states that the author of a great book hides their meaning intentionally, demanding that the reader _____ for it as if it were _____.

A) pay, jewels

C) mine, gold

B) search, buried treasure

D) beg, food

Explanation: Returning to his central metaphor, Ruskin insists that great authors do not make their ultimate truths easy to grasp. The reader must work (mine) to extract the valuable meaning (gold).

Q 63. When Ruskin says that a great author's work is their "court," what role does the reader play when opening the book?

A) The jester

C) The audience seeking an audience with the monarch

B) The conquering king

D) The executioner

Explanation: Opening a great book is akin to being granted an audience in a royal court. The reader must act with decorum, attention, and respect to receive the wisdom of the "king" (the author).

Q 64. In his analysis of Lycidas, what is the significance of the "two massy keys" held by St. Peter?

A) They unlock the gates of the British Museum.

B) They symbolize the power to open and shut the doors of heaven (spiritual authority).

C) They represent the wealth of the English economy.

D) They are the keys to the "Kings' Treasuries" of books.

Explanation: In Milton's poem, St. Peter holds keys of gold and iron. The golden key opens the gates of heaven (salvation), and the iron key shuts them (damnation), illustrating the immense spiritual responsibility that corrupt bishops are failing to uphold.

Q 65. Match the Following (Types of Books and their Counterparts):

1. Good book of the hour
2. Bad book of the hour
3. Book of all time

- a. The enduring voice of a great thinker
- b. A useful travel guide or honest newspaper
- c. A deceitful political pamphlet or mindless gossip

A) 1-b, 2-a, 3-c

C) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

D) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

Explanation: Ruskin categorizes print material carefully. He recognizes that temporary writing can be either genuinely useful (good) or malicious/useless (bad), while eternal books are in a separate, elevated category entirely.

Q 66. What rhetorical Question does Ruskin ask to prove that modern society values bodies over minds?

A) "Do we not build larger hospitals than libraries?"

B) "How much do you think we spend on our libraries, as compared with what we spend on our horses?"

C) "Why do we pay our generals more than our poets?"

D) "Is not bread more vital than poetry?"

Explanation: This famous comparison highlights the absurdity of Victorian values. Society spends lavishly to feed and house animals for sport, but refuses to spend money to feed the minds of its citizens.

Q 67. According to Ruskin, what prevents most people from entering the "society" of the great dead (authors)?

- A) Lack of physical access to books.
- B) The high cost of university tuition.
- C) Strict government censorship.

D) Their own laziness, vanity, and refusal to elevate their minds.

Explanation: The "doors" to this society are open to all, but people exclude themselves because they are unwilling to put in the hard intellectual and moral labor required to understand great literature.

Q 68. What does the term "Sesame" specifically unlock in the context of the essay's title?

- A) The King's Granary (food for the poor)
- B) The Gates of Heaven
- C) The Queen's Gardens (domestic peace)

D) The King's Treasuries (intellectual and moral wealth)

Explanation: "Sesame" is the magic password that opens the "Kings' Treasuries" (the libraries/books containing the accumulated wisdom of the greatest minds in history).

Q 69. Fill in the blank: "A good book is the precious life-blood of a master spirit, _____ and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life." (Note: Ruskin references this concept, originally from Milton's Areopagitica).

A) embalmed

C) hidden

B) printed

D) spoken

Explanation: While this is a famous quote from Milton, Ruskin builds his entire philosophy of the "book of all time" on this exact premise: that a book is the immortal preservation of a mind's best essence.

Q 70. Chronological Order: Put Ruskin's analysis of the word "Bishop" into its logical sequence.

I. "Bishop" translates to "Overseer."

II. The English word "Bishop" comes from the Greek episcopus.

III. Modern bishops often fail to "oversee" their spiritual flocks.

IV. Therefore, "blind mouths" is the perfect condemnation of a failed bishop.

A) I, II, III, IV

C) III, I, II, IV

B) II, I, III, IV

D) II, III, I, IV

Explanation: Ruskin first identifies the Greek root (II), translates its literal meaning (I), applies it to the current corrupt clergy (III), and finally concludes why Milton's specific poetic insult is perfectly accurate (IV).

Q 71. Why does Ruskin despise the concept of "reading for amusement"?

A) He believes amusement is a sin.

B) He believes it degrades the sacred nature of the book and wastes the reader's potential.

C) He thinks amusement should only be found in theater.

D) He believes authors should not be funny.

Explanation: For Ruskin, a great book is a profound teacher. Treating it merely as a temporary distraction or a way to kill time is an insult to the author's labor and the reader's own intellect.

Q 72. What does Ruskin say is the difference between a "man of education" and an "uneducated man" regarding their use of language?

A) The educated man uses longer words.

B) The educated man speaks multiple languages fluently.

C) The educated man knows the precise, historical meaning of every word he uses.

D) The educated man never uses slang.

Explanation: True education is marked by precision. An educated person understands the etymological weight and history of words, ensuring they never use language loosely or inaccurately.

Q 73. Assertion (A): Ruskin argues that one should rely heavily on dictionaries while reading.

Reason (R): Great authors often invent new words that are not found anywhere else.

A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.

B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.

C) A is true but R is false.

D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: Ruskin strongly advocates using dictionaries (A is true) to trace the etymology of words. However, the reason is not that authors invent words (R is false), but rather that they use existing words with profound, historically accurate precision.

Q 74. Match the Following (Ruskin's Social Parallels):

1. Spending on Horses

2. Spending on Wine

3. Spending on Books

a. An investment in physical pleasure and luxury

b. An investment in the mind and eternal truth

c. An investment in physical sport and status

A) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

C) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

D) 1-c, 2-b, 3-a

Explanation: Ruskin contrasts the high national expenditure on status/sport (horses) and luxury (wine) with the tragically low investment in intellect (books).

Q 75. How does Ruskin view the relationship between "goodness" and "greatness" in an author?

A) An author can be great without being good.

B) A truly great book can only be produced by an essentially good and sincere person.

C) Goodness is irrelevant to literary greatness.

D) Great authors are almost always morally corrupt.

Explanation: Ruskin holds a deeply moralistic view of art and literature. He believes that true genius is inseparable from sincerity and moral integrity. A false or malicious person cannot write a "book of all time."

Q 76. Fill in the blank: "No book is worth anything which is not worth _____."

A) buying

B) selling

C) much

D) reading

Explanation: Ruskin says, "No book is worth anything which is not worth much; nor is it serviceable, until it has been read, and re-read, and loved, and loved again..." He emphasizes that a book's value must be recognized financially and emotionally.

Q 77. What does Ruskin imply when he calls his contemporary readers "chameleons"?

A) They change their opinions based on whatever book they read last.

B) They allow the meaning of words to change based on popular usage rather than strict definition.

C) They blend into society and lack individuality.

D) They are cold-blooded and lack passion.

Explanation: Ruskin uses the chameleon metaphor to describe how careless readers let words change their "color" (meaning) based on the context of the day, rather than holding the word to its strict, historical definition.

Q 78. Previous Year Q Theme: According to Ruskin, why does a great author use "obscurity" or difficult language?

A) To show off their superior intelligence.

B) To hide their true meaning from government censors.

C) To test the reader and ensure that only those willing to work hard can access the wisdom.

D) Because they do not know how to write clearly.

Explanation: The "gold" is hidden in the "rock" intentionally. The author wants the reader to engage in active mental labor (mining). If the truth were too easy to grasp, it would not be valued.

Q 79. Which of the following is an example of what Ruskin considers a "Book of the Hour"?

A) The Holy Bible

B) Dante's Divine Comedy

C) A well-written newspaper article about a recent political event

D) The collected plays of Shakespeare

Explanation: A newspaper article is meant for temporary communication. It is "useful talk" printed for the present moment, but it is not intended to be preserved forever as an eternal truth.

Q 80. Chronological Order: Trace Ruskin's sequence of reading an author's text.

I. Understand the author's exact words.

II. Enter into the author's thoughts.

III. Share in the author's feelings/heart.

A) III, II, I

B) I, II, III

C) II, I, III

D) I, III, II

Explanation: Ruskin's method of reading moves from the external to the internal. You must first master the exact vocabulary (I), which allows you to understand their logic/thoughts (II), which finally allows you to experience their deep emotions and moral truth (III).

Q 81. What does Ruskin mean by the term "false education"?

A) Learning a trade instead of going to university.

B) Education pursued merely for social advancement and material gain, rather than moral growth.

C) Being taught by unqualified teachers.

D) Reading fiction instead of history.

Explanation: Ruskin heavily critiques the Victorian motive for education, which was simply to get a better job, make more money, and become "conspicuous" (famous). True education is for the soul, not the wallet.

Q 82. Assertion (A): Ruskin believes that England in the 19th century has reached the pinnacle of civilization and moral greatness.

Reason (R): England's industrial revolution has generated unprecedented wealth.

A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.

B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.

C) A is false but R is true.

D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: While it is true that England generated massive wealth during the Industrial Revolution (R is true), Ruskin completely rejects the idea that they are morally great (A is false). He calls them a "money-making mob."

Q 83. Fill in the blank: "He only is advancing in life, whose _____ is advancing."

A) bank account

C) career

B) reputation

D) heart

Explanation: Ruskin redefines "advancement in life." It is not about money or status; true advancement is the expansion of one's capacity for sympathy, love, and moral feeling (the heart).

Q 84. Match the Following (Ruskin's Etymological Translations from Milton):

1.Pastor

2.Episcopus

3.Spirit

a. To breathe or blow

b. To feed

c. To oversee

A) 1-b, 2-a, 3-c

B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c

C) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

D) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a

Explanation: "Pastor" comes from the Latin for feeding/shepherding. "Episcopus" (Bishop) comes from the Greek for overseeing. "Spirit" comes from the Latin spiritus, meaning breath or wind (which Ruskin ties to the "wind" of corruption in Lycidas).

Q 85. When discussing the "Kings" of literature, what does Ruskin imply is the only barrier to entry into their court?

A) The reader's lack of nobility of character.

B) The language barrier (not knowing Latin/Greek).

C) The cost of purchasing the books.

D) The physical distance to major libraries.

Explanation: The "Kings" (authors) welcome anyone, regardless of class or wealth. The only thing that will keep you out of their society is if your own mind is vulgar, lazy, or arrogant.

Q 86. Why does Ruskin heavily quote Milton's Lycidas in an essay about reading?

A) Because it was the most popular poem of the 19th century.

B) To prove that poetry is superior to prose.

C) To provide a practical demonstration of how a reader must rigorously analyze every word of a great text.

D) Because he hated the Church of England.

Explanation: The Lycidas passage is essentially a tutorial. Ruskin uses it to show his audience exactly how to use their "pickaxes" (intellect) to mine the "gold" (meaning) out of a complex piece of literature.

Q 87. What does Ruskin say is the difference between a "talked thing" and a "written thing"?

A) Talked things are always false; written things are always true.

B) Talked things are meant for mere communication; written things are carved to preserve profound truths permanently.

C) Talked things are for the lower class; written things are for the aristocracy.

D) Talked things require less vocabulary than written things.

Explanation: This is the core distinction between the book of the hour (useful talk) and the book of all time (permanent truth).

Q 88. In his final plea to the audience, what kind of "Treasury" does Ruskin ask England to build?

A) A larger national bank to secure their wealth.

B) A royal treasury exclusively for the monarchy.

C) A treasury of military weapons to defend the empire.

D) A treasury of compassion, beautiful art, and accessible knowledge (libraries) for all citizens.

Explanation: He begs the nation to stop hoarding gold and instead build treasuries of "Sesame"—true wealth consisting of education, art, and the alleviation of poverty.

Q 89. Fill in the blank: "To use books rightly, is to go to them for _____."

A) entertainment

C) help

B) escape

D) debate

Explanation: We go to great authors not to argue with them or to be entertained by them, but to receive their help—their guidance, wisdom, and the truths they have discovered.

Q 90. Chronological Order: Arrange the broad structural movements of Ruskin's essay.

I. The mechanics of reading (mining, etymology, Milton analysis).

II. The definition of a Book of All Time versus a Book of the Hour.

III. The critique of England as a "money-making mob" that despises true wealth.

A) I, II, III

B) II, I, III

C) III, II, I

D) II, III, I

Explanation: The essay flows logically: Ruskin defines what a great book is (II), teaches the audience how to read one properly (I), and then laments that his society is too obsessed with money to actually do so (III).

Q 91. What does Ruskin mean when he calls England a "money-making mob"?

- A) The citizens are highly skilled entrepreneurs.
- B) The working class is organizing into labor unions.
- C) The government is successfully eliminating poverty.

D) The society is chaotic, vulgar, and united only by a base desire to accumulate wealth.

Explanation: The term "mob" implies a lack of noble leadership or higher purpose. Ruskin sees the English not as a great civilization, but as a chaotic crowd obsessed purely with financial gain.

Q 92. Assertion (A): Ruskin believes that true kingship involves sacrificing oneself for the benefit of the people.

Reason (R): The greatest authors sacrificed their time and energy to engrave their wisdom for future generations.

A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.

- B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.
- C) A is true but R is false.
- D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: Ruskin ties the idea of the "Kings' Treasuries" to self-sacrifice. True leaders (whether political or intellectual) do not hoard wealth; they give their best (their life-blood, their wisdom) to enrich others.

Q 93. What metaphor does Ruskin use to describe readers who only skim books for the parts they already agree with?

- A) Australian miners
- B) Chameleons
- C) Blind mouths

D) Insects that only feed on weeds

Explanation: In his critique of bad reading habits, he compares arrogant readers to insects that ignore the nourishing parts of a plant and only feed on the bitter weeds that match their own sour nature.

Q 94. Match the Following (Ruskin's Themes and Their Meanings):

- 1.Sesame
- 2.Rock
- 3.Gold

- a. The dense, difficult language of a great author
- b. The profound, hidden wisdom in the text
- c. The magical key that opens the doors of knowledge

A) 1-c, 2-a, 3-b

- B) 1-a, 2-b, 3-c
- C) 1-b, 2-c, 3-a
- D) 1-c, 2-b, 3-a

Explanation: "Sesame" is the magic password to the treasuries. The "Rock" is the complex text that must be broken apart by the reader. The "Gold" is the ultimate wisdom extracted.

Q 95. Which of the following best summarizes Ruskin's view on the physical ownership of books?

- A) All books should be rented so they can be shared equally.
- B) Books should be printed as cheaply as possible so the poor can afford them.
- C) A person should sacrifice other luxuries to buy, own, and cherish high-quality editions of great books.
- D) Only universities should physically own books.

Explanation: Ruskin hates the "circulating library" culture. He believes that if a book is truly a "King's Treasury," it deserves to be owned, bound beautifully, and treated as a permanent fixture in a person's home.

Q 96. Fill in the blank: "You must get into the habit of looking intensely at _____, and assuring yourself of their meaning."

- A) nature
- B) politicians
- C) paintings
- D) words

Explanation: This is the core instruction in Ruskin's reading methodology. A reader must never skim; they must interrogate every individual word to ensure they understand exactly what the author meant.

Q 97. How does Ruskin connect the concept of "Vulgarity" to the story of the man dying of starvation?

A) The starving man was vulgar because he was poor.

B) The society that allowed him to starve while hoarding immense wealth is fundamentally vulgar and insensible.

C) The newspaper that reported the story used vulgar language.

D) The man starved because he refused to work, which is vulgar.

Explanation: Ruskin uses the starvation story as ultimate proof of England's "vulgarity"—their absolute lack of sympathy and moral feeling despite their claims of being a great, Christian nation.

Q 98. What is the primary difference in tone between the first half of "Of Kings' Treasures" and the second half?

A) It shifts from a political speech to a religious sermon.

B) It shifts from a comedic satire to a tragic lament.

C) It shifts from a didactic guide on how to read, to a fierce prophetic critique of Victorian society.

D) It shifts from an attack on Milton to praise of Shakespeare.

Explanation: The lecture clearly breaks into two halves. The first explains the mechanics and philosophy of reading the great authors; the second furiously attacks the English public for valuing money and status over the wisdom those authors provide.

Q 99. What does Ruskin ultimately believe is the true "Treasury" of a nation?

- A) Its gold reserves in the Bank of England.
- B) The efficiency of its industrial factories.
- C) The size of its global empire.

D) The collective moral and intellectual character of its people.

Explanation: As articulated in his famous maxim "There is no wealth but life," Ruskin concludes that a nation is only as rich as the nobility, wisdom, and compassion of its citizens.

Q 100. Assertion (A): Ruskin's essay "Of Kings' Treasuries" is ultimately a pessimistic declaration that society cannot be saved.

Reason (R): He ends the lecture by stating that books have completely lost their power.

- A) Both A and R are true and R is the correct explanation of A.
- B) Both A and R are true but R is not the correct explanation of A.
- C) A is true but R is false.

D) Both A and R are false.

Explanation: The essay is not ultimately pessimistic. Though fiercely critical, it is a passionate call to action. Ruskin believes that if the public will turn away from their greed and use the "Sesame" (education/reading) to unlock the Kings' Treasuries, society can still achieve true greatness.

UNIT – 4

BRITISH LITERATURE - II

Q 1: What is the official motto of the World State in Brave New World?

A) Community, Stability, Equality

B) Community, Identity, Stability

C) Identity, Conformity, Stability

D) Technology, Community, Stability

Detailed Explanation: The motto "Community, Identity, Stability" forms the philosophical foundation of the World State. "Community" is achieved through the elimination of solitude and individual relationships; "Identity" is manufactured biologically and conditioned psychologically so everyone fits their designated caste; and "Stability" is the ultimate goal, achieved by eliminating strong emotions, family ties, and critical thought, ensuring the continuous, smooth operation of society.

Q 2 : In the context of the World State's reproductive technology, what is the primary purpose of the "Bokanovsky's Process"?

A) To safely decant fetuses outside the human womb.

B) To condition children against nature and literature.

C) To arrest the development of a single egg so it buds and produces up to ninety-six identical twins.

D) To ensure that Alphas and Betas receive adequate oxygen during maturation.

Detailed Explanation: Bokanovsky's Process is a fictional method of human reproduction used on the lower castes (Gammas, Deltas, and Epsilons). It involves shocking an egg to make it divide and bud, creating up to 96 identical human beings from a single egg. This serves the World State's goal of "Stability" by producing uniform, standardized batches of humans perfectly suited for repetitive, standardized labor.

Q 3 Match the Castes in List I with their conditioned uniform colors in List II.

List I

- a. Alpha
- b. Beta
- c. Gamma
- d. Delta
- e. Epsilon

List II

- Black
- Khaki
- Green
- Mulberry
- Grey

A) a-5, b-4, c-3, d-2, e-1

B) a-5, b-4, c-1, d-3, e-2

C) a-4, b-5, c-3, d-1, e-2

D) a-4, b-5, c-2, d-3, e-1

Detailed Explanation: In the World State, social conformity is visually enforced through color-coded clothing. Alphas wear grey, Betas wear mulberry, Gammas wear green, Deltas wear khaki, and Epsilons wear black. This visual segregation reinforces the rigid caste system and helps citizens immediately identify the social standing of everyone around them.

Q 4: Assertion (A): Bernard Marx feels deeply alienated from the Alpha-Plus society to which he supposedly belongs.

Reason (R): He was accidentally decanted as an Epsilon and lacks the intellectual capacity of an Alpha.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Bernard Marx is indeed deeply alienated (Assertion A is true). However, Reason (R) is false. Bernard is an Alpha-Plus intellectually, but he is physically stunted. A rumor circulates that alcohol was accidentally injected into his blood surrogate before he was decanted, causing him to be shorter and less physically imposing than a standard Alpha. His physical inferiority in a physically perfect society causes his psychological alienation.

Q 5: Arrange the following events in the chronological order of their occurrence in the novel:

- I. John incites a riot by throwing away the Delta workers' soma rations.
- II. Bernard and Lenina visit the Savage Reservation in New Mexico.
- III. The Director of Hatcheries and Conditioning resigns in public disgrace.
- IV. John retreats to a lighthouse in Surrey to purify himself.

A) II, III, I, IV

B) II, I, III, IV

C) III, II, I, IV

D) II, IV, I, III

Detailed Explanation: First, Bernard and Lenina vacation at the Savage Reservation (II), where they meet John and Linda. Bernard brings them back to London, leading to the Director's public humiliation and resignation when Linda reveals he is John's father (III). Later, following Linda's death, John rebels and throws the soma away at the hospital (I). As a consequence, Bernard and Helmholtz are exiled, and John isolates himself at the lighthouse (IV).

Q 6: Which of the following statements about "Hypnopaedia" in the novel is/are CORRECT?

I. It is used to teach children complex intellectual subjects like science and mathematics.

II. It is the process of sleep-teaching used for moral and social conditioning.

III. It was discovered to be ineffective for intellectual training but perfect for instilling prejudice.

IV. It was invented by Our Ford.

A) I and II only

B) II and III only

C) II, III, and IV only

D) All of the above

Detailed Explanation: Hypnopaedia (sleep-teaching) is a central tool of the World State. The novel explicitly states that early experiments proved it was useless for intellectual learning (e.g., memorizing facts you don't understand), but it was immensely successful for moral conditioning—embedding class prejudices and societal rules directly into the subconscious of sleeping children. It was not invented by Ford; it was perfected long after the early experiments.

Q 7: From which of William Shakespeare's plays does John the Savage derive the phrase "O brave new world, that has such people in't!"?

A) Romeo and Juliet

B) Hamlet

C) The Tempest

D) King Lear

Detailed Explanation: The quote is spoken by Miranda in Act V, Scene I of The Tempest. John the Savage reads this in his complete works of Shakespeare. Huxley uses the quote ironically; while Miranda is genuinely amazed by the beauty of the men she sees for the first time, John initially uses it with naive wonder, but later repeats it with bitter, tragic irony when he realizes the horrific, shallow reality of the World State.

Q 8: What is the "Cyprus Experiment" referred to by Mustapha Mond?

A) An experiment to see if citizens could survive without soma.

B) An attempt to create a society comprised entirely of Alphas.

C) A project to re-introduce religion into a small, controlled population.

D) An initiative to allow natural birth to occur on a secluded island.

Detailed Explanation: Mustapha Mond explains the Cyprus Experiment to John to illustrate why a society needs lower castes. The island of Cyprus was cleared and populated only with Alphas. The result was a catastrophic civil war because no Alpha wanted to do the menial, lower-class jobs, proving to the World State that the caste system (with engineered lower castes) is essential for stability.

Q 9: What exactly is "Soma" in the context of the novel?

A) A biological weapon used to control rebellions.

B) A hallucinogenic narcotic that provides euphoric escapes without side effects like hangovers.

C) The nutritional supplement fed to fetuses during the decanting process.

D) The chemical used in the Malthusian belt for contraception.

Detailed Explanation: Soma is the ultimate tool of social control in the World State. It is described as having "all the advantages of Christianity and alcohol; none of their defects." It cures sadness, anger, and dissatisfaction by providing an instant, consequence-free high, effectively neutralizing any potential rebellion or deep emotional suffering that could threaten social stability.

Q 10: Assertion (A): Mustapha Mond, the Resident World Controller for Western Europe, has forbidden the reading of Shakespeare and other classic literature.

Reason (R): Mustapha Mond himself is uneducated and unable to understand the complexities of classic literature.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Assertion (A) is true; classic literature is banned. However, Reason (R) is entirely false. Mustapha Mond is highly educated, possesses a secret library of forbidden books (including Shakespeare and the Bible), and understands them deeply. He bans them not out of ignorance, but because high art requires instability, tragedy, and strong emotions, which are contrary to the World State's goal of shallow, perpetual happiness.

Q 11: In the novel, what does the symbol "T" represent?

A) Technology

B) The Cross of Christianity, with the top cut off to honor Henry Ford's Model T.

C) The Totalitarian regime.

D) The Test-tube used in the Hatcheries.

Detailed Explanation: In the World State, Henry Ford is worshipped as a deity ("Our Ford"). The traditional Christian cross has had its top decapitated to form a "T", paying homage to Ford's revolutionary Model T car. This symbolizes the replacement of spiritual religion with the worship of technology, consumerism, and mass production.

Q 12: Match the characters in List I with their defining characteristics/actions in List II.

List I

- a. Lenina Crowne
- b. Helmholtz Watson
- c. Linda
- d. The D.H.C. (Thomas)

List II

An emotional engineer who writes propaganda but longs to write poetry.

John's father, who resigns in shame.

A perfectly conditioned Beta worker who struggles to understand John's romantic ideals.

Left behind at the Savage Reservation, becomes addicted to soma upon returning.

A) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

C) a-1, b-3, c-4, d-2

B) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

D) a-4, b-1, c-3, d-2

Detailed Explanation: Lenina (3) is the quintessential, conditioned World State citizen. Helmholtz (1) is an Alpha-Plus who feels his intellectual abilities are wasted writing hypnopaedic phrases. Linda (4) is John's mother, stranded in New Mexico, who dies of soma overdose in London. The D.H.C. (2) is revealed to be John's biological father, a massive scandal in a society where natural birth is a strict taboo.

Q 13: Consider the following statements regarding the "Solidarity Service":

I. It is a religious ceremony mimicking a Christian communion but focused on the worship of Ford.

II. It culminates in an "orgy-porgy" to promote universal oneness and eliminate individuality.

III. Bernard Marx genuinely enjoys the service and feels a deep spiritual connection with his group.

IV. Participants consume soma during the service.

Which of the statements are TRUE?

A) I, II, and III only

C) II, III, and IV only

B) I, II, and IV only

D) I and IV only

Detailed Explanation: The Solidarity Service is a parody of religious rituals (I) involving the consumption of soma (IV) and ending in an "orgy-porgy" (II) to foster community and eliminate the individual self. Statement III is false; Bernard Marx merely pretends to feel the spiritual oneness, remaining self-conscious and alienated throughout the entire ceremony, focusing instead on the physical flaws of the woman next to him.

Q 14: What is "Podsnap's Technique"?

A) A method of accelerating the ripening of human eggs within a single ovary.

B) A psychological conditioning method using electric shocks.

C) The process of turning deceased humans into phosphorus fertilizer.

D) The surgical procedure that makes women sterile (freemartins).

Detailed Explanation: Mentioned early in the novel during the tour of the Hatchery, Podsnap's Technique is a biological process that vastly speeds up the ripening of eggs within a single ovary. This allows the World State to produce thousands of identical siblings in a much shorter time frame, fulfilling their goal of mass production applied to human biology.

Q 15: Who makes the famous historical proclamation, "History is more or less bunk," which is treated as gospel in the World State?

A) Mustapha Mond

B) Henry Ford

C) Bernard Marx

D) The Director of Hatcheries and Conditioning

Detailed Explanation: While Mustapha Mond quotes it extensively in Chapter 3 to justify the World State's erasure of the past, the actual phrase is attributed to "Our Ford" (the real-world Henry Ford, who famously said this in a 1916 interview). The World State uses this philosophy to ensure citizens have no knowledge of the past, preventing them from comparing their current lives to historical alternatives.

Q 16: Assertion (A): John the Savage partakes in self-flagellation (whipping himself) at the lighthouse.

Reason (R): He is participating in a World State physical fitness routine to distract himself from Lenina.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Assertion (A) is true; John whips himself at the lighthouse. Reason (R) is entirely false. He whips himself not for fitness, but out of a deep sense of religious sin and guilt, derived from the ascetic practices he learned at the Reservation and his desperate desire to purify himself of his lust for Lenina Crowne.

Q 17: Which biological term is used to describe the structurally sterile women who make up 70% of the female population in the World State?

A) Freemartins

B) Pneumatic

C) Alphas

D) Viviparous

Detailed Explanation: In biology, a freemartin is an infertile female mammal with masculinized behavior and non-functioning ovaries (usually seen in cattle). Huxley adopts this term for the 70% of females in the World State who are given male sex hormones during fetal development to guarantee they are sterile, thus avoiding the "complication" of natural pregnancy.

Q 18: Arrange the following technological/social control methods in the order they are introduced to a developing World State citizen (from embryo to childhood):

I. Neo-Pavlovian Conditioning (e.g., electric shocks with books/flowers)

II. Bokanovsky's Process

III. Hypnopaedia (Sleep-teaching)

IV. Decanting

A) II, IV, I, III

C) IV, II, III, I

B) II, I, IV, III

D) II, IV, III, I

Detailed Explanation: First, the embryo is manipulated in the test tube using Bokanovsky's process (II). Then, the baby is "born" or poured out of its bottle, known as Decanting (IV). As infants, they undergo Neo-Pavlovian conditioning to hate nature and literature (I). As older toddlers and children, they are subjected to Hypnopaedia to learn societal moral rules (III).

Q 19: "I claim the right to be unhappy." Who speaks this line, and to whom?

A) Bernard Marx to the D.H.C.

B) John the Savage to Mustapha Mond

C) Helmholtz Watson to Bernard Marx

D) Lenina Crowne to John the Savage

Detailed Explanation: This is the climactic moment of the philosophical debate in Chapter 17. Mustapha Mond offers a world of painless, guaranteed happiness without art, religion, or freedom. John rejects this entirely, demanding the right to poetry, real danger, freedom, goodness, and sin—summarizing it ultimately as the "right to be unhappy."

Q 20: Which of the following is an example of the "Centrifugal Bumble-puppy" or similar World State games?

A) Games designed to be played in absolute isolation to build self-reliance.

B) Complex games requiring maximum consumption of manufactured apparatus.

C) Intellectual games involving deep strategic thinking and historical knowledge.

D) Games designed to promote traditional family bonding.

Detailed Explanation: In the World State, the economy relies on constant consumption. Therefore, it is legally mandated that all new games must require more apparatus (equipment) than the games played before them. Centrifugal Bumble-puppy is a children's game intentionally designed to be unnecessarily complex simply to stimulate the economy through the manufacturing of its parts.

Q 21: From a critical and literary perspective, Aldous Huxley's Brave New World is fundamentally a satire targeting which of the following early 20th-century movements?

I. Fordism and mass production

II. Freudian psychoanalysis

III. Behavioral psychology (Pavlov, Watson)

IV. Marxist proletarian revolution

A) I, II, and III only

B) I and III only

C) II, III, and IV only

D) All of the above

Detailed Explanation: Huxley directly satirizes Henry Ford's assembly line (mass-producing humans), Sigmund Freud (the World State attributes the horrors of the family to "Our Freud"), and behavioral psychologists like John B. Watson and Ivan Pavlov (through the infant conditioning centers). While the novel has elements of class critique, it does not explicitly satirize Marxist proletarian revolution; in fact, the lower castes are perfectly conditioned to love their servitude, preventing any such revolution.

Q 22: What is the "Violent Passion Surrogate" (V.P.S.)?

A) A violent movie genre designed to scare Deltas into submission.

B) A compulsory monthly treatment that floods the system with fear and rage hormones.

C) The genetic engineering process that creates the aggressive Alpha-Plus administrators.

D) A weapon used by the World State police during the soma riot.

Detailed Explanation: Because life in the World State is completely devoid of strong emotions, citizens must undergo a compulsory Violent Passion Surrogate treatment once a month. Their systems are flooded with adrenaline to simulate the physiological effects of fear and rage, satisfying the biological need for these emotions without threatening the stability of society.

Q 23:Assertion (A): Helmholtz Watson chooses to be exiled to the Falkland Islands rather than a more comfortable tropical island.

Reason (R): He believes that a harsh, stormy climate will inspire him to write better poetry.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Unlike Bernard, who begs to stay in London, Helmholtz accepts his exile. When Mustapha Mond offers him a choice of location, Helmholtz specifically requests an island with a terrible climate (the Falkland Islands) because he realizes that suffering, struggle, and harsh conditions are necessary ingredients for creating genuine, profound literature.

Q 24: In the World State, the word "mother" is considered:

A) A sacred and revered title.

B) An obsolete but harmless historical term.

C) A smutty, obscene, and pornographic word.

D) A scientific classification for Beta-females.

Detailed Explanation: Because humans are decanted in hatcheries, natural birth and the traditional family unit have been abolished. Consequently, words like "mother" and "father" evoke intense disgust and embarrassment. The concept of a biological parent is treated as filthy, shameful pornography by World State citizens.

Q 25: Match the locations in List I with their significance in List II.

List I

- a. Malpais
- b. Bloomsbury Centre
- c. Iceland
- d. The Lighthouse

List II

Where Bernard Marx is threatened to be exiled before the Director's scandal.

The site of John's final retreat, self-flagellation, and death.

The name of the pueblo in the Savage Reservation.

The location of the Hatchery and Conditioning Centre.

A) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

B) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

C) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

D) a-4, b-3, c-2, d-1

Detailed Explanation: Malpais (meaning "bad country" in Spanish) is the specific village in the New Mexico reservation (3). The Bloomsbury Centre is the massive London facility where decanting and conditioning occur (4). Iceland is the cold, remote location where the D.H.C. threatens to send Bernard for his non-conformity (1). The Lighthouse in Surrey is where John attempts to isolate himself at the end of the novel (2).

Q 26: What ultimately drives John the Savage to commit suicide at the end of the novel?

A) He is forced to take soma by Mustapha Mond.

B) He is rejected by Lenina Crowne, who refuses to marry him.

C) He inadvertently participates in an "orgy-porgy" and realizes he has been corrupted by the World State.

D) He discovers that Helmholtz Watson has been executed.

Detailed Explanation: At the lighthouse, a crowd of onlookers gathers to watch John whip himself. Lenina arrives, and in a frenzy of whipped-up emotion, soma vapor, and chanting, John gives in to his lust and the crowd's hysteria, participating in an "orgy-porgy". Waking up the next day, the overwhelming guilt and realization that he has succumbed to the degrading morality of the World State drives him to hang himself.

Q 27: Which character famously declares, "Words can be like X-rays if you use them properly—they'll go through anything. You read and you're pierced"?

A) John the Savage

B) Mustapha Mond

C) Helmholtz Watson

D) Bernard Marx

Detailed Explanation: Helmholtz Watson says this to Bernard. As an Emotional Engineer who writes hypnopaedic rhymes, he acutely understands the power of language. However, he is deeply frustrated because he feels he has the power of the "X-ray" words, but nothing meaningful to write about in a society that has eliminated tragedy, pain, and deep emotion.

Q 28: Consider the following statements regarding the character of Linda:

- I. She was originally a Beta-Minus worker from the World State.
- II. She gives birth to John naturally because she lost her Malthusian drill/belt.
- III. Upon returning to the World State, she is celebrated as a hero of natural motherhood.
- IV. She dies peacefully in her sleep while reading Shakespeare.

Which of the statements are TRUE?

A) I and II only

B) I, II, and III only

C) II and IV only

D) I only

Detailed Explanation: Linda was a Beta-Minus (I). She became pregnant on the reservation and couldn't get an abortion because she didn't have her Malthusian belt or access to an Abortion Centre (II). Statement III is false; upon returning, she is viewed with utter disgust by society because she is aged, fat, and a mother. Statement IV is false; she dies in a soma-induced coma in a hospital, surrounded by unfeeling, conditioned Delta children, which breaks John's heart.

Q 29: What is a "Malthusian belt"?

A) A belt worn by Epsilons to carry their heavy tools.

B) A fashion accessory that signifies a citizen's devotion to Ford.

C) A belt carrying a regulated supply of contraceptives, named after Thomas Malthus.

D) A punishment device used to administer electric shocks to misbehaving children.

Detailed Explanation: Huxley named the "Malthusian belt" after Thomas Malthus, a real-world 19th-century economist who warned of the dangers of overpopulation. In the novel, women who are not freemartins (the 30% who are fertile) are required to wear this belt, which contains a strict regimen of contraceptives, to ensure that natural pregnancy never occurs.

Q 30: Assertion (A): The World State encourages "Promiscuity" as a civic duty.

Reason (R): Monogamy and exclusive romantic relationships lead to strong emotions and jealousy, which threaten social stability.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: In the World State, the hypnopaedic proverb is "Everyone belongs to everyone else." Promiscuity is legally and socially enforced (Assertion A). The Reason (R) perfectly explains why: exclusive emotional bonds (like monogamy, marriage, or family) breed passion, jealousy, madness, and divided loyalties. By enforcing promiscuity, the state ensures that citizens never form deep emotional attachments, thereby maintaining absolute social stability.

Q 31: What is the purpose of the "feelies" in the World State?

A) To educate citizens about the history of the Nine Years' War.

B) To provide a sensory-rich cinematic experience that satisfies primal desires and distracts from deep thought.

C) To condition children against loud noises and bright lights.

D) To simulate the feeling of natural birth for freemartins.

Detailed Explanation: The "feelies" are movies that stimulate both sight and touch (via metal knobs on the armrests). They feature shallow, purely sensational plots, ensuring citizens remain entertained and ideologically compliant without engaging in critical thinking.

Q 32: Assertion (A): The Nine Years' War was a catastrophic global conflict that directly led to the formation of the World State.

Reason (R): The war caused massive economic collapse, leading humanity to willingly sacrifice freedom for guaranteed stability and survival.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: The Nine Years' War involved chemical and biological weapons (anthrax bombs) and devastated the global economy. Terrified of extinction, humanity accepted the rigid control of the World Controllers in exchange for guaranteed peace, comfort, and stability.

Q 33: Who is Popé in the context of the novel?

- A) The Resident World Controller of South America.
- B) A hypnopaedic specialist at the Bloomsbury Centre.
- C) Linda's lover in Malpais who brings her mescal and the complete works of Shakespeare.
- D) The Alpha-Plus engineer who designed the feelies.

Detailed Explanation: Popé is a Native American man in the Savage Reservation who has an ongoing relationship with Linda. He provides her with mescal (her substitute for soma) and, crucially, brings John an old copy of Shakespeare, shaping John's entire worldview.

Q 34: Match the hypnopaedic phrases in List I with their underlying societal purpose in List II.

List I

- a. "Ending is better than mending."
- b. "A gramme is better than a damn."
- c. "When the individual feels, the community reels."
- d. "Cleanliness is next to fordliness."

List II

Suppressing strong emotions to maintain social stability.

Encouraging the use of soma to avoid frustration.

Promoting mass consumption and economic growth.

Enforcing strict sterilization and hygienic conditioning.

A) a-3, b-2, c-1, d-4

C) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

B) a-2, b-3, c-4, d-1

D) a-4, b-2, c-1, d-3

Detailed Explanation: "Ending is better than mending" drives consumerism (3). "A gramme is better than a damn" promotes soma use (2). "When the individual feels..." warns against destabilizing emotions (1). "Cleanliness..." links physical hygiene to their technological religion (4).

Q 35: What physical feature distinguishes the Savage Reservation from the rest of the world?

A) It is surrounded by a massive ocean.

B) It is enclosed by a lethal, high-tension electric fence.

C) It is located entirely underground.

D) It is guarded by an army of Epsilon soldiers.

Detailed Explanation: The Savage Reservation in New Mexico is sealed off from the "civilized" World State by a heavily guarded, deadly electric fence that instantly kills any animal or person attempting to cross it, keeping the "savages" contained.

Q 36: Which of the following describes the World State's approach to the disposal of human corpses?

A) They are buried in massive communal graves.

B) They are cryogenically frozen for future study.

C) They are cremated, and their bodies are used to recover valuable phosphorus for fertilizer.

D) They are dissolved in acid to ensure total erasure of the individual.

Detailed Explanation: In the heavily utilitarian World State, even death is monetized. Corpses are burned at the Slough Crematorium, and the exhaust gases are processed to recover phosphorus, which is then used to fertilize agricultural land.

Q 37: Arrange the following discoveries/events in the life of John the Savage in chronological order:

- I. He learns to make clay pots and a bow from Mitsima.
- II. He discovers the complete works of William Shakespeare.
- III. He is excluded from the puberty initiation ceremony in the kiva.
- IV. He stabs Popé in the shoulder.

A) II, I, IV, III

C) II, IV, I, III

B) IV, II, I, III

D) II, IV, III, I

Detailed Explanation: First, Popé brings him Shakespeare (II). Influenced by Hamlet, he stabs Popé to protect his mother (IV). Later, older men like Mitsima teach him traditional skills (I), but despite this, he is rejected from the sacred coming-of-age ceremony in the kiva because of his mother's promiscuity (III).

Q 38: How does the World State biologically ensure the lower castes (Gammas, Deltas, Epsilons) possess inferior intelligence and physical stature?

A) By exposing their embryos to severe radiation.

B) By systematically depriving their embryos of oxygen during the bottling stage.

C) By injecting them with a mild neurotoxin after they are decanted.

D) By feeding them a restricted diet of synthetic gruel.

Detailed Explanation: The Hatchery explicitly controls the intelligence and physical development of the lower castes by limiting the amount of oxygen the embryos receive on the assembly line. Epsilons receive the least oxygen, resulting in severe physical and mental stunting.

Q 39: What does the term "pneumatic" mean when frequently applied to Lenina Crowne?

A) Highly intelligent and capable of independent thought.

B) Rebellious and resistant to conditioning.

C) Plump, bouncy, and physically desirable in a purely sexual, objectified sense.

D) Prone to frequent outbursts of uncontrollable emotion.

Detailed Explanation: Huxley uses "pneumatic" (literally meaning filled with air) to describe Lenina's physical attractiveness. It emphasizes how the World State reduces women to mindless, bouncy, fleshy objects meant entirely for temporary male consumption.

Q 40: Consider the following statements about Fanny Crowne:

I. She is Lenina's closest friend and a fellow worker at the Hatchery.

II. She encourages Lenina to break the rules and pursue a monogamous relationship.

III. She strictly adheres to the World State's hypnopaedic conditioning.

IV. She is exiled along with Bernard and Helmholtz.

Which of the statements are TRUE?

A) I and II only

C) II and IV only

B) I and III only

D) I, III, and IV only

Detailed Explanation: Fanny is Lenina's friend (I) but acts as a mouthpiece for the World State's orthodox values. She constantly chastises Lenina for dating Henry Foster for too long, urging her to be more promiscuous (III). She is never exiled (IV).

Q 41: Assertion (A): Bernard Marx's sudden rise in social popularity upon returning to London is completely genuine and lasting.

Reason (R): Society respects him for bravely exposing the Director's scandalous past.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Assertion (A) is false; his popularity is entirely superficial and fleeting. He is only popular because he acts as the "guardian" to the fascinating John the Savage. Once John refuses to attend Bernard's party, Bernard's social standing evaporates instantly.

Q 42: Which real-world historical event is repeatedly referenced as a tragic example of humanity's past violence, during which Mustapha Mond claims classical art and literature were destroyed?

A) The bombing of Pearl Harbor.

B) The French Revolution.

C) The British Museum Massacre.

D) The sinking of the Lusitania.

Detailed Explanation: Mustapha Mond references the "British Museum Massacre" as part of the violent transition period following the Nine Years' War, where angry mobs, fueled by anti-historical propaganda, destroyed monuments and ancient texts to pave the way for the World State's new order.

Q 43: Match the historical figures in List I with their conceptual equivalents or targets of satire in List II.

List I

- a. Henry Ford
- b. Sigmund Freud
- c. Thomas Malthus
- d. Ivan Pavlov

List II

Psychoanalysis and the condemnation of traditional family structures.

Contraception and population control.

Mass production and the assembly line.

Behavioral conditioning and physical reflexes.

A) a-4, b-2, c-3, d-1

B) a-3, b-4, c-1, d-2

C) a-1, b-3, c-2, d-4

D) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

Detailed Explanation: Ford represents mass production (3). The World State conflates Ford with Freud, using Freud's theories to justify destroying the family (1). Malthus's theories on overpopulation inspire the contraceptive "Malthusian belt" (2). Pavlov's conditioning experiments are the basis for the Neo-Pavlovian infant training (4).

Q 44: In the climax of the novel, what does John the Savage drink in an attempt to "purify" himself of the civilized world?

- A) Pure alcohol
- B) Mescal
- C) A lethal dose of soma

D) Mustard and warm water

Detailed Explanation: After the death of his mother and the soma riot, John retreats to the lighthouse. To purge himself of the "filth" of civilization—both physically and spiritually—he drinks a mixture of mustard and warm water to induce violent vomiting.

Q 45: What was Mustapha Mond's profession before he became a World Controller?

- A) A hypnopaedic writer.
- B) A Director of Hatcheries.
- C) An orthodox, highly compliant Alpha-Plus administrator.

D) A brilliant physicist who conducted illicit scientific research.

Detailed Explanation: Mond reveals to John that he was once an inquisitive physicist. When his research into genuine truth threatened the state's orthodox science (which prioritizes stability over discovery), he was given a choice: exile to an island or the World Controllership. He chose to give up science to rule.

Q 46: Which Shakespearean character does John the Savage most frequently identify with, especially concerning his tragic relationship with Lenina?

A) Macbeth

C) Romeo

B) Othello

D) Hamlet

Detailed Explanation: John's intense disgust for his mother's sexual promiscuity with Popé deeply mirrors Hamlet's disgust with Gertrude. Furthermore, his complex, tragic, and ultimately doomed obsession with Lenina draws heavily on the brooding, self-destructive nature of Hamlet.

Q 47: Consider the following statements regarding the "Death Conditioning" in the World State:

I. It begins at eighteen months of age.

II. Children are brought to the Hospital for the Dying and given toys and chocolate eclairs.

III. The purpose is to make citizens view death as a natural, tragic loss to be mourned.

IV. It successfully prevents citizens from fearing death.

Which of the statements are TRUE?

A) I, II, and IV only

B) I and II only

C) II, III, and IV only

D) I, II, III, and IV

Detailed Explanation: Death conditioning involves bringing toddlers to dying wards and giving them sweets (II) so they associate death with pleasant things (I, IV). Statement III is false; the goal is to make death trivial and meaningless, entirely eliminating mourning or grief.

Q 48: What is the "Scent Organ"?

A) An instrument that sprays soma gas into unruly crowds.

B) A musical instrument that plays "concerts" composed of various synthesized odors instead of sound.

C) The device used to detect diseases in developing embryos.

D) A machine that filters the air in the Slough Crematorium.

Detailed Explanation: The Scent Organ is a prominent feature of the World State's sensory entertainment. Rather than playing musical notes, it releases complex, synchronized combinations of pleasant smells (like sandalwood and fresh grass) to delight the audience.

Q 49: Assertion (A): When John reads Romeo and Juliet to Helmholtz Watson, Helmholtz is deeply moved by the tragic romance and understands it perfectly.

Reason (R): Helmholtz is an emotional engineer and a gifted poet who craves deep emotional expression.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Reason (R) is true; Helmholtz is a poet seeking deep expression. However, Assertion (A) is false. When John reads Romeo and Juliet, Helmholtz bursts into uncontrollable laughter. He finds the concept of mothers, fathers, and forced marriage completely absurd and structurally incomprehensible due to his conditioning.

Q 50: Who films John the Savage's self-flagellation at the lighthouse, turning his private agony into a massive public spectacle?

A) Bernard Marx

B) Henry Foster

C) Darwin Bonaparte

D) The Arch-Community-Songster

Detailed Explanation: Darwin Bonaparte is an expert photographer for the feely-corporation. He hides in the bushes near the lighthouse, capturing John's self-flagellation over three days. He turns this footage into a blockbuster feely called The Savage of Surrey, which draws the massive, fatal crowd to John.

Q 51: Which architectural landmark is mentioned as a prominent feature of the London skyline, symbolizing the World State's technological dominance?

A) The World State Capitol

B) The Charing-T Tower

C) The Fordsonian Institute

D) The Alpha Zenith Building

Detailed Explanation: The Charing-T Tower is a massive structure that replaces the real-world Charing Cross station in London. The use of "T" instead of "Cross" perfectly encapsulates the replacement of Christianity with the worship of Ford and technology.

Q 52: What was the specific subject of the sleep-teaching experiment on the boy Reuben Rabinovitch, which led to the perfection of Hypnopaedia?

A) A broadcast in Polish about George Bernard Shaw.

B) A mathematical formula regarding the velocity of light.

C) A history lesson about the Nine Years' War.

D) A list of World State moral commandments.

Detailed Explanation: Little Reuben Rabinovitch fell asleep with the radio on and memorized a long broadcast in Polish (a language he didn't speak) about George Bernard Shaw. This proved that hypnopaedia could force the brain to memorize words perfectly, but could not teach intellectual comprehension.

Q 53: In the novel, what does the term "ectogenesis" refer to?

A) The process of exiling citizens to remote islands.

B) The scientific process of growing a fetus completely outside the human body in artificial containers.

C) The psychological treatment used to cure Bernard Marx's melancholy.

D) The synthesis of soma in state-run laboratories.

Detailed Explanation: Ectogenesis is a real biological term referring to the growth of an organism in an artificial environment outside the body. In the novel, it is the fundamental technology of the Hatcheries, allowing the state to entirely replace viviparous (natural) human reproduction.

Q 54: mMatch the character with their respective social caste.

List I

- a. Bernard Marx
- b. Lenina Crowne
- c. Helmholtz Watson
- d. The elevator operator

List II

- Alpha-Plus
- Beta
- Alpha-Plus (stunted)
- Epsilon

A) a-3, b-2, c-1, d-4

B) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

C) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

D) a-2, b-3, c-1, d-4

Detailed Explanation: Bernard is an Alpha-Plus who is physically stunted (3). Lenina is a classic Beta worker (2). Helmholtz is a physically and mentally perfect Alpha-Plus (1). The elevator operator, designed for menial labor and lacking intelligence, is an Epsilon (4).

Q 55: Which character declares, "I ate civilization. It poisoned me; I was defiled. And then... I ate my own wickedness."?

A) Helmholtz Watson

B) Bernard Marx

C) Mustapha Mond

D) John the Savage

Detailed Explanation: John says this at the lighthouse. It perfectly summarizes his character arc. He consumed the "civilization" of the World State and found it morally poisonous. His subsequent self-flagellation is his attempt to purge both the state's poison and his own internal "wickedness" (his lust for Lenina).

Q 56: Assertion (A): The World State relies heavily on "Boscobel" and "Eton" as centers of higher learning for Alpha citizens.

Reason (R): These institutions encourage independent thought and rebellion against the Controller's dictates.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Eton is indeed a prominent school for upper-caste Alphas and Betas in the World State (Assertion A). However, Reason (R) is false. Eton does not encourage independent thought; it strictly reinforces conditioning and prepares Alphas to administer the state's rigid rules without Qing them.

Q 57: In his 1946 Foreword to Brave New World, what did Aldous Huxley state was the most serious defect of the novel?

A) The inclusion of the Savage Reservation, which he felt was unrealistic.

B) The failure to predict the invention of nuclear weapons.

C) Offering John the Savage only two alternatives: an insane utopia or a primitive, superstitious reservation.

D) Making Mustapha Mond too sympathetic a character.

Detailed Explanation: In the foreword written years later, Huxley lamented that he didn't give John a third choice—a sane, decentralized, cooperative community where science and technology were used to serve human freedom, rather than subjugate it.

Q 58: What is Mustapha Mond's metaphor involving an "iceberg"?

A) It represents the emotional repression of the World State citizens.

B) It represents the optimal population distribution: eight-ninths below the water line (lower castes) and one-ninth above (Alphas).

C) It represents the impending destruction of the World State due to a lack of innovation.

D) It represents the cold, calculating nature of the World Controllers.

Detailed Explanation: Mond uses the iceberg metaphor to explain the necessity of the caste system. A stable society must have a massive, unthinking foundation of workers (the eight-ninths below the water) supporting a tiny fraction of intellectual administrators (the one-ninth above).

Q 59: Which character writes a poem about being alone and isolated, which deeply offends the World State authorities?

A) Bernard Marx

C) Helmholtz Watson

B) John the Savage

D) Henry Foster

Detailed Explanation: Helmholtz Watson, an emotional engineer, experiments with writing poetry. He writes a poem about the feeling of absolute solitude and emptiness. When he reads it to his students, they report him to the authorities, as seeking solitude is a major crime in the World State.

Q 60: Consider the following elements regarding the "Soma Riot" at the Park Lane Hospital for the Dying:

- I. John tries to convince the Deltas that soma is a poison keeping them enslaved.
- II. John physically throws the soma rations out the window.
- III. Bernard rushes into the fray, bravely fighting alongside John and Helmholtz.
- IV. The police use soma vapor and a synthetic anti-riot speech to pacify the crowd.

Which of the statements are TRUE?

A) I, II, and III only

B) I, II, and IV only

C) II, III, and IV only

D) I and IV only

Detailed Explanation: John preaches to the Deltas (I) and throws the soma away (II). The police easily pacify the crowd with soma vapor and soothing Voice of Reason synthetic speech (IV). Statement III is false; Bernard cowardly hesitates on the sidelines, afraid of getting hurt or arrested, highlighting his weak character.

Q 61: "But I don't want comfort. I want God, I want poetry, I want real danger, I want freedom, I want goodness. I want sin."

Who is John speaking to in this profound quotation?

A) Lenina Crowne

C) Mustapha Mond

B) Bernard Marx

D) The Director of Hatcheries

Detailed Explanation: This is the core thesis of John the Savage, delivered directly to Mustapha Mond during their philosophical debate in Chapter 17. John explicitly rejects the sterile, painless comfort of the World State in favor of the full spectrum of human experience, including pain and sin.

Q 62: Which biological term is explicitly used in the novel as an insulting curse word, causing intense embarrassment when spoken aloud?

A) Ectogenesis

C) Freemartin

B) Viviparous

D) Bokanovsky

Detailed Explanation: "Viviparous" is a biological term meaning bringing forth live young that have developed inside the body of the parent (natural birth). In the World State, natural birth is a grotesque taboo, making "viviparous" a highly offensive obscenity.

Q 63: Match the locations in the World State to their specific functions.

List I

a. Slough

b. Park Lane

c. Bloomsbury

d. Westminster

List II

Location of the massive Hatchery and Conditioning Centre.

Location of the Crematorium where phosphorus is recovered.

Location of the Abbey Cabaret, an entertainment venue.

Location of the Hospital for the Dying.

A) a-4, b-3, c-1, d-2

C) a-2, b-1, c-3, d-4

B) a-1, b-2, c-4, d-3

D) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

Detailed Explanation: The Slough Crematorium recovers phosphorus (2). The Park Lane Hospital is where Linda dies and the riot occurs (4). The Bloomsbury Centre is the main hatchery in London (1). Westminster Abbey has been converted into a Cabaret for entertainment (3).

Q 64: Chronologically, which event immediately precedes Bernard Marx discovering he will be transferred to Iceland?

A) The soma riot at the hospital.

B) John refusing to come out of his room for Bernard's party.

C) The public humiliation of the Director of Hatcheries (Thomas).

D) Helmholtz Watson reading his poem about solitude.

Detailed Explanation: Actually, the Director threatens Bernard with Iceland before the humiliation. Bernard brings John and Linda specifically to prevent his exile. Once the DHC is humiliated and resigns, Bernard is temporarily safe. However, after the soma riot (A), Mond officially sentences Bernard to exile. Therefore, the threat precedes C, but the actual exile follows the riot.

Q 65: Assertion (A): John the Savage brutally attacks Lenina with a whip at the end of the novel.

Reason (R): He believes she is an agent of Mustapha Mond sent to assassinate him.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: John does attack Lenina with a whip (Assertion A) because she represents the sexual temptation he is desperately trying to purge. He screams "Strumpet!" at her. However, Reason (R) is false; he does not think she is an assassin, he thinks she is a manifestation of sin and lust.

Q 66: Who is the Arch-Community-Songster of Canterbury?

A) A lower-caste Epsilon who leads the chants in the factory.

B) A powerful World State official who functions as a secular, satirical equivalent of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

C) The author of the hypnopaedic rhymes used on children.

D) The man who replaces the Director of Hatcheries.

Detailed Explanation: Huxley satirizes religious hierarchy by creating the Arch-Community-Songster, who holds immense social power and officiates at secular, Fordist rituals. He attends Bernard's doomed party and angrily leaves when John refuses to appear.

Q 67: Multiple Statement: Which of the following authors are directly mentioned or heavily alluded to as being completely banned in the World State?

I. William Shakespeare

II. John Milton

III. The authors of the Holy Bible

IV. H.G. Wells

A) I and III only

B) I, III, and IV only

C) II and IV only

D) I, II, and III only

Detailed Explanation: Shakespeare, Milton, and the Bible are explicitly locked in Mustapha Mond's safe, entirely banned from society to prevent complex emotions. H.G. Wells is not banned; in fact, Huxley satirizes Wells by naming World State citizens things like "Dr. Wells" and embracing Wellsian techno-utopian concepts.

Q 68: What is the specific physical mechanism that causes John the Savage to eventually participate in the "orgy-porgy" at the lighthouse?

A) He is forcibly injected with soma by Darwin Bonaparte.

B) He inhales the soma vapor sprayed by the arriving helicopters while caught in the rhythmic chanting of the crowd.

C) He gives up his asceticism after reading a final passage from Shakespeare.

D) He is hypnotized by a Neo-Pavlovian conditioning machine.

Detailed Explanation: As the massive crowd watches him whip himself, helicopters arrive and spray soma vapor into the air to pacify the frenzied crowd. John inadvertently inhales the vapor and is drawn into the hypnotic, rhythmic chanting of "Orgy-porgy," causing him to lose his ascetic resolve.

Q 69: "Christianity without tears—that's what _____ is." (Fill in the blank as stated by Mustapha Mond).

- A) Hypnopaedia
- B) The Solidarity Service
- C) Soma
- D) Bokanovsky's Process

Detailed Explanation: Mustapha Mond describes soma as having all the comforting, unifying, and pacifying benefits of religion (Christianity) but without the need for suffering, guilt, tears, or moral struggle. It provides instant salvation in a pill.

Q 70: What is the final, haunting visual image presented at the very end of Brave New World?

- A) Mustapha Mond smiling as he looks out over a perfectly orderly London.
- B) Bernard and Helmholtz waving goodbye from a ship headed to the Falklands.
- C) Lenina weeping quietly in the Hatchery.

D) The feet of John the Savage slowly rotating back and forth, hanging from the arch of the lighthouse.

Detailed Explanation: The novel ends with a chilling, detached description of John's hanging body. "Slowly, very slowly, like two unhurried compass needles, the feet turned towards the right; north, north-east, east, south-east, south, south-south-west..." This stark image finalizes the tragic impossibility of living a human life in the World State.

Q 71: Assertion (A): The World State encourages citizens to spend time in unorganized, solitary nature walks.

Reason (R): Nature is believed to have a calming, stabilizing effect on the human psyche.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, and (R) is false.

Detailed Explanation: Both are entirely false. The World State aggressively conditions citizens (especially lower castes) to hate the country and nature because enjoying nature is free. Instead, they encourage expensive country sports that require the consumption of manufactured goods and transport.

Q 72: Match the character to their primary motivation/internal conflict.

List I

a. John the Savage

c. Helmholtz Watson

b. Bernard Marx

d. Mustapha Mond

List II

1. Craves social status and women but feels inadequate due to his physical stature.
2. Desires to write something of true, piercing meaning but lacks the emotional context to do so.
3. Understands truth and beauty but sacrifices them to maintain global stability and power.
4. Seeks spiritual purity, poetry, and suffering in a world that offers only shallow comfort.

A) a-4, b-1, c-2, d-3

B) a-4, b-2, c-1, d-3

C) a-3, b-1, c-4, d-2

D) a-2, b-4, c-1, d-3

Detailed Explanation: John seeks purity and suffering (4). Bernard is petty and merely wants the social status denied to him (1). Helmholtz is a frustrated artist seeking meaning (2). Mond is the pragmatic, cynical ruler who consciously sacrificed truth for peace (3).

Q 73: What specific book does the Director of Hatcheries (Thomas) mention he left behind at the Savage Reservation twenty years ago?

A) The complete works of Shakespeare.

B) A hypnopaedic manual.

C) The Chemical and Bacteriological Conditioning of the Embryo.

D) The Holy Bible.

Detailed Explanation: When John is growing up, Linda teaches him to read using this highly technical scientific manual that the Director (his father) left behind. John learns to read using words he doesn't understand until Popé brings him Shakespeare.

Q 74: Which of the following is NOT a feature of the Pueblo culture (Malpais) depicted in the novel?

A) Monogamous marriage and strict familial bonds.

B) Ritualistic snake dances and public flagellation.

C) A highly advanced, sustainable agricultural system utilizing genetic engineering.

D) The synthesis of traditional Native American religion and Christianity.

Detailed Explanation: Malpais is depicted as a squalid, primitive society (from the World State's perspective). They practice a syncretic religion (Christianity and native beliefs), marriage, and ritualistic violence, but they absolutely do not possess advanced genetic engineering.

Q 75: When John the Savage is brought to London, what nickname is widely adopted by the media and high society to refer to him?

A) The Hamlet of Malpais

B) The Savage of Surrey

C) Mr. Savage

D) The Viviparous Boy

Detailed Explanation: In London high society, he is politely and somewhat patronizingly introduced and referred to simply as "Mr. Savage," treating his primitive origin as a sort of exotic aristocratic title. (Note: "The Savage of Surrey" is specifically the title of Darwin Bonaparte's later feely).

Q 76: Chronological: Arrange the phases of Henry Foster and Lenina's date in the correct order.

- I. They take a helicopter ride over the Slough Crematorium.
- II. They attend a performance at the Westminster Abbey Cabaret.
- III. They take a strong dose of soma before returning to Henry's apartment.
- IV. They play a round of Obstacle Golf.

A) IV, I, II, III

C) IV, II, I, III

B) I, IV, II, III

D) I, II, IV, III

Detailed Explanation: A typical World State date: They play heavily mechanized sports (Obstacle Golf), fly back in the helicopter (discussing the Crematorium's phosphorus recovery), enjoy shallow entertainment (the Cabaret), and end the night heavily sedated on soma (III).

Q 77: What is the "Malthusian Drill"?

A) A military exercise for Alpha-Plus administrators.

B) The mechanical procedure for applying contraceptives correctly.

C) A dental procedure to remove wisdom teeth in embryos.

D) A hypnopaedic lesson about the dangers of overpopulation.

Detailed Explanation: Women who are not sterile (freemartins) must routinely practice the "Malthusian Drill" to ensure they never accidentally conceive. Linda's tragic flaw was that she forgot her drill and lost her Malthusian belt while on the reservation, resulting in John's birth.

Q 78: Assertion (A): Aldous Huxley drew significant inspiration from the utopian novels of H.G. Wells, particularly Men Like Gods.

Reason (R): Brave New World was originally conceived as a direct parody and critique of Wells's optimistic techno-utopias.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, but (R) is true.

Detailed Explanation: Huxley was frustrated by H.G. Wells's naive belief that science and technology would inevitably create a perfect, happy utopia. Brave New World was explicitly written as a satirical rebuttal, demonstrating how that exact technology could be used to enslave humanity through pleasure.

Q 79: Which character acts as a foil to Bernard Marx, highlighting Bernard's cowardice and physical inadequacy by possessing the exact opposite traits (bravery, physical perfection, and genuine intellectual depth)?

A) Henry Foster

C) Helmholtz Watson

B) Mustapha Mond

D) Popé

Detailed Explanation: While both are Alpha-Plus men who feel alienated, they are exact opposites. Bernard is short, cowardly, and alienated because he is rejected by society. Helmholtz is perfectly built, universally adored, and bravely faces exile; he is alienated because society is too shallow for his intellect.

Q 80: What do the Deltas receive at the end of their work shift, which John attempts to destroy during the riot?

- A) Their daily wages in Ford-credits.
- B) A mandatory hypnopaedic treatment.
- C) A ticket to the feelies.

D) Their daily ration of soma.

Detailed Explanation: The lower castes are paid partially in soma rations. After their shift at the Park Lane Hospital, the Deltas line up to receive their soma. John, recognizing it as the chemical chains of their enslavement, violently throws the pillboxes out the window.

Q 81: What does John the Savage mean when he repeatedly quotes, "O brave new world, that has such people in't!" upon first seeing the Bokanovsky groups at the factory?

A) He is genuinely praising the incredible technological achievement of cloning.

B) The quote shifts from wonder to intense irony and physical nausea upon seeing the identical, stunted workers.

C) He is trying to impress Lenina with his knowledge of Shakespeare.

D) He is attempting to incite a rebellion among the factory workers.

Detailed Explanation: When John first used the quote in Malpais, it was with genuine wonder at the prospect of civilization. When he sees the horrifying reality of dozens of identical, dwarfish, identical twins (Bokanovsky groups), the Shakespearean quote becomes a bitter, nauseating irony.

Q 82: Multiple Statement: Which of the following are tenets of the World State's consumerist philosophy?

- I. Clothes should never be mended; old clothes must be thrown away.
- II. All new games must require more apparatus than the games that preceded them.
- III. Citizens are encouraged to grow their own food to ease the burden on the state.
- IV. The production of complex, synthetic goods is prioritized to keep factories running.

A) I, II, and IV only

B) I and II only

C) II, III, and IV only

D) I, II, III, and IV

Detailed Explanation: Statements I, II, and IV reflect the state's absolute reliance on continuous mass consumption to maintain economic stability. Statement III is false; self-reliance (growing your own food) would bypass the industrial economy, which the state explicitly forbids.

Q 83: Which character states, "I'm claiming the right to be unhappy"?

A) Bernard Marx

C) Mustapha Mond

B) Helmholtz Watson

D) John the Savage

Detailed Explanation: John says this to Mond. He demands the right to experience the full range of human emotions, suffering, disease, and tragedy, rather than live in a state of perpetually engineered, shallow comfort.

Q 84: What is the "Voice of Reason"?

A) The nickname given to Mustapha Mond by his subordinates.

B) A synthetic, hypnopaedic voice used by the police to instantly calm rioting citizens.

C) A popular daily newspaper in the World State.

D) The inner voice John hears when he prays to Jesus and Pookong.

Detailed Explanation: During the hospital riot, the police deploy a portable synthetic music box that broadcasts the "Voice of Reason" and the "Voice of Good Feeling." This artificially sweet, persuasive voice triggers the citizens' deep hypnopaedic conditioning, instantly pacifying them.

Q 85: Assertion (A): Lenina Crowne is depicted as a villain who intentionally tries to corrupt John the Savage.

Reason (R): She deliberately violates World State rules by hiding a copy of Shakespeare in her apartment.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, and (R) is false.

Detailed Explanation: Both are false. Lenina is not a villain; she is merely a perfectly conditioned Beta who acts exactly as she was programmed to act (promiscuously). She never reads or hides Shakespeare. Her tragedy is that she genuinely likes John but possesses no emotional vocabulary to express it beyond sex.

Q 86: Match the technology/concept with its real-world inspiration.

List I

- a. Soma
- b. The Assembly Line Decanting
- c. Neo-Pavlovian Conditioning
- d. Malthusian Belt

List II

- 1. Henry Ford's manufacturing innovations.
- 2. Behavioral psychology (Classical conditioning).
- 3. 19th-century theories on population growth and food supply.
- 4. Opium, alcohol, and the pursuit of chemical escapism.

A) a-4, b-1, c-2, d-3

B) a-1, b-2, c-3, d-4

C) a-4, b-2, c-1, d-3

D) a-3, b-1, c-2, d-4

Detailed Explanation: Soma relates to chemical escapism (4). The decanting process mimics Ford's assembly line (1). Neo-Pavlovian rooms are based on Ivan Pavlov's classical conditioning (2). The Malthusian belt is named after Thomas Malthus's population theories (3).

Q 87: Why does the Director of Hatcheries and Conditioning (Thomas) originally plan to exile Bernard Marx to Iceland?

- A) Because Bernard stole a massive quantity of soma from the Hatchery.
- B) Because Bernard is suspected of writing subversive poetry.
- C) Because Bernard displays unorthodox behavior, such as preferring solitude and refusing to be sufficiently promiscuous.
- D) Because Bernard attempted to murder Henry Foster out of jealousy.

Detailed Explanation: Bernard is threatened with exile long before the John/Linda scandal. The Director notices Bernard's anti-social behavior (wanting to be alone, not participating in sports, having a monogamous fixation on Lenina), which threatens the foundational stability of the State.

Q 88: What is the function of a "Pregnancy Substitute"?

- A) A medical procedure that provides the physiological benefits of pregnancy without producing a child.
- B) A robotic doll given to Beta females to satisfy maternal instincts.
- C) A hypnopaedic tape that makes women fear pregnancy.
- D) A specific type of soma that causes hallucinations of childbirth.

Detailed Explanation: The World State recognizes that the female body biologically expects to be pregnant occasionally. To maintain physiological health without allowing actual reproduction, women must periodically undergo a "pregnancy substitute" treatment, which floods their system with pregnancy hormones.

Q 89: Chronological: Arrange the following events concerning Linda's life.

- I. She is abandoned at the Savage Reservation during a storm.
- II. She enters a permanent soma-holiday upon returning to London.
- III. She works in the Fertilizing Room at the Bloomsbury Centre.
- IV. She is beaten by the women of Malpais for sleeping with their husbands.

A) III, I, IV, II

B) I, III, IV, II

C) III, I, II, IV

D) I, IV, III, II

Detailed Explanation: First, she was a Beta worker in London (III). She went to the reservation with the Director and got lost/abandoned (I). While there, adhering to her conditioning of promiscuity, she slept with the married men of the village and was violently beaten by the wives (IV). Finally, returning to London, she consumed lethal amounts of soma until her death (II).

Q 90: Which character embodies the absolute ideal of the World State—cheerful, perfectly conditioned, obsessed with numbers and efficiency, and entirely unQing?

A) Henry Foster

B) Bernard Marx

C) Helmholtz Watson

D) Mustapha Mond

Detailed Explanation: Henry Foster is an Alpha male who perfectly fits his caste. He is highly efficient, constantly quotes statistics about the Hatchery, enjoys his sports and soma, and treats women (like Lenina) with the exact level of casual, unattached promiscuity the State demands.

Q 91: What does the Controller, Mustapha Mond, keep locked in his office safe?

A) The formula for synthesizing soma.

B) A collection of banned books, including Shakespeare, the Bible, and works of philosophy.

C) Biological weapons left over from the Nine Years' War.

D) The only surviving photograph of Henry Ford.

Detailed Explanation: Despite being the enforcer of the State's censorship, Mond is highly educated. He keeps the banned literature of the "old world" locked in his safe, demonstrating that the rulers of the utopia possess the very knowledge they deny to their citizens.

Q 92: Assertion (A): Mustapha Mond believes that a society can have both High Art (like Shakespeare) and universal happiness.

Reason (R): High art stimulates the intellect, which makes the lower castes more productive at their jobs.

A) Both (A) and (R) are true, and (R) is the correct explanation of (A).

B) Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A).

C) (A) is true, but (R) is false.

D) (A) is false, and (R) is false.

Detailed Explanation: Mond explicitly argues the exact opposite. He states that High Art and universal happiness are mutually exclusive. High Art requires tragedy, social instability, and deep emotional pain to exist. To achieve universal happiness, the State had to sacrifice High Art.

Q 93: What specific violent act does John the Savage commit in Malpais that isolates him further from the Native American community?

A) He burns down the kiva.

B) He stabs Popé with a knife.

C) He destroys Mitsima's pottery.

D) He murders a wild puma.

Detailed Explanation: Enraged by Popé's sexual relationship with his mother and deeply influenced by the vengeful themes of Shakespeare's Hamlet, young John attempts to murder Popé by stabbing him in the shoulder while he is sleeping. Popé merely laughs it off, further humiliating John.

Q 94: Which of the following is the best critical interpretation of Aldous Huxley's central warning in Brave New World?

A) That a totalitarian government will eventually control us through pain, surveillance, and torture.

B) That humanity will willingly surrender its freedom, art, and humanity in exchange for pleasure, comfort, and entertainment.

C) That artificial intelligence will eventually render human labor obsolete.

D) That religious fundamentalism will eventually lead to the destruction of science.

Detailed Explanation: Unlike George Orwell's 1984, which predicts a dystopia of pain and surveillance, Huxley's dystopia is built on pleasure. His central warning is that we will be destroyed by the things we love—entertainment, drugs, and comfort—which will make us willingly give up our capacity to think and feel.

Q 95: In Chapter 1, what object is used to condition the infant Deltas to experience terror so they will grow up to hate books and flowers?

A) A horrifying mask worn by the nurses.

B) A loud siren combined with an electric shock.

C) A spray of highly concentrated acid.

D) A violently shaking floor mechanism.

Detailed Explanation: In the Neo-Pavlovian Conditioning Rooms, babies are offered beautiful books and flowers. When they touch them, the nurses trigger terrifyingly loud alarm bells and mild electric shocks. This permanently wires their brains to associate literature and nature with pain.

Q 96: Multiple Statement: Regarding the character of Helmholtz Watson, which of the following are true?

I. He feels that he has "something important to say" but no words to express it.

II. He is an Alpha-Plus lecturer at the College of Emotional Engineering.

III. He is physically weak and heavily reliant on soma to get through his lectures.

IV. He ultimately chooses exile to a harsh climate to stimulate his writing.

A) I, II, and IV only

C) II, III, and IV only

B) I and II only

D) I, II, III, and IV

Detailed Explanation: Helmholtz is a brilliant Emotional Engineer (II) who feels stifled (I) and chooses the stormy Falkland Islands for exile (IV). Statement III is completely false; he is physically perfect, robust, and explicitly avoids taking soma because he wants to feel the reality of his own mind.

Q 97: When John the Savage tells Lenina he loves her and wants to marry her, how does she react?

A) She bursts into tears of joy and agrees.

B) She is horrified by the concept of marriage and immediately strips off her clothes to have sex with him.

C) She reports him to the Director for anti-social behavior.

D) She slaps him and runs away.

Detailed Explanation: Lenina is a product of her conditioning. The idea of marriage is obscene to her, but "everyone belongs to everyone else." She tries to express her affection the only way she knows how—through immediate, casual sex—which severely triggers John's Shakespearean, ascetic sense of morality.

Q 98: What is the "Cyprus Experiment" an allegory for within the political framework of the novel?

A) The failure of communist classless societies.

B) The dangers of uncontrolled biological warfare.

C) The success of religious fundamentalism in isolated areas.

D) The necessity of a harsh penal colony for dissidents.

Detailed Explanation: By placing only Alpha-Plus citizens on the island of Cyprus, the World State created a classless society of equals. It immediately devolved into a violent civil war because no one wanted to do the menial work. Huxley uses this to satirize the Marxist ideal of a classless society, suggesting social hierarchy is required for stability.

Q 99: Which character repeatedly uses the phrase, "Oh, Ford!" as an exclamation of surprise or frustration?

A) John the Savage

B) Fanny Crowne

C) Mustapha Mond

D) Lenina Crowne

Detailed Explanation: Lenina frequently exclaims "Oh, Ford!" (and sometimes "Ford!" or "Strictly Fordian"). This is a satirical replacement for "Oh, God!" or "Oh, Lord!", highlighting how deeply consumerism and technology have replaced traditional religious swearing in the citizens' daily vocabulary.

Q 100: At the very end of the novel, the crowd that gathers at the lighthouse to watch John the Savage chant, "We want the _____!" (Fill in the blank).

A) Whip

B) Soma

C) Feely

D) Orgy

Detailed Explanation: Having seen the blockbuster feely The Savage of Surrey, the massive, shallow crowd arrives at the lighthouse treating John as an animal in a zoo. They rhythmically chant, "We want the whip!" demanding that he perform his agonizing self-flagellation purely for their mindless entertainment.

8. Complete the famous quote: "A foolish consistency is the _____ of little minds, adored by little statesmen and philosophers and divines."

A) hobgoblin

B) tragedy

C) master

D) downfall

9. "To be great is to be misunderstood." Which of the following is the BEST explanation for this quote?

A) If people understand you, it means you are not communicating effectively.

B) Great thinkers often propose ideas so novel and unconventional that the masses reject or fail to grasp them at first.

C) You should purposefully speak in riddles to appear more intelligent to your peers.

D) Only those who are isolated and lonely can achieve true greatness.

10. "My life is for itself and not for a spectacle." What is the meaning of this statement?

A) Emerson wants to live genuinely for his own sake, not to perform for or seek the approval of the public.

B) Emerson wishes he could be a famous actor but has accepted his life as a writer.

C) Life is too short to go to the theater or enjoy entertainment.

D) A self-reliant person must hide their actions from everyone else.

11. Emerson uses the word "ephemera" in his essay. What does "ephemeral" or "ephemera" mean in context?

A) Something that lasts forever

B) Something that is highly valuable and expensive

C) Things that are transitory, fleeting, and short-lived

D) A specific type of ancient Greek philosophy

12. When Emerson speaks of someone possessing "éclat," what does he mean?

A) A deep sense of sorrow

B) Brilliant display, striking effect, or social acclaim

C) A severe lack of intelligence

A) Begging or relying on alms/charity from an outside source

B) Demanding and aggressive

C) Beautifully sung or chanted

D) Completely silent and meditative

14. He warns against "sycophantic" behavior. What is a sycophant?

A) A person who leads a rebellion

B) A self-taught genius

C) A person who acts obsequiously toward someone important in order to gain advantage; a flatterer

D) A person who refuses to speak to others

15. Emerson states that society is in a conspiracy against the "manhood" of its members to secure "suffrage." In this older context, what does "suffrage" most nearly mean?

A) Approval, consent, or a vote of support

B) Deep physical suffering

C) Financial wealth

D) Military power

16. Emerson lists several historical figures to prove a point. Which of the following groups of names did Emerson explicitly list to prove that "to be great is to be misunderstood"?

A) Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Adams

B) Pythagoras, Socrates, Jesus, Luther, Copernicus, Galileo, and Newton

C) Shakespeare, Milton, Dante, Homer

D) Caesar, Alexander the Great, Napoleon, Charlemagne

17. Match the metaphor to its meaning in the essay: Emerson compares society to a "joint-stock company." What does this comparison imply?

A) Society exists to make everyone wealthy through shared investments.

B) Society is constantly going bankrupt and needs new leadership.

C) Members surrender their individual liberty to ensure the physical/financial security of the whole.

D) Society is driven purely by technological innovation.

18. Match the concept of "Property" to Emerson's philosophical view of it in the essay:

A) Property is the highest measure of a civilized man.

B) Property is an illusion that should be violently overthrown.

C) Reliance on property is a lack of self-reliance; a person's true value is internal, not external.

D) Property should only be acquired through manual labor, not inheritance.

19. Which of the following best matches Emerson's concept of "Spontaneity" or "Instinct"?

A) A dangerous urge that must be suppressed by logic and reason.

B) The essence of genius, virtue, and life; the divine intuition within us.

C) A chaotic force that causes societal collapse.

D) The result of reading too many romantic novels.

20. How does Emerson open the essay "Self-Reliance"?

A) By immediately quoting Jesus and Socrates.

B) By defining the word "conformity" in a dictionary sense.

C) By recounting his experience of reading some verses written by an eminent painter, noting they possessed an unconventional originality.

D) By attacking the political parties of his day.

21. In the first third of the essay, Emerson focuses heavily on the nature of the individual mind. Where does he primarily shift his critique to in the middle/latter half of the essay?

A) He shifts to a critique of nature and the wilderness.

B) He shifts to a critique of social institutions, including religion, education, art, and property.

C) He shifts to a detailed plan for American economic reform.

D) He shifts to a memoir about his childhood in Boston.

22. Which sequence best represents the chronological progression of Emerson's argument regarding "consistency"?

A) He praises consistency -> he questions it -> he concludes it is divine.

B) He introduces the public's fear of inconsistency -> he ridicules this fear as a "hobgoblin" -> he urges the reader to speak their truth today, even if it contradicts yesterday.

C) He defines consistency -> he proves that all great men were consistent -> he attacks inconsistency.

D) He shows how society is inconsistent -> he demands that laws become more consistent -> he abandons the topic.

23. Toward the end of the essay, Emerson makes a chronological reference to the evolution of society (the "civilized man"). What is his specific argument about societal "progress"?

A) Society is advancing rapidly and humans are spiritually better off than ever.

B) Society never advances; it only recedes and dies.

C) Society undergoes a wave-like change: it acquires new arts and technologies but loses old instincts and physical vigor in the process.

D) Society will reach perfection within the next century.

24. In the essay's concluding paragraphs, what does Emerson say is the ONLY thing that can bring you true peace?

A) The triumph of principles and yourself

B) The forgiveness of your family and friends

C) The accumulation of enough wealth to retire

D) Traveling to a foreign country where no one knows you

25. When discussing the source of true independence chronologically, which "age group" does Emerson first praise for naturally demonstrating perfect, unabashed self-reliance before society corrupts them?

A) The elderly

B) Middle-aged workers

C) Infants and young boys

D) College students

26. According to Emerson, what is the only law that can be considered truly sacred to an individual?

A) The laws of the federal government

B) The moral laws of the church

C) The law of one's own nature and mind

D) The ancient laws of philosophy

27. What does Emerson suggest a person should do if they have an urge to contradict what they said yesterday?

A) Keep quiet so as not to confuse their followers.

B) Speak today's truth as strongly as yesterday's, even if it contradicts it entirely.

C) Apologize for yesterday's mistake before speaking today's truth.

D) Consult with a trusted friend before making a public statement.

28. How does Emerson view the concept of "imitation" in the context of human education?

A) It is the fastest way to learn.

B) It is a necessary stepping stone to originality.

C) It is suicide to one's true self.

D) It is the highest compliment one can pay to a genius.

29. What is Emerson's attitude toward traditional prayer?

A) He believes it is a beautiful expression of community.

B) He thinks it should only be done in complete silence.

C) He views it as a disease of the will, calling it "mendicant" because it begs for things rather than acting.

D) He believes it is the only way to achieve true self-reliance.

30. According to the essay, what happens to a person's relationship with nature when they become truly self-reliant?

A) They master nature and use it for financial gain.

B) They realize they are superior to all plants and animals.

C) They live in the present moment, much like the roses outside his window that do not worry about the past or future.

D) They feel a strong desire to abandon society and live entirely in the woods.

31. "There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is _____."

A) suicide

B) flattering

C) foolish

D) temporary

32. "Nothing is at last sacred but the _____."

A) integrity of your own mind

B) love of your family

C) traditions of your ancestors

D) wealth you accumulate

33. "I am ashamed to think how easily we capitulate to badges and names, to large societies and dead institutions." What does this quote imply?

A) People should design better badges and names for themselves.

B) Emerson is embarrassed by how quickly individuals surrender their own judgment to titles, authority, and tradition.

C) Emerson feels shame that he is not a member of a large society.

D) Institutions should be abolished by the government.

34. "What I must do is all that concerns me, not what the people think." Why is this statement central to the essay?

A) It proves Emerson did not care about the law.

B) It highlights the essay's core tenet: prioritizing internal moral duty over external societal approval.

C) It shows Emerson's desire to become a politician.

D) It reflects his hatred for the common people.

35. "A great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude." What does this mean?

A) A truly great person refuses to speak to anyone in a crowd.

B) Greatness is found by physically living far away from other humans.

C) True greatness is maintaining one's independent thought and inner peace even when surrounded by the pressures of society.

D) Only those who are sweet and polite can achieve greatness.

36. Emerson speaks of a person who will "capitulate" to badges and names. What does "capitulate" mean?

A) To surrender or give in

B) To aggressively attack

C) To secretly admire

A) Openly rebellious

B) Completely indifferent

C) Obedient or attentive to an excessive or servile degree

D) Secretly plotting to steal

39. Emerson uses the word "churl" when describing how people might view someone who withdraws from societal expectations. What is a "churl"?

A) A brilliant scholar

B) A religious leader

C) An impolite, mean-spirited, or boorish person

D) A wealthy aristocrat

40. Emerson references "titular" leaders or virtues. What does "titular" mean?

A) Holding a formal position or title without any real authority or true substance

B) Having immense physical strength

C) Being universally loved by the public

D) Having a tendency to gossip

41. Match Emerson's view on "Fortune" to its meaning in the essay:

A) Fortune favors the bold, so one should take massive financial risks.

B) A self-reliant person does not rely on the "wheel of Chance" or Fortune, but finds stability and victory within themselves.

C) Fortune is a gift from God that only the righteous receive.

D) Fortune is purely determined by one's family lineage.

42. Connect the metaphor of "the rose" to its meaning in Emerson's philosophy:

A) The rose represents the fragility of human life.

B) The rose symbolizes the need for constant societal nurturing.

C) The rose lives perfectly in the present moment, completely itself, without reverence for its past or anxiety for its future.

D) The rose shows that beauty is the only thing worth pursuing.

43. Match Emerson's view of "Art" (specifically imitating foreign art) with his overarching argument:

A) We should copy European art perfectly until we master it.

B) True American art will only emerge when creators stop imitating foreign masters and instead express their own unique, local genius.

C) Art is a distraction from the hard work of building a nation.

D) Only classical Greek art is worth studying.

44. Match the concept of "Isolation" to Emerson's practical advice for the self-reliant person:

A) Isolation must be physical; you must move to the wilderness to be free.

B) Isolation should only happen when you are angry with your family.

C) True isolation is spiritual and mental; you can be "isolated" in your independent thought even while living in a bustling city.

D) Isolation is a punishment for those who break the law.

45. Connect the idea of "Regret" to Emerson's philosophy:

A) Regret is a sign of a strong conscience.

B) Regret is a necessary step before seeking forgiveness from society.

C) Regret, like false prayer, is a disease of the will and a waste of time; one should act in the present instead.

D) Regret should be written down in a journal daily.

46. In the structure of the essay, when does Emerson explicitly tackle the four specific areas where society needs reform (Religion, Education, Art, Property)?

A) In the very first paragraph

B) In the exact middle of the essay, before discussing intuition

C) In the final section of the essay, applying his abstract ideas to practical societal institutions

D) He scatters them randomly without a specific section

47. When analyzing the evolution of his argument about the "Self," what chronological progression does Emerson make?

A) He starts by praising society, then critiques the self, then returns to society.

B) He begins with the individual's inner intuition, moves to how society attacks that intuition, and finally explains how to apply that intuition to practical life.

C) He starts with economics, moves to religion, and ends on child psychology.

D) He begins by analyzing historical figures and ends by analyzing himself.

48. In his chronological examples of individuals who possess natural self-reliance, who does he analyze immediately after discussing infants/babies?

A) "The nonchalance of boys" (youths/teenagers)

B) The elderly

C) Kings and queens

D) Philosophers in ancient Greece

49. Toward the essay's conclusion, Emerson chronologically outlines how a civilized man changes over time. He states that for every piece of technology the civilized man gains (like a coach or a watch), he loses what?

A) His financial wealth

B) His political freedom

C) His natural physical vigor and innate abilities (like the use of his feet or his natural ability to tell time by the sun).

D) His ability to read and write

50. What is the final, overarching sentence/idea that Emerson uses to chronologically close the essay?

A) "Let us build our own world."

B) "Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles."

C) "Whoso would be a man must be a nonconformist."

D) "Trust thyself: every heart vibrates to that iron string."

51. How does Emerson view the study of history and past heroes?

A) He believes we must memorize history to avoid repeating its mistakes.

B) He views history as the ultimate guide to living a moral life.

C) He believes we rely too heavily on the past and should instead recognize that our own present intuition is just as sacred.

D) He argues that all historical records are entirely fictional.

52. What does Emerson suggest is the proper relationship between a self-reliant person and their family/friends?

A) One should always lie to keep the peace and make loved ones happy.

B) One must speak their own truth, even if it displeases or alienates their family and friends.

C) Family should always come before one's own personal intuition.

D) A self-reliant person must completely abandon all relationships and live alone.

53. How does Emerson argue we should handle the "sour faces" or disapproval of the crowd?

A) We should try to appease them and explain our actions until they understand.

B) We should change our behavior immediately to avoid being outcasts.

C) We should become angry and fight back physically.

D) We should treat their disapproval with indifference, just as we should treat their praise.

54. According to Emerson, what is the ultimate source of truth and virtue?

A) The Bible and religious scriptures

B) The laws written by the government

C) Intuition and the "aboriginal Self"

D) The consensus of the majority

55. How does Emerson view the societal pursuit of property and material wealth?

A) As the best way to secure freedom and independence

B) As a distraction that causes people to measure their worth by what they have, rather than what they are

C) As a noble goal that every American should prioritize

D) As something that only the intellectual elite should be allowed to pursue

56. "Society is a wave. The wave moves onward, but the water of which it is composed does not." What is the meaning of this metaphor?

A) Society is constantly drowning the individual.

B) While society changes its superficial forms and technologies, the fundamental nature of the individual remains the same.

C) The ocean is the only true source of spiritual purity.

D) People must learn to "go with the flow" to survive in the modern world.

57. "I must be myself. I cannot break myself any longer for you, or you." What does this declare?

A) Emerson's physical body is failing due to hard labor.

B) Emerson is resigning from his job as a minister.

C) Emerson's refusal to bend his identity or conform to the expectations of his peers.

D) Emerson's desire to break societal laws regarding property.

58. "Insist on yourself; never imitate." Why does Emerson give this command?

A) Because your own unique gift is the only thing you can do best; copying others makes you second-rate.

B) Because copyright laws were becoming stricter in the 19th century.

C) Because imitating others is a sign of extreme intelligence that makes others jealous.

D) Because you should only imitate ancient philosophers, not modern ones.

59. "The voyage of the best ship is a zigzag line of a hundred tacks." What concept is Emerson illustrating here?

A) The dangers of traveling across the Atlantic Ocean.

B) People change their minds because they are inherently weak and easily swayed by the wind.

C) A life lived randomly without any goals is the most beautiful life.

D) Actions that seem contradictory or inconsistent in the short term often align into a purposeful, coherent path over a lifetime.

60. "If I am the Devil's child, I will live then from the Devil." What shocking point is Emerson making?

A) He has joined a dark, occult religion.

B) He believes humans are naturally evil and should act maliciously.

C) He will act according to his own true nature, even if orthodox society wrongly labels that nature as "evil."

D) He is warning the reader about the literal presence of demons in society.

61. "The virtue in most request is conformity. Self-reliance is its aversion." What does "aversion" mean in this context?

A) A strong dislike or firm opposition to something

B) A secret partnership

C) A lower, inferior version

D) A legal requirement

62. Emerson refers to the "aboriginal" Self. What does "aboriginal" mean in this context?

A) Uneducated and foolish

B) Existing from the very beginning; native, original, and innate

C) Arriving from a foreign country

D) Deeply religious

63. Emerson mentions the danger of "antinomianism." What does this mean?

A) The belief in multiple gods

B) The strict adherence to every law written by man

C) The belief that one is freed from the moral law or social norms by grace or inner spiritual truth

D) The fear of spiders

64. He writes about not trying to "conciliate" the crowd. What does "conciliate" mean?

- A) To educate or teach
- B) To stop from entering a building
- C) To pacify, appease, or win over
- D) To publicly mock or humiliate

65. Emerson speaks of giving "alms" to a ruined man. What are alms?

- A) Severe punishments
- B) Words of encouragement
- C) Money or food given freely to the poor as charity
- D) Weapons for self-defense

66. Match Emerson's concept of "Genius" with its definition in the essay:

- A) The ability to memorize and recite the works of great poets.
- B) The ability to invent new technologies and machines.
- C) Believing that what is true for you in your private heart is true for all humanity.
- D) Earning a high degree from a prestigious university.

67. Match "Consistency" with its visual metaphor used by Emerson:

A) A beautiful, soaring eagle.

B) A corpse being dragged around out of a fear of contradicting one's past.

C) A strong brick wall that protects a city.

D) A mirror reflecting the sky.

68. Connect the concept of "Charity" with Emerson's personal reaction to it:

A) He resents the social obligation to give to distant causes and feels he often gives his money "wickedly."

B) He feels it is his highest moral duty and donates daily.

C) He believes the government should ban all charities.

D) He thinks charity should only be given to artists.

69. Match the idea of the "Soul" to Emerson's description of its relationship to Space and Time:

A) The soul is trapped entirely within the bounds of time.

B) The soul is a product of its historical era and physical geography.

C) The soul is light; it transcends both space and time, existing perfectly in the present.

D) The soul takes thousands of years to travel through space.

70. Connect the idea of "Foreign Travel" with Emerson's critique of it:

A) It is the best way to find a better government.

B) It is a "fool's paradise" because a sad man takes his sadness with him wherever he goes.

C) It is too expensive for the common person and should be subsidized.

D) It is only useful if you write a book about it afterward.

71. In the opening paragraphs, which group of historical figures does Emerson immediately list to prove that great minds ignore the authority of books and traditions?

A) Moses, Plato, and Milton

B) Washington, Franklin, and Jefferson

C) Homer, Dante, and Shakespeare

D) Locke, Bacon, and Newton

72. Chronologically, when Emerson discusses the dangers of philanthropy early in the essay, which specific social movement of his day does he refuse to blindly support just for the sake of looking good?

A) The temperance movement

B) The women's suffrage movement

C) The abolitionist movement (specifically, distant causes he feels disconnected from)

D) The labor union movement

73. In the latter half of the essay, Emerson critiques four major pillars of society. Which sequence correctly identifies them?

A) Agriculture, Industry, Trade, Banking

B) Religion, Education/Culture, Art, Property/Society

C) Family, Marriage, Childhood, Old Age

D) Monarchy, Democracy, Anarchy, Theocracy

74. Toward the end of the essay, when discussing the fallacy of property, what does Emerson say a self-reliant man should do if his wealth is wiped out by a storm or bank failure?

A) He should sue the bank and the government.

B) He should rely on his neighbors for support.

C) He should recognize that his true worth is internal and remain intellectually and spiritually steadfast.

D) He should travel to Europe to start a new life.

75. In the essay's final breakdown of societal issues, what does Emerson explicitly tell Americans they must stop studying and copying?

A) The technological advancements of Asia

B) The economic strategies of South America

C) The literature, art, and traditions of Europe and antiquity

D) The agricultural methods of Native Americans

76. How does Emerson contrast the "sturdy lad from New Hampshire or Vermont" with the young men of the city?

A) The city men are more educated and thus more self-reliant.

B) The country lad tries many professions, fails, rises again, and is truly independent, while the city youth despairs if his single career path fails.

C) The country lad is physically stronger but lacks the intelligence to succeed in business.

D) He believes both are equally corrupted by society's expectations.

77. What does Emerson believe about taking oaths, making pledges, or joining political parties?

A) They are necessary steps for a man to prove his loyalty to his country.

B) They are harmless social customs that build community.

C) They restrict an individual's freedom to change their mind and act on their present intuition.

D) They should only be done if financial compensation is provided.

78. How does Emerson describe the relationship between a truly self-reliant man and his physical environment (time and space)?

A) A true man is a product of his specific time and place and cannot transcend it.

B) A true man must travel to ancient cities to understand his place in the universe.

C) A true man belongs to no other time or place, but is the center of things; where he is, there is nature.

D) A true man is always trying to escape his current environment.

79. According to Emerson, what is the ultimate result of a society that relies too heavily on property and external wealth?

A) It becomes a utopian society free of poverty.

B) It loses its self-reliance, measuring a person's worth by what they own rather than who they are.

C) It develops a stronger, more robust political system.

D) It eventually shares all its wealth equally among its citizens.

80. What does Emerson mean when he urges individuals to "work in our own fields"?

A) Every American should literally become a farmer.

C) We should only work outdoors to be closer to nature.

D) We should aggressively take over the fields and industries of foreign nations.

81. "An institution is the lengthened shadow of one man." What does this famous quote mean?

A) Great institutions and movements originate from the powerful, original thought of a single self-reliant individual.

B) Institutions are dark, shadowy places that hide the truth from the public.

C) One man can easily destroy an entire institution if he is angry enough.

D) As a man grows older, his influence on society fades like a shadow.

82. "I shun father and mother and wife and brother, when my genius calls me." What controversial point is Emerson making?

- A) He advocates for the complete dissolution of the family unit.
- B) Genius can only be achieved by people who have no living relatives.
- C) He hated his own family and used this essay to publicly insult them.

D) He believes that spiritual and intellectual duty to one's own inner truth trumps conventional family obligations and expectations.

83. "Your own gift you can present every moment with the cumulative force of a whole life's cultivation; but of the adopted talent of another, you have only an extemporaneous, half possession." What is the meaning here?

- A) You should always buy gifts for others to show your wealth.

B) You can only truly master and powerfully express your own innate talents; copying someone else's skills leaves you as a mere amateur.

- C) Adopted children are less talented than biological children.
- D) It takes a whole lifetime to learn how to paint or sculpt properly.

84. "He who knows that power is inborn, that he is weak because he has looked for good out of him and elsewhere... throws himself unhesitatingly on his thought, instantly rights himself..." What does this describe?

A) The moment a person realizes that true strength comes from within, not from seeking external validation.

- B) The physical recovery of a sick person.
- C) The process of learning how to swim in the ocean.
- D) A man relying on his neighbors to build his house.

85. "We are like children who repeat by rote the sentences of grandames and tutors..." What is Emerson criticizing in this quote?
